

Ducks Meet Navy In '42 Opener

Local Office For Reserves Established

(See story page 8)

A special campus enlistment office under the direction of Lieutenant Robert G. Davis will be opened Monday afternoon in room 2 of the Commerce building for students who have not yet enlisted in any of the military reserve programs after registration is completed.

Students wishing to enlist in the reserves should obtain their application blanks from the desk that will be opened on the first floor of Johnson hall Monday.

Open Hours

When the applications have been properly filled in they are to be returned to the new office which will be open Monday through Friday from 1 to 5 in the afternoon and between 8 and 12 o'clock Saturday mornings.

The necessary typing that must accompany the completed applications for enlistment in a reserve program will be done by volunteers from the women's living organizations. Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary, has volunteered to do the desk work every afternoon in the enlistment office.

Better Chance

By enlisting in a reserve program students will be given a better opportunity to finish their college education, however, if war conditions warrant such action, students may be called into active duty at any time.

Dr. Karl Kossack, campus adviser on military reserve, said he hoped to complete most of the enlistments on the campus in a month.

Busses Reduce Student Fares

In cooperation with the University's request to ban student-owned automobiles from the campus, the Oregon Motor Stages announced a two-cent reduction in city fares yesterday.

Students wishing to take advantage of this reduction in rates may secure application blanks from the Oregon Motor Stages offices at 532 Oak street. Blanks must be signed by a member of the University faculty and returned to the Oregon Motor Stages offices. There, they will be exchanged for a book of twenty tickets which may be purchased for one dollar.

This reduction in rates will go into effect immediately.

Fares for the general public will remain at 7 cents.

Taxes

Should Congress bear down
Don't grumble and frown.

If it wasn't for taxes
We might have the Axis.

—J.W.S.

Look Out, Tex . . . Here Comes Tommy

TOMMY ROBLIN . . .

. . . spark-plugs the Webfoot backfield with his brilliant running, passing, and kicking. Last year he received honorable mention All-America recognition.

Reception, Hello Dance Begin at 8 p.m. in Igloo

The president's reception and Hello Dance has been scheduled for tonight between 8 and 12 p.m. in McArthur court and will not start at 9 p.m. as was previously stated.

Les Anderson, ASUO president, will introduce the following members of the receiving line: Dr. Donald M. Erb, Dean Hazel P. Schwering, Dean Karl W. Onthank, Dean Virgil D. Earl, Kenneth Shumaker, and Mrs. Alice Macduff.

All Dancing

"Students can dance from the time they enter the reception until they leave the dance," declared Mrs. Macduff, assistant dean of women, in answer to a question concerning the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. George Turnbull, who are in charge of chaperons, will be assisted by "freshman" faculty members.

Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed will help prepare the punch, while members of Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's service honorary, are in charge of serving. Members of Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary, will assist them.

Warren Plans Canny Game; Speculators Favor Fliers

By JOE MILLER

A quietly confident band of 42 University of Oregon Webfoots today awaits the opening 2-o'clock kickoff on the historic turf of Portland's Multnomah Stadium and its crucial test with the St. Marys navy pre-flight eleven coached by Lt. Commander Tex Oliver, former Oregon headman.

It has been unanimously agreed that this fray will make or break the Ducks. Should they

Dr. Erb Urges No Cars at UO

Appealing to students to leave cars at home, Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of the University, declared Thursday that he saw no reason for any student to have a car on the campus except under exceptional circumstances.

Conditions justifying the use of student cars were physical disability, employment, or living a great distance from the campus. A car would be justified in the latter case only if public transportation facilities could not be used.

Dr. Erb's statement was in agreement with a recent statement issued by William H. Crawford, chairman of the state highway traffic advisory committee.

Joint Military Board To Visit University

A joint military procurement board, with representatives of army, navy and marine corps recruiting services, will visit the campus October 27 to 29, Dr. Carl F. Kossack, chairman of the bureau of military information and placement, has been informed.

Beginning with a special assembly October 27, this board will present the opportunities of the various services to UO students and will endeavor to explain the need and value of these military reserve corps and the role the individual will be expected to play.

Probable Lineups

(See complete roster, page 4)

University of Oregon		Navy Pre-Flight
Jim Shephard, 198	LER	Ed Erdelatz, 206 (St. Mary's)
Ed Moshofsky, 195	LTR	Ray George, 225 (U.S.C.)
Floyd Rhea, 200	LGR	Frank Velisek, 192 (Creighton)
Steve Bodner, 208	C	Alden McBarron, 195 (Portland U.)
Val Culwell, 200	RGL	Joe Ruetz, 200 (Notre Dame)
Dick Ashcom, 210	RTL	Don Willer, 198 (U.S.C.)
Russ Nowling, 185	REL	Ed Manske, 184 (Northwestern)
Len Surles, 195	QB	Frankie Albert, 170 (Stanford)
Tommy Roblin, 185	LHR	Jimmy Newquist, 185 (U. of O.)
Kenny Oliphant, 174	RHL	Bill Rhyne, 172 (San Jose State)
Roy Dyer, 184	FB	Bob Koch, 193 (U. of O.)

lose it by an overwhelming score they will face a difficult job rebounding against Washington State and Washington. But should they triumph or lose a close game it might be a springboard to send the Webfoots roaring away to a highly successful initial season for Webfoot coach, "Honest John" Warren. The contest will have the eyes of the country focused on it, as the game will be a tipoff to just what the Navy pre-flight school can do against big league opposition.

Navy Favored

Along "betting row" last night in Portland the wise money pickers were giving the Air Devils and seven points or offering 2 to 1 without points. A last minute influx of Oregon money pulled the odds down from 4 to 1, along with the fact that Warren decided at the last minute to take his entire squad instead of the customary 28 he had planned car-tions. The Navy Air Devils pulled into Eugene Friday morning and several of the Oregon players were down to meet old mates, Jim Newquist, Bob Koch, Morris Jackson, and Neal Baumgartner, all of whom are expected to be in Tex Oliver's opening lineup.

Air Devils Confident

The "Devil Dogs" appeared supremely confident of an easy victory. John Warren was counting heavily on this factor in the hopes of pulling a major upset in his varsity coaching debut. In a Friday night chalk talk he told his team that they had a good chance to triumph over Oliver's Aviators if they kept on their toes and fought all the time.

Oregon morale appeared high for the fracas. The entire 42-man squad was in excellent shape, and the whole team felt confident that Sophomore Bill Davis would be able to play 60 minutes in the fullback post if he

(Please turn to page four)

Emerald Staffs Meet Tuesday, Wednesday

All students who wish to work on the news staff of the Emerald should report to the first general meeting of the year in 105 Journalism at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. The business staff will meet in the same room at the same time, Wednesday.

At the news staff meeting, applications will be taken and beats assigned, according to G. Duncan Wimpess, managing editor, who advised every prospective writer or solicitor to attend.

"All persons interested in working on the Emerald must be there," he stressed.