

AirCorpsMen Cancel Film; Present Talk

"Too rah-rah and Joe College to appeal to the type of men interested in the Army air force" was the description given of the cadet training forces scheduled for showing by representatives of the air force last night in Villard. For these reasons, Lt. Col. William A. Matheny, head of the delegation announced their cancellation.

To the assemblage of Oregon men, he stressed the serious aspects of cadet-reserve enlistment. Three things, he said, are being offered by the Army Air forces. They are: adventure throughout the world; technical and academic training; and speedy advancement with beginning pay of $245 a month as officers.

He continued that since the Army wants its men to get as much education as possible, and it is to be reasonably hoped that, unless a stringent need arises, men who enlist under the reserve basis, will be permitted to finish their college.

This officer also placed great emphasis on the rapid expansion being made in the U.S. air force. "Last year enlargement began in the little skeleton air force. By next year we are going to have

Silent Male Takes Pill Palace Part

It's a woman's world even in the infirmary, and Russell Fryburg is playing his part to perfection. He can't get a word in edgewise—Mr. Fryburg lost his voice the other day, and hasn't been able to talk since then.

Pat Doherty was sent to the Sacred Heart hospital Thursday noon for an appendectomy. The operation was performed in the afternoon, and the patient is reported doing nicely.

Patients still reclining in the Pill Palace are Mary Reimers, Molly Douglas, Marie Gabel, Jean Kabisius, Russell Fryburg, and Gordon Parr.

the greatest air army not only in numbers but in quality."

Both Matheny and Lt. C. H. Brainard, also spoke, emphasized the varied training offered in the air force. "You will not only be trained to fly, but also to be an officer, to lead men," Brainard, the first pilot to fly a V-17 airplane, said.

Brainard stated that he will be at the men's PE building today to meet interested students, and answer their questions. It was also announced that the group will return next Wednesday, May 13, for further contact work. At that time, Matheny said, men planning to sign up should have ready the required three letters of recommendation, birth certificates, and letters of permission from parents, if necessary.

Last Showing Today For Seabeck Movies

Seabeck Summer conference movies were shown this week at different living organizations. The films which pictured a typical day, were made last year at the conference center, at Seabeck, Washington, on Hood's Canal.

Seabeck, a recreational, Christian study, and organization-leadership center, is sponsored yearly by the YWCA and YMCA.

Genevieve Working and Dan Bacot, cochairmen, announced that the conference is to be held June 13 to 21. Delegates from organizations, and Pacific Northwest college and University students may attend.

This summer Carl Sumner Knoff, president of Willamette University, will be the main speaker.

Mrs. Helen Hogue will present the love and marriage series.

A day's activity at Seabeck includes breakfast at 8, worship service at the Cathedral of Fire, the main address of the day, discussion by the various groups led by different faculty members, and recreation in the afternoon. At 4 p.m. love and marriage and organization leadership, are discussed and the fireside sing is held in the evening.

World Fellowship Day, on international student Christian work, occurs at mid-conference.

Dan Bacot stressed the enjoyment derived from the recreational facilities at Seabeck—swimming, boating, and various phases of outdoor sports.

Kitson Springs Trip Set for Wesley House

The annual Wesley Retreat will be at Kitson Springs this weekend, May 2 and 3. Edith Newton, Velita Estey, and Murray Adamson are general cochairmen.

The theme for discussion groups will be "Grant Us Wisdom, Grant Us Courage." Leslie Brockelbank and Genevieve Working are in charge of programs.

Students are leaving Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, taking their lunches with them. Transportation will be $1, and $2 for room and board.

Those wishing to go should call Louise Rickabaugh by 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Christianson Injured In 'Shack' Accident

Ken Christianson, last year's co-sports editor of the Emerald, received several severe lacerations on the face and body last night as a result of an accident at the Emerald shack.

Christianson, a senior in advertising, was injured when a glass door swung back on him, breaking the panel of the door. The jagged pieces of glass were responsible for several painful incisions.

He was taken to the infirmary last night where he will be confined for "a few days."

An athletic field at the College of St. Scholastica, covers one-third of the 160-acre campus.
