

Mrs. Nelson Will Head 'Board' Coeds

Corrine Nelson, junior in journalism, was elected president of Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary, Tuesday evening following formal initiation of new members.

Other officers chosen were: Mary Louise Vincent, vice president; Adele Canada, secretary; Mary Ellen Smith, treasurer; Mildred Wilson, editor.

Initiation ritual was directed by outgoing president Billie Christensen, assisted by Helen Angell, Hope Hughes, and Elizabeth Steed.

New members include: Adele Canada, Marge Dibble, Eleanor Eggdahl, Mrs. Nelson, Miss Smith, Miss Vincent, Nancy Reisch, Betty Jane Biggs, Miss Wilson, and Abbie Jane White.

Initiation and election preceded a buffet luncheon at the home of Mrs. Donald M. Erb.

This would entail having free coaching from members of the company, all expenses paid, and a professional salary.

Lieut. Corley Visits

Lieutenant Vaughn Corley arrived from Annapolis, Maryland where he has been trained for a physical education post at St. Mary's college in California. He will be here for a week.

He is now in fighting trim for a position as coach and conditioner at the naval school, where he will work with Lieutenant Commander Tex Oliver. He reports that Oliver has assisted in starting a new class at Annapolis and will arrive in Eugene in about a week before going to St. Mary's.

Corley will leave next week with his wife, Bernice, and his son "Skipper." He stated that he likes the navy, but "I would rather be coaching football at Oregon under normal conditions."

McCailum Elected

Malcolm McCailum was elected chairman of the sophomore men's group of the YMCA for the coming year. This group has as its purpose service to the YMCA and to the campus.

Sidney L. Miller, former executive head of the bureau of business research at the University of Iowa, has been appointed assistant chief of the WPB transportation branch.

Kwamas Take 19 Initiates

Chosen on a basis of scholarship, activities, friendliness, and democratic spirit, 19 girls will be initiated into Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, May 24.

After initiation ceremonies conducted at the Delta Gamma house at 9 a.m., the girls will breakfast at the Anchorage and elect officers for next year. Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, may attend the ceremonies, according to Rohda Harkson, president of the group for the past year.

ews, Fred Kuhl, and Miss Nichols; night editors, Shirley Davis and Bob Edwards.

The position of advertising manager will be divided between four staff members next year, according to the new business manager. These positions will be handled by John Jensen, Cecil Sharp, Barbara Thompson and Russ Smelser.

Assistant and alternate advertising managers will be Bob Bryant, Shirley Davis, and Paul Thurston.

Other staff members included: Elizabeth Edmunds, national advertising manager; Leslie Brocklebank, office manager; Lois Claus, classified manager; Connie Fullmer, circulation.

Several additions to the staff will be announced next year.

Harold Olney, former associate editor, who is now serving in the army, was chosen as outstanding Emerald senior in journalism. His name will be added to the Turnbull-Hall honor plaque, Professor George Turnbull announced.

Sigma Delta Chi awards to the upper 10 per cent of the senior class in journalism were presented to Helen Angell and Buck Buchwach by C. M. Hulten, professor in journalism.

In Appreciation

As this year of war and disaster draws to a close, we wish to express our appreciation of the sincere loyalty and courage with which the students of the University of Oregon are facing a dark and uncertain future.

May we urge all of you, both men and women, to continue your University work that in so doing you may be better prepared to answer your call to service when it comes.

To our friends who have gone into active service, we wish the best of luck and a safe return.
