the last war, featuring can-cans and cake-walks.

Shrouded in Mystery

Senior skit chairman, Barbara Hampson, reports that their production is "shrouded in a deep veil of mystery." She announced, "For the safety of those involved, I refuse to reveal any names or identities." Grace Williams is property manager.

Mary-Ellen Smith, who is directing the activities skit, reported that with the assistance of Micki Campbell and Charline Pelly, a "really super take-off on the WAACS and WAVES, comparing them to activity girls, is being cooked up."

The faculty skit remains "shrouded in mystery, too."

Second Glance

a night-crawler, headed by Mundt's pocket-knife, who continually sang, "I ain't got nobody."

At any rate, the movie is an actuality and much of the action was filmed at the recent scrap-drive parade; some of it even in color. And when the picture is released to the general campus there's no doubt about it that it will be a highly original and amusing picture. We'll let you know more about it when the picture is more or less finished because Mundt told us once that "We'll film the picture with my 8mm camera. Occasionally we'll even use film."

GOSSOPATTER: Just a dare from Carolyn Holmes, head of the Senior Cops for the annual COED CAPERS for any boy (s) to crash the annual event. Of course, that is one time when each girls' living organization is dressed as they wouldn't want their boy friends to see them, and each year there is a general attempt by someone to crash it. Anyway, watch out, for the Senior Cops are rounding up all stray cords and lettermen's sweaters that they can find.

Sherry Ross Answers

The Sherry Ross hall bowling team has answered the challenge of Canard club to a 3-game competition on the U-Bowl alleys Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The Canard bowlers previously defeated the Campbell club team in their first match.

DEAN ERIC W. ALLEN AND GEORGE TURNBULL... who represented the school of journalism faculty at the OHSPA conference on the campus last weekend.

Reserve Interviews

The representatives of the joint army-navy-marine corps College Procurement Committee, who will explain the different reserve programs this morning, will be on the University campus until Thursday afternoon. Following the adjournment of this meeting it will be their desire to confer with all of those wanting additional information or advice. For the period of their stay on the campus, headquarters for the different services will be as follows:

Army enlisted reserve corps, commerce, room 2.

Army air corps, physical education, room 122.

Naval reserve V-1 and V-7, physical education, room 116.

Naval air corps, physical education, room 118.

Marine corps, physical education, room 143.

In order that these conferences may be distributed equitably over the time available, and avoid congestion or unnecessary waiting, the schedule below has been arranged. It is believed that this schedule by schools of registration will make it possible for more students to have at their disposal the necessary time with the minimum of interference with classes. Where absolutely necessary to miss a class, this will be permissible, but cooperation is asking in holding such procedure to a minimum. Students should report for interviews at the beginning of the hour.

Suggested Schedule for Conferences

Tuesday: Afternoon: freshmen in liberal arts, law, education, and music.

Wednesday: Morning: sophomores, juniors, and seniors in liberal arts, law, education, and music. Afternoon: freshmen in business administration, architecture and Allied Arts, journalism, and physical education.

Thursday—Morning: Sophomores, juniors, and seniors in business administration, architecture and allied arts, journalism, and physical education.

Nation Honors

our naval power.

Here in Eugene induction of more than 16 men into the navy will take place. On the campus a naval commission will talk with young men with reserve enlistment plans. Also represented will be other branches of the service.

Last week Secretary of the Navy Knox announced that the combined naval, marine and coast guard forces numbered around 1,300,000.

UO Activity Girl Interviewed By Coed Emerald Reporter

motto has always been "keep busy and you're bound to be happy. I firmly believe in it too."

After graduation this year from the school of business administration she plans to go to New York to work for a year and is now working for a scholarship to a merchandising school.

"When do I sleep? It's getting so now I take a nap in the afternoon, if possible, but I don't mind the work—in fact it's fun." Her only pet peeve seems to be lazy and untidy people.

She believes in all out for defense work and thinks every girl should do her part. With one brother in the merchant marine and another a lieutenant in the navy besides a cousin in the air corps and a sweetheart in the army, she is really a typical "service man's girl."

With all this "vim, vigor, and vitality" behind Homecoming, this year's celebration should be one of the most successful reunions ever held.

Kwamas Spotlight 'Darling Clothes'

Especially for freshman girls, Kwamas are modeling "some really darling clothes" today at 4:15 at Gerlinger, according to the assembly co-chairmen, Barbara Garwood and Jean Taylor.

Taking the spotlight in their first assembly, members of the sophomore women's service honorary will model campus clothes from the Broadway.

Refreshments will be served, with Ardis Jensen in charge.

Urged Phyllis Horstman, Kwama president, "Please come, you freshman girls, and bring your upperclassmen roomies. We think you'll like it."

Dr. Donald J. Cowling, president of Carleton college, is Minnesota chairman of the USO War Fund campaign

Phi Deltas, ZTAs

Oregana pictures scheduled for today include Phi Delta Theta and Zeta Tau Alpha, according to J. Wesley Sullivan, editor.

Mr. Hopkins on KOAC

Mr. George Hopkins, professor of piano at the University music school, will present a recital tonight at 8 over the regular faculty series of KOAC radio broadcasts.

Mr. Hopkins will play first a composition of his own entitled "Minuet." Other numbers are the adagio cantabile from the Sonata Pathétique by Beethoven and the Magic Fire Music from the opera "Die Walkure," by Wagner Brassin.

Colorado university has added 500 seats in its fieldhouse.
