For mothers on the campus for the annual Mothers' weekend held in conjunction with Junior Weekend a campus tour will be given to acquaint the Mothers with the University. The tour will start at 2 p.m. Saturday.

There will be student guides at the student health service, the physical education building, the museum of natural history (Condon hall), the library, and the department of home economics (Chapman hall). At the library the Nash and Burgess collections and the Philip Brooks Memorial library will be on display.

Houses Compete

Mothers attending the annual Mothers' Weekend will not only see the Oregon campus in a lively mood but also will aid their sons' and daughters' organizations toward winning a competition in registration. The competition is sponsored by the Oregon Mothers and winners will be announced at the all-campus luncheon.

Ray Packouz, Mothers' Weekend chairman, announced Wednesday that an accurate checking system will be used. A record will be kept on the class to which the sons and daughters should be credited.

Hours for registration are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. Tickets for the affair are being mailed out daily, together with a general program.

Members of the Mothers' Weekend committee are as follows:

Dorm Students

Dormitory and co-op students will not have to use their cards for sugar at this time since their living organizations are classed as institutions and they will be given sugar in proportion to what they have used in the past. Although students living in these places will be furnished with sugar they must register anyway since they may want sugar while they are home in the summer and the amount issued to the institution may not be enough to satisfy needs.

Fraternity and sorority members must use their own cards for the sugar they consume while living in their houses as well as while they are away from school in the summer.

Stamps in the ration book are numbered and can be used for only a certain length of time, which is specified by the office of price administration, and are only good for the purchase of a certain amount of sugar, which is also set by the OPA.

Nurses in Barrels? Pill Palace May Need New Annex

All out for "Of Thee I Sing"—and even the Pill Palace has come through with its share of allegiance. Quoting Nurse Pruen, "if any more of these 'Of Thee I Sing' girls come in asking for uniforms we'll be running around in barrels." So take a tip from a reliable source and don't be too shocked if the lonesome corridors of the infirmary soon resound with the wooden echoes of barrel staves.

Four forlorn students are keeping the doctors and nurses company. They are Marie Gabel, Bob Gilmore, Gordon Parr, and Veryl Santer.
