

Injury Riddled Ducks Face 'Razzle Dazzle'

Veteran Guard Val Culwell has been laid up since the Washington fray, but he will be ready to hand the Vandals plenty of his power this afternoon. He has been replaced by Bob Davis, and either will give the Vandals plenty of trouble, paired with Scrappy Rhea at the other guard position.

Both teams are expected to launch an aerial attack. The Duck attack will be more on the conservative side, as it has proven thus far in the season, but the Vandals can be expected to show the Webfoots more razzle-dazzle football than they have seen in many a moon.

There is only one catch. Will it work? By looking over the scores that have been rolled up against Idaho already this season, something is definitely wrong. Perhaps it is too complicated for the Vandals. Nevertheless, look over these scores . . . Stanford 54, Idaho 7, and Oregon State 32, Idaho 0.

Howard Manson

Junior Halfback Howard Manson will be the spearhead of the Vandal attack, unless Schmidt has suddenly changed his strategy to baffle the Ducks. Manson is considered one of the best pigskin slingers on the coast, but the gigantic scores that have been counted against the Vandals give the Oregons the nod any way you look at it.

Home fans will not see the veteran Tommy Roblin packing the mail this afternoon, but watch him clear the way for his teammates. "Rainbow" was shifted to the quarterback spot before the Washington game, and has improved by leaps and bounds.

Bobby Reynolds in the passing department and Bill Davis in the plunging department, will probably form the principal Duck offensive. Davis is considered one of the best sophomore backs in the nation, and has been a 60-minute man for the last two games. His average for yards gained is plenty good.

Sophs Shine

Reynolds has excelled with his pitching arm this season, although only a sophomore. Another soph, Leroy Erickson, will be his alternate and equally as good with his pitching arm as well as in the punting and ball carrying department.

The third sophomore in the Oregon backfield will be Scotty Deeds. When Scotty gets away, he is like a bolt of chain lightning, and can be expected to give the Idaho eleven a bad time.

The extent of Idaho's injuries after the trouncing Stanford gave them last week is not known, but they appear as starved for a victory as the thrice beaten Ducks, and a thrilling afternoon can be guaranteed anyone who attends.

"HONEST JAWN" . . . makes his Eugene debut as head man today.

IMs Given Clear Field

The top show in IM football will have its unhampered way on on the intramural field Tuesday.

There will be no conflictions this year as no two playoff games will be fought out at the same time.

Sigma Nus-Phi Deltas

The top game in Tuesday's play promises to be the Sigma Nu-Phi Delt battle. The Sigma Nus, showing power to spare in rumbling through the league play get the nod on paper.

The other Tuesday's game will pit the Betas against the Kappa Sigs.

The winners of these two frays will meet the Fijis and SAEs in the quarter-finals Wednesday, and the winners will then fight it out for the crown Wednesday afternoon at 4.

Oregon Holds Big Lead In Rivalry With Vandals

While it will be the first meeting of the two clubs in Pacific coast play today for Oregon and Idaho, the battle will be the 28th waged by the two clubs.

The Ducks have an overwhelming lead in the feuds to date, having won 22, lost two, and tied four. The Ducks have rolled up a total of 410 points in the long series to Idaho's 105.

Grid Dope on... Jim Shephard

By FRED BECKWITH
Guardian of one of the vital flank positions in Oregons forward wall, jolting Jim Shephard, is currently completing his third year of varsity competition on the Eugene campus.

It was in the town of White Bear, Minnesota, that a little lad named Shephard grew to be a burly six-footer. The gridiron sport attracted his attention while in high school, and he began his pigskinery there.

Played Fullback

When he hit the Oregon campus, Shephard had the reputation of being able to throw the football with either hand. In high school he had played fullback.

"Shep" hits the beams at close to 200 pounds. He doesn't confine his athletic activities to the greensward. He's acclaimed as Oregon's boxing champ, and also as a hockey man.

Jim's physical education major is like many of his teammates and plans to take up coaching after college and the war, of course. Speaking of World War number two, Shephard plans to get into the air corps if possible.

Likes Hunting

Hobbies, pet diversions, pastime? Hunting. Jim likes nothing better than to pot quail at fifty paces, sir.

Shephard is noted for his ability to lead a passel of interferers down the field, blocking out the enemy in dreadnaught style. Considering that he goes sky-ward some seventy-four inches, "Shep" can make things mighty rough for opposing linemen.

If you want to get to know "Shep" well, just start a hunting or hockey conversation with him. You'll become old friends in no time. In the meantime, dig a little of that Shephard man today at Hayward field. He'll send you, Jack.
