

ERC Requirements Listed For All UO Male Students

(Ed. note: This is the second of three articles on the service deferment classes. Today's article takes up the Army's reserve classes, their operation and opportunities.)

The enlisted reserve corps is established for "the enlistment of male college students for the purpose of developing capacities of leadership and acquiring special knowledge in college which is of prime importance to the army in the development of future officers."—U. S. Joint Factual Pamphlet.

Must Be Citizen

Candidates must be male citizens of the United States, either married or single. They must be not less than 18 or more than 45 at the time of enlistment; however, men who have not reached 18 are included in the school quota for enlistment providing they sign an agreement to enlist in the reserve upon reaching their eighteenth birthday.

Enlistment is for the duration of the war and six months thereafter unless sooner terminated by the president.

No Attendance

Enlistees must be accepted by and actually in attendance on the campus of an accepted college as a regularly enrolled full-time resident undergraduate student at the time of enlistment. Upon graduation specially qualified students may be recommended for further study.

No enlistments are accepted after induction notices have been received from local draft boards.

Students who are not enrolled in a full course are not eligible for enlistment in the enlisted reserve corps. No student may remain in college beyond a four-year period of time. But the amount of time which a student may remain in college shall be the normal time, within the four-year maximum, specified to meet the requirements of graduation for the class in which he is currently enrolled at the time of his enlistment.

At the conclusion of the sophomore year, a qualifying examination is given to all students. This examination may not be taken more than once, if the student fails to meet the standards established by this examination he will be called to duty as an enlisted man at the close of the term or semester.

Students in all classes may be enlisted in the enlisted reserve corps during the calendar year 1942. Thereafter enlistments will be restricted to freshmen. Enlistment in the corps will be a rerequirement for contract in the advanced course of the ROTC.

Large Number

"Our objective is to obtain the very large number of aviation cadets which must be trained every year until this war is brought to a successful conclusion, and at the same time to cause the least possible disruption in the nation's educational program."

To this end two important decisions have been made: first, to accept for immediate enlistment in the air corps enlisted reserve, those men now in schools and colleges who are qualified and who do not expect to continue their education beyond the present academic year. These men will be called for active duty as facilities become available, appointed aviation cadets, and be assigned to aviation cadet training. Second, to enlist in the air corps enlisted reserve on a deferred service basis qualified men now in schools and colleges who can continue their education."

Municipal Men

Orville Etter, Virgil Langtry, and Howard Ennor of the Bureau of Municipal Research are now touring the state to attend meetings of the League of Oregon Cities. They plan to be away for a month.

Joint Factual Pamphlet, August 31, 1942.

The air corps reserve offers training for men as bombardier, navigator, and pilot, all leading to commissions as second lieutenants in the army air corps reserve.

Also offered are non flying commissions in armament, engineering, meteorology, and photography.

Deferred Basis

Qualified applicants may also enlist on a deferred basis pending completion of the college course. All deferments under this plan are subject to termination upon a call by the secretary of war.

"Cadets eliminated from any of these types of training will be eligible to apply for one of the other courses of air force training, provided they are so recommended and that air force policies permit such further training. If the cause of elimination is such that further flying officer training is not recommended, a cadet may be allowed to pursue either armament or some other type of ground officer training, provided he meets the requirements thereof and is recommended for the particular course chosen. If the eliminated aviation cadet is ineligible for either further flying officer or ground officer training, he will be relieved as an aviation cadet, and sent as

Meet Features Band, Yell King

Ted Loud, newly appointed yell king, and George Carey, band leader who will play at the Whiskerino Saturday night, were featured at the rally assembly Thursday morning.

Les Anderson, ASUO president, after making a short introductory speech, presented the Gamma Phi Beta chorus who sang "In My Dreams."

Earle Russell, retiring yell king, gave a farewell speech. Ted Loud then led students in two yells.

Sidesinger Speaks

Bryce Sidesinger, chairman of the sophomore Whiskerino, spoke on the annual "beard brawl" and then introduced "Spider" Ray Dixon, who presented George Carey and his band and vocalists, Patsy McCoy and Pat Woods. They entertained students with four selections — "Serenade in Blue," "People Like You," "My Devotion," and "B-19."

The assembly was divided into groups according to classes, each class trying to out-yell the other at the opening of the rally.
