

Royalty Will Wear White

In tune with the times is this year's Junior Weekend royal court of beauties. From the Strauss romantic music of "Springtime in Vienna" to the mystic enchantment of "Arabian Nights" Junior Weekends have advanced.

The royalty of the "Of Thee I Sing" weekend of 1942 is streamlining everything that has been done in the past. With this note modern simplicity in mind the royal gowns are selected. Queen Ellie I will lead the coronation march dressed in a white percale dress. Adding that important touch is a white cotton lace bodice. It contrasts her slim waist with the many yards in the skirt.

Princesses Milodene Goss and Margaret Sleeper will be very decorative when they appear in their white percale dresses with blue rickrack trim. The square necklines of the dresses makes them smarter than smart. Princesses Frances Cox and Dorothy Greer's dresses are also white percale, but sparkle with bright red rickrack. In the coronation march Oregon beauty and patriotic colors will combine for a harmonious effect in the "Of Thee I Sing" theme.

Smiling 'Sedie' Reveals Many Hobbies, Activities

By BETTY ANN STEVENS

After wandering around in the dark for ten minutes somewhere behind the DU house, and finally stumbling into a circle of light, where there was an open door, we found the abode of the Coed of the Week, small, genuine Eleanor Sederstrom.

With a friendly smile and a pleasant, "Won't you come in? I just got back from a first aid meeting," "Sedie" led the way upstairs to her room, at the same time keeping up a running conversation about splints and bandages.

COED OF THE WEEK . . .

. . . Smiling Eleanor Sederstrom has scholarship to New York University for next year.

Activity Girl

Sitting Indian fashion, with blue slacks rolled up fisherman style, and her blond hair held back from her expressive face with a white ribbon, she smilingly admitted that her activities include Kwama, vice-president of Phi Theta, a student representative on the disciplinary committee, chairman of registration for Dads' day, secretary of Alpha Phi, chairman of the Sunlight serenade last year, treasurer of the sophomore Y. Commission, little major for the military ball, and being listed in this year's collegiate Who's Who, and working at the Co-op. She was also featured on the cover of the Emerald literary edition.—"Just odds and ends—that's been me," she added. "I've had a lot of fun out of it, though."

From Minnesota

She is living out of her sorority, Alpha Phi, this year, with two other Alpha Phis and a Gamma Phi—"It's just like a small sorority here. We have our own serenades and everything."

From Salem, where she has lived for nine years, "Sedie" came originally from Minnesota.

"Bridge, collecting records and horses," she stated matter-of-factly as her outside interests.

About the pig banks reposing on her bureau, she said, "I have four of them—oh, three, now! I broke the other one."

Music Lover, Too

"Records? I sort of like the in-between type—Strauss waltzes especially. My favorite record is 'Moonlight on the Campus.'" Going toward her record player, she asked, "Do you want to hear it? It's beautiful."

Against the strains of "Moonlight on the Campus," she wryly said, "I like too many things. That's the trouble. Too many hobbies—too many things I want to do—"

"Things I don't like?" She paused, hunched her shoulders, and quickly declared, "I don't like rainy spring terms—especially my last one."

"Statement about men?" She laughed, engagingly, then declared, "Let's just leave that out."

As to future plans, "It's sort of up in the air as yet." She has a retailing scholarship to New York University for one year, or she could work at merchandising in Portland, which she would rather do, to be nearer home.

With a helpless laugh, she added, "I can't think of another thing to tell you. You've heard all about my life in ten minutes."

Wedding Set For June 23

Miniature airplanes with scrolls told Alpha Xi Delta sorority sisters last Friday night that Miss Geraldine Barry will become the bride of Lieutenant Ralph Griffin June 23 in Phoenix, Arizona.

Red, white, and blue decorations were used at the announcement party, and a large parachute was arranged from the ceiling.

Miss Barry is a junior on the campus and well-known for her musical talents. Lieutenant Griffin is with the army air corps at Luke field in Phoenix. He attended Montana State college and is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.
