Bob Whitely Leads 'Sing' Campaign

Senior Deadline

Saturday noon marks the deadline that is absolutely the last moment at which seniors will have an opportunity to order their caps, gowns, cards, and announcements for graduation. These things should be ordered at the Co-op store by 12:00, since the store is closed that afternoon, M. F. McClain, manager of the Co-op, announced.

Independents Tap Choices

By EDITH NEWTON

Politics again took the spotlight on the campus as independent students held a mass meeting last night to nominate candidates to fill the offices of the ISA for another year.

Students nominated for members at large were Dick Walling, Leighton Platt, and Al Larsen. Two of these will be elected, one to serve as president of ISA senate and the other to be president of the cabinet.

Senior Representative

Candidates for the senior representative are Alene Gardner and Paul Thurston. Junior nominees are Aaron Jones, Audrey Lynds, and Norman Mannheimer. Sophomore candidates are Felix Asla, Malcolm McCallum, Marian Schaefer, Audrey Holliday, Louise Rickabaugh, and Doris Nordstrom.

Elections are set for Tuesday from 1 to 5 in the afternoon at Gerlinger hall. Max Brown, head of the election board will be in charge of polling. All independents are eligible to vote and names will be checked off a ballot list that will include all independents.

Independents showed a lot of spirit at the meeting was the general conclusion when R. H. Ernst, professor of English, had to come up to request the group be quieter to enable him to address his evening class which was meeting downstairs.

Accomplishments

Gerry Huestis, who presided at the meeting, reviewed the accomplishments of the ISA during the past year and commented that 50 per cent of the appointments for campus activities during the last year have gone to independents although the top positions went to Greeks.

"At least the Greeks can't say the independents aren't interested in activities," Huestis told the group.

Milton Small reviewed the accomplishments of the senate and congratulated all independents on their participation in campus elections. He said there was approximately a 25 per cent greater independent vote than usual this year.

George Moshier, head of the political committee, and Elaine Lee, chairman of the social committee were congratulated for their work by Small.

The new candidates were introduced and made short speeches concerning their policies for next year and experience.

Fourteen gifts and grants totaling $10,227 were accepted by the University of Wisconsin board of regents at a recent meeting.

Into high gear Wednesday went the campaign for Wintergreen, when Bob Whitely, junior in business administration, was named by Junior Weekend heads as campaign manager of the "Of Thee I Sing" presidential candidate.

Cohorts of Wintergreen are now wearing tags boosting their candidate. These tags will be prominently displayed during the all-campus rally to be held this Friday.

Rally

The rally will start at 6 p.m. Friday at the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. There will be four halts along the rally procession during which a program will be given.

The program will consist of an introduction of the queen-inspired song, "Of Thee I Sing, Ellie," and Queen Eleanor Engdahl and her court will be introduced. The three main leads of the Pulitzer-prize musical comedy, which is taking the place of the traditional canoe fete, will also be introduced.

Political Signs

The president of each campus living organization should make sure that his political sign for the rally is ready by the correct time Friday. These signs will be displayed by the Wintergreen standard-bearers.

Clint Paine, chairman of the rally squad, will have charge of all signs for the rally.

The route of the rally is as follows:

From the ATO house along Nineteenth to University. First halt.

Along Nineteenth to Alder, up Alder to Fifteenth. Second halt.

Down Kincaid to Thirteenth, then along Alder to the Fiji house. Third halt.

Down Alder, Eleventh to Alpha Phi house. Last halt.

Art Instructor Displays Works in Little Art Gallery

Visitors at the Little Art gallery during the past week have found an unusually interesting display of drawing and painting representing the work of Jack Wilkinson, instructor in drawing and painting.

Part of this one-man show was done by Mr. Wilkinson while he was in Europe in 1938 and 1939 on a Phelan traveling scholarship awarded him by the San Francisco Art association.

Mr. Wilkinson won the scholarship in 1937 but stayed in the United States for another year to assist an artist who was finishing a department of justice mural.

