

BOOK OF THE WEEK

CARL GLICK, "Shake Hands With the Dragon."

In this delightfully humorous book Carl Glick, a very unathletic manager of a gym for Chinese youth in Chinatown, confesses that he first went to work among the Chinese with the fear of Fu Manchu, and the devil in his heart.

By doing everything wrong, according to the white man's ideas, Mr. Glick was in some manner doing things right, according to the Chinese way of thinking, and by so doing he became very intimately connected with the Chinese. His book pulls away the veil of opium smoke and bloody tong wars and shows a kindly, humor-loving, philosophic people.

Bits of their philosophy are revealed, along with glimpses of their culture, family life, customs, and their delight in humor.

Illustrative is the story of the small Chinese boy, who, having recently acquired a new baby brother, suggests to Glick that he purchase a football for the baby. Mr. Glick demurred, saying that a rattle would be a more appropriate gift, whereupon the boy said, "Buy football for baby, rattle for me."

The puzzled Mr. Glick having done so, the boy promptly exchanged with the baby, explaining that no one ever thought of getting a football for a baby, so when the baby was older he had no football, while by thus making an exchange the baby got the rattle and would have the football when he was old enough, the brother merely keeping it for him!

This smoothly-written story will delight anyone and should

New Phi Betes, Sig Xis Initiate

Formal initiation of new members of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary for liberal arts and sciences students, and Sigma Xi, national honorary for science students, took place last night at the Eugene hotel. Following the ceremony the members held a banquet at the hotel.

A toast for the new Phi Beta Kappas was given by Dr. A. R. Moore, professor of general physiology. Helen Angell, senior in journalism, responded for the Phi Beta Kappas.

F. N. Miller, director of the health service, gave a toast for the Sigma Xi members to which George Costello gave the response for the Sigma Xis.

The Phi Beta Kappa book award which is given annually to the sophomore who has been outstanding in scholarship was presented to Edith Onthank, sophomore in architecture and allied arts. Presentation was made by Celestine J. Sullivan Jr.

After the banquet the group went to hear Herbert M. Evans lecture in Chapman hall on the topic, "Recent Advances in Our Knowledge of the Pituitary Hormones."

Mr. Evans is a professor at the University of California.

Dr. Peterson Leaves For Research Work

Dr. T. S. Peterson, assistant professor of mathematics, will be gone from the campus for the duration on a leave of absence to do research work for the government.

Dr. Peterson, who has been here four years with the math department, was graduated from Cal Tech with a degree in engineering; he received his Ph.D. in math at Ohio State with a minor in physics. After teaching for two years at the University of Michigan, Mr. Peterson studied at the institute for advanced study at Princeton with Einstein.

Dr. Peterson will undergo a period of training at the thirteenth naval district in Seattle before he begins his actual research work in physics, "probably on the demagnetizing of ships," he said.

Dr. Peterson has just recently had a book published on algebra for college students.

From the Pulpit

By FLORA KIBLER

Unknown to most college students, the Eugene churches are holding services Sunday, as they have been doing throughout the year.

At the Baptist church in the morning Dr. Webster speaks on "Priceless Treasures." C. O. S. meeting is at 6:45, and the 8 o'clock service sermon is on "The Church and Prophecy," one of a series, same title.

Dr. S. E. Childers at the First Christian church is speaking on "Attitudes," at the morning service, and "Can Two Walk Together Except They Be Agreed?" at 7:30.

At the Presbyterian church Dr. N. K. Tully's sermon is "Sin and Its Forgiveness." Evening services have stopped till fall.

Father Bartlam's subject at St. Mary's Episcopal church is "The Present Availability of Jesus." Canterbury club meets in Gerlinger at 6:30, as usual.

At the Congregational church Professor John Casteel is speaking on "Doing the Will of God."

At St. Mary's Catholic church masses will be as usual: 8:45, 8, 9:30, and 10:30. There will be an Investiture ceremony for the Boy Scouts before 8 o'clock mass.

At the First Church of Christ, Scientist, the topic is "Mortal and Immortality."

Wesleyan chapel hour is 3 in 1: executive council at 5, cabinet meeting at 5:30, and a meeting for everyone at 6, with a potluck dinner. Honor guests are graduating seniors, and high school seniors, prospective members.

Westminster House morning arguments will be led by Dr. Means on "Why Worship?" At 6:30 Dr. Bernard will lead a discussion on "Students, Good and Bad," in answer to last week's talks on "Professors, Good and Bad."

Miss Maxine Blake, first grand vice president of Alpha Delta Pi, will be a guest at the ADPi house this weekend.

Music School . . .

Has Successful Season With Variety Offerings

By PEGGY OVERLAND

A year that witnessed the appearance of the Coolidge quartet, world-renowned string ensemble of chamber music; Bela Bartok, the Hungarian composer; a gigantic presentation of "The New World" by the choral union; three recitals by the Gleemen under the direction of John Stark Evans; and two concerts by the University band and symphony each, is finally ending. A more successful year in both the choice of entertainers and the response of the students and faculty, has not been enjoyed by the music school in a long time.

Bela Bartok

Bela Bartok opened the season in the fall with a lecture and a recital of his symphonic arrangements based on the native folk songs of his country. He was followed by a series of band and symphony concerts and three Gleemen recitals during the winter and spring, that were all exceptionally well received. The war had little effect on these concerts in relation to the size of the audiences that turned out for them.

Sigurd Nilssen

Sigurd Nilssen, bass-baritone and possessor of a wide musical background, was one of the outstanding features of the season in a musical recital. He is professor of voice at the school of music.

The Coolidge quartet was considered the main attraction of the year, except for the production of "The New Earth." William Kroll, first violin of the quartet, remarked that the audience was tremendous and he and his companions went wild over them.

"New Earth"

Eight hundred voices and musical instruments combined for the presentation of the gigantic production of "The New Earth" by the choral union and symphony. Highlighted as the main attraction of the year it drew a response that was unusually enthusiastic and was a fitting culmination of almost a year's work by Dean Kratt and the choral union.

The entire year was continuously given over to radio presentations and student and faculty recitals.
