

Dr. C.F. Kossack Releases War Reserve Information

Ed. note: This is the first of three articles dealing with the deferment classifications offered by the armed forces. A joint procurement board of the army, navy, and marines will be on the campus October 27 through 29 to interview interested men for enlistment in the reserve classes.

Men interested in enlisting in one of these deferred classifications should interview members of this board when it is on campus because all indications point to the closing of all reserves at the end of this college term.

This move is necessitated by the past procedure of enlisting in a reserve just prior to induction through selective service. "The reserve classes are no haven for draft dodgers," said Dr. Carl F. Kossack, campus armed force representative.

An excerpt from the joint factual pamphlet issued by the war and navy departments on October 1 says, "The marine corps desires to enlist in the marine corps reserve for training with the candidates' class for commission, college graduates and college students currently enrolled in the senior, junior, sophomore and freshman classes. Successful completion of this class qualifies a candidate for commission as second lieutenant in the marine corps reserve."

Marine Corps

"Qualified applicants will be enlisted in the marine corps reserve for four years but must sign an agreement that they may be held in service for the duration of the war. Men so enlisted are appointed privates first class and placed on inactive status until called for training."

Candidates for enlistment must be male citizens of the United States, either married or single, be over 17 years of age on date of enlistment, and not over 27 upon graduation from college. Candidates must not be affiliated with any other military organization including army, navy, or ROTC.

College graduates are not prohibited from enlisting in the reserve class. If a man holds a bachelor's degree he may enlist. Medical, dental, and theological students are ineligible.

Character references, birth certificates, passport photograph, and parental consent, if the applicant has not reached his majority, are also required.

In the event of extreme national emergency, the graduate requirements will be waived and the enlistee will be placed in the candidates' class without a baccalaureate degree.

Candidates will be called at semi-monthly intervals in groups of approximately 300. They will enter a ten-week course as enlisted men and upon successful completion of this instruction they are commissioned and receive further training in a reserve officers' course for a similar period.

Upon the conclusion of the latter course they are assigned to active duty according to their special qualifications and the officer needs of the service.

Strongest Dislikes

Strongest dislikes of the smooth, unruffled Theta are "noisy people" and "whiny voices."

"My plans after June? I really don't know." A quick pause . . . "No, I don't. The most obvious thing right now is the shipyards . . . for art majors there's camouflage work and drafting."

Quickly she went on, "Probably the most logical thing I'll do is just go on to school . . . art school in the midwest or California. It seems sort of senseless now though, when we're supposed to be practical."

HORRIBLE THOUGHT Department!

Pity the poor men. They have to take PE courses. Result: They are STIFF and SORE, and they do not mean per chance! They have to clutch the banisters to get up the stairs, and they find sitting down is rather difficult. We gals may pity them, but let's not laugh at them. WE might be the next victims of the muscle-building program. . . .

Won't it be nice when the Whiskerino is over and the sophomores can look human again? * * *

At last a song has come out of this war that seems to be as much a part of it as the songs ("Tipperary," "Over There," "Give My Regards to Broadway," "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning," etc.) became a part of World War I. "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" has all the chances of eventually acquiring the status of a folk-song, as did the earlier ditties, that is, of becoming so representative of the thought of the people that the author loses his identity, while his song becomes famous. Anyway, it is nice to find one tune that can be a reflection of our own times, as much as "Yan-

Pom-Pom Deadline For 6 p.m. Thursday

Today at 6 is the deadline for pom-pom orders for the game with Idaho Saturday. They will be delivered Friday afternoon by members of the rally squad.

Kwama members will maintain a pom-pom booth in front of the College Side this afternoon, as well as selling them in the individual living organizations.

Roberta Madden, Bass Dyer and Al Popick are in charge of pom-pom delivery.

Things Coming Up: The AWS . . . yes, assembly, but don't r because it's Mr. Hoyt Francher, that simply swell 20th century lit prof, who's speaking on the "Rise of Jazz" November 4, at 4:05 in the music auditorium. Even though you frosh don't have to go, it's something not worth missing. Same to your superiors.

. . . Another deal worth some plugging: The Kwama assembly next Tuesday, with all the Kwama "g.c.s" and "g.g.s" modeling clothes from the Broadway.