First Traveled

On the scholarship the painter first traveled through Belgium and Holland, then settled in Paris to study at the Accademie Ranson.

Later he traveled through Italy and did extensive studying there. Leaving Italy he returned to France and settled at Aix en Provence to study in the country of other artists.

Returning to the United States Mr. Wilkinson stayed in New York to study at the Metropolitan museum.

Past Exhibits

In the past the University instructor has had exhibits at the San Francisco museum of art, the Chicago art institute, the Royal Academy in Montreal, the Portland art museum, and various other museums.

The mural in the post office at Burns, Oregon, was done by Mr. Wilkinson. He entered the sketches for it in national competition and won the opportunity to do the wall decoration for the federal section of fine arts.

Interest in Form

The display now being shown in the Little Art gallery illustrates the artist's interest in form. Pleasant little watercolors, figure studies, portraits, and landscapes are exhibited.

Simple, strong figures, characteristic of his style, are prominent in the display that fills the entire gallery. The portraits and composition studies shown are especially striking.

The display, open to all students and townspeople, will continue until May 1.

W.A.A.

whether she is qualified to become a member is also urged to call Beverly at Hendricks hall.

Many advantages are derived from membership in WAA, such as, the privilege of holding an office, voting, and of serving as chairman for the various committees.

WAA heads all intramural sports, holds a demonstration for freshman women fall term, and sponsors the Amphibian club. Could go on and on but enough for now.

Future Flyers

He explained that this meeting will prepare students for the visit of the army air corps examining board which will be in Eugene May 11 to give physical and IQ tests to men who enlist.

Special feature of the new deferred training plan is the small lapel emblems which will be given all enlistees to indicate their pledge.

Shopping the Town

By ELAINE DAHL

A worm's-eye view (and a Book Worm at that) of shopping, with no rationing of Fashion revealed yet, at least.

THE MOON IS DOWN,

but it doesn't really matter because when you wear this jacket dress from Broadway's you won't need any moonlight. This is one dress that can go places—practically anywhere—and you'll still be proud of it. The dress in brown and maize print on a light background, is tailored, with short sleeves. The jacket—with long sleeves—is in plain maize linspun with covered buttons down the front, and for a highlight a monogram done in the same print as the dress. Sizes 14 to 20, and $19.95 at the Broadway.

FOR SITTING UNDER THE NUTMEG TREE—

if you do—we'd certainly recommend Montgomery Ward's slack suits—and for any other kind of picnic or outing that demands smartness and durability. These are in strutter cloth and three-piece: slacks, jumper top, and separate white blouse, with either navy, light blue or Oregon green. Jumper tops have fitted waists with button closing, slit pockets with white trim. All sizes, $7.98.

ADDRESS UNKNOWN

is what this latest cigarette case from Tiffany-Davis suggests—although in this case it should be address known. It's just a little larger than a postcard and up in the righthand corner there's a two-cent stamp and a Eugene postmark. Your name and address is added in a special ink that doesn't come off; and stamp and all, it's yours for $1.25 in white enamel, blue enamel, or gold finish.

KING'S ROW,

or Fifth Avenue, you'll be proud to trip down the street in one of the Graff Blouses from Beards that come in big flashing prints, neat Roman stripes, and a whole range of colors: cinnamon, ginger, beige, blue and red. Beards have them in all sizes; washable, fast color, with long sleeves and pearl button trim. $1.98 to $2.95.

SARATOGA TRUNK,

or anyone's trunk should be packed with the dickeres that Millers have. Millers stock them in a big assortment of colors—pink, blue, beige, aqua, green, white, red, as well as multi-colors in various styles of slub rayon, rayon crepe, and pique. $1.19 to $1.25.

SWIFT FLOWS THE RIVER,

but you'll probably want to stay on the bank if you wear the Catalina swim suits that Kaufmans have. One that really has a future is in black latex, decked out with red feather-stitching. It's a two-piece and is available in practically all sizes for $5.95. So far there's nothing synthetic about the latex models and styles that we saw in beach wear—and they have lots of them.
