

Enrollment Decrease Doesn't Stop Artists

By EDITH NEWTON

A steady decrease in enrollment caused by the call of jobs in connection with defense work wasn't enough to stop the school of architecture and allied arts from having an eventful year.

Vacation time will find the art school still having classes with the aid of money from the annual Carnegie summer school grant that was awarded to Oregon this year.

Outstanding event of the year was the announcement of a $5,000 grant to the school for books, prints, and slides from the Carnegie institute.

Awarding Money

During spring term the awarding of the Ellen Pennell scholarship money brought awards to Nelson Sandgren, Don Martell, Donald Shirley, and Robert Forsythe.

Special honors were brought to the school when Lynn Alexander and Tom Hardy, senior and junior in art, had a one-man show of pottery work at the Oregon ceramics studio in Portland.

The annual Beaux Arts ball took the spotlight early in winter term and brought forth members of the art school in some rather amazing costumes designed to carry out the theme of "Nightmares."

Conspicuous by his absence has been Dean Ellis Lawrence who was granted sabbatical leave during spring term.

Students and faculty alike were glad to learn that the Little Art gallery was to be redecorated near the end of spring term. The remodeling is now nearly completed and the annual school exhibit of work done by students during the year is scheduled to open early next week in the newly decorated room.

During the year the Little Art gallery has been the scene of some outstanding exhibits of art work. Of special interest on the campus was the display of Lance W. Hart, who was a professor of drawing and painting here at the time of his death last spring.

H. E. Hudson, instructor in architecture, was missed by his students for a month during spring term while he was in Seattle doing defense work. Part time leave for the rest of the year was given to Fred A. Cuthbert, associate professor of landscape architecture, when he was called to defense work by the government.

Paper to Print Malkin's Work

Borys Malkin, student in the University science division, has received notice that his manuscript on Coccinellidae will appear in the Pan-Pacific Entomologist, early next year. Edith Onthank has done the illustrations for the article.

Coccinellidae is the scientific name for lady beetles.

Malkin is working on two other papers on Oregon beetles which he expects to be ready within the next few weeks. One paper is a catalog of Oregon lady beetles; the other a paper on northwestern beetles of the little known genus of Boletobius.

Malkin came to the United States from Poland three and a half years ago. He is attending the University on a scholarship from the national refugee service.

Believe It or Not
DON'T GUESS
CALL JESS GODLOVE
The Plumber
31 East 7th Ph. 547

NEXT MONDAY

GET YOUR CASH REBATE

AT THE

MAY 25th

'CO-OP'

GOOD LUCK SENIORS

Economy Grocery

STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES
AND VEGETABLES,
GARDEN'S BEST

Phone 818

104 E. Broadway

REPAINT

with our guaranteed paints. Prepare the house for fall term now.

REDECORATE

with our attractive wall-paper designs.

UNGER

Paint and Wallpaper Store
Ph. 749. 715 Will.

PICNIC

TIME

IS HERE

ATTENTION, house managers! Finer meats. Better satisfaction. If you want your picnic to go over with a bang... get NO JAX wieners and lunch meat for your sandwiches. They are sold at

EUGENE

PACKING CO.

675 Willamette Ph. 38

Jewett Contest Winners Listed

Helen Johnson, sophomore in arts and letters, was awarded $10 as first prize in the third inter-sectional Jewett speech contest held last night in Chapman hall. Her topic was "We Did It Before."

Three $5 winners were: William Moshofsky, speaking on "The Attainable Peace"; Charles Roffe—"The Church in the World Today"; and Eldon Jenne—"Americanism and the Constitution." Hobart Bird received a "And the Truth Shall Make You Free."

Judges for the contest were John L. Casteel, director of the speech division; K. E. Montgomery, instructor in speech; and Austin Ranney, graduate assistant in speech. Alyson Hale acted as chairman of the competition. The best speaker in each section of extemporaneous speech was selected to participate in the contest. One Jewett contest is held each term of the school year.

Congratulations Graduates

It has been a pleasure to serve you the best meals you had in college. We hope that you will not forget the most popular collegiate "hangout" . . . .

The Anchorage

Just off the Old Campus on the Millrace

Happy Days, Seniors

You are leaving the University with many fond memories of many enjoyable times both on the campus and in the house. The best of luck! And here's an idea for a token of your appreciation to your housemates:

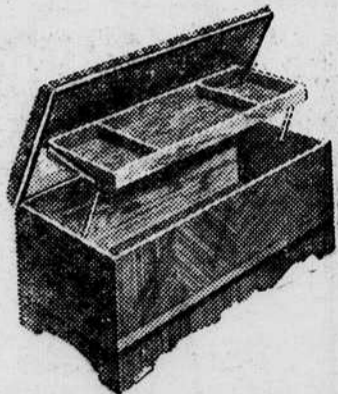

Glazed chintz-cover chair for sun porch or president's room.

$29.50

A lasting remembrance for the den—a portable radio. A swell gift for the graduate, too.

$29.50 up

Here's what a senior coed would love... genuine cedar chest with removable drawer.

$32.50 up

Graduation Gifts

- Desks
- Bookcases
- Lamps
- Small Wool Rugs
- Mirrors
- Hassocks
- Knick-knack Stand

JOHNSON FURNITURE CO.

649 Willamette

Phone 2693