NUMBER 32

Snowball Rally Rolls Toward Igloo Tonight

Penny Parade Heads Named; Students Asked for Coppers

With J. Wesley Sullivan, Oregon editor, and G. Duncan Wimpress, Emerald managing editor, appointed to take charge of penny collection on either side of Hayward field at the game Saturday, final "Penny Parade" plans were set in a meeting of the heads of all class honoraries in Emerald Editor Ray Schrick's office last night.

All students and faculty members are urged to bring their coppers to the game and contribute them to the "Parade of Pennies" to buy a University service flag.

Gold Stars

The red, white, and blue flag will hang in front of Johnson hall and a gold star will be added for each University alum who is killed in the service.

Working under Wes Sullivan on the west side of Hayward field will be Phyllis Horstman, Gamma president; Bill Farrell, president of Druids; Bill Huggins, Skull and Dagger head; and John Mathews, Emerald associate editor.

Helpers

G. Dunc Wimpress will be aided by Corrine Nelson, Mortar Board president; Marge Curtis, Phi Theta Upsilon head; Tex Goodwin, Sigma Delta Chi member; and Ted Bush.

Milk bottles will be passed through the stands and spectators are asked to contribute pennies to the fund. Any excess money will be put into the service scholarship fund for students who will return to school after the war.

Libe Closes for Game

Because of Homecoming festivities, the library will be closed 12 noon, Saturday. For convenience of students, however, reserve books may be taken out at 11:30, W. C. Warren, assistant librarian, announced Thursday.

Farmers Need Workers; Students Asked to Help

This time money does grow on trees—walnut trees! Farmers in the Willamette valley are calling for volunteers to pick some thousand dollars' worth of walnuts this weekend. The Agricultural Aid committee announced that the campus has been called upon to furnish 30 volunteer workers; all living organizations are being contacted by the committee in an endeavor to fill the University's quota of workers. The growers provide transportation and all that is required of the students is that they are in front of Gerlinger hall at 8 a.m. Saturday with a lunch bag.

Pickers average between $4 and $5 so that the coed who has her eye on a new sweater or wants to pay "that" bill can make the money for either in one day of picking. If you are a house manager and having money trouble get your house out to pick and clear up that financial difficulty.

SAEs Clean Up

The SAEs in their expedition of October 31 netted some $85 which will go toward a new living room rug, says Dutch Schultz, house manager. And he emphatically adds that "it was a good deal and we all had a lot of fun doing it." Groups from both the Alpha Chi Omega and the Alpha Delta Pis have already volunteered their services for this Saturday but many more workers are needed. Levis, slacks, heavy shoes, gloves, and raincoats are in order for the girls who pick walnuts. Houses will work on a competitive basis and the earnings of each house will be listed in the Emerald.

House presidents are requested to get the total number of volunteers from their houses phoned to Ruth Kay Collins at 1307 by November 9. A list of all living organizations and the percentage of volunteers in each house will be posted in the Emerald. House presidents should inform their members that signing up for this work does not mean that they will necessarily work this Saturday but that this is the sign-up for the entire year.

Any living organization or individual who has not been contacted and wishes to work can obtain further information by phoning 1307.

Tickets in Balcony Cost $1.10 Per Person

Remaining balcony tickets for the Homecoming Tommy Dorsey dance Saturday night are priced at $1.10 per person rather than per couple, according to Richard C. Williams, educational activities director.

These are on sale at the activities office in McArthur court.

UO Service Men Fund Will Start Next Monday

A service scholarship fund for University men who will want to return to the campus after the war, or those who will return earlier because of injuries, will be started on the campus next week. Boxes for the collection of Co-op receipts and donations will be set up in every campus living organization and the Co-op announced Bill Farrell, chairman of the drive.

They will be in place by next Tuesday.

Money left from the Greek-Independent basketball game last year, $122, will be the initial amount for the drive and will represent the contributions of all the students.

Collections Made Later

The receipts and United States war bonds given will be collected and turned in at a later date, Farrell said. The money will be held in the office of Mr. C. K. Stalsberg, cashier of the business office, until that time.

Scholarships will probably be $250. Farrell explained that students now at the University may be able to apply now to take advantage of it after the war.

Committee Objectives

Sub-committees under Farrell include the campus interest drive under Chuck Roffe. The committee's main objective is to keep campus interest high, make posters for the drive, and later may employ a Liberty bell. The off-campus drive, headed by Al Larsen, will contact the Mothers' and Dads' clubs to turn in to the fund any bonds they have already bought.

Phyllis Horstman and Bill Huggins are chairmen of the Co-op receipt drive. These committees have been made permanent on the campus for the duration.

Rehearsal Slated

All persons connected with the Homecoming rally radio program must be at the Igloo at 1 p.m. today for a general rehearsal, according to an announcement by Fred Beckwith, general chairman.

With all skit chairmen, their casts and the two mistresses of ceremony, Mary Louise Vincent and Sue Sawyer, "getting on a fleet of boats" at the first big rehearsal of Coed Capers Thursday evening, Janet Ross, general chairman, announced that everyone else is also "logging in double-time" in preparation for the November 12 event.

In charge of getting all women's living organizations lined up in properly gruesome attire, costume chairmen Alva Granquist reports the following appointments:

Alpha Chi Omega, Palmyra Paladini; Alpha Delta Pi, Carol Wicke; Alpha Gamma Delta, Shirley McLeod; Alpha Omicron Pi, Connie Fullmer; Alpha Phi, (Please turn to page eight)

This Mail Bag Fuss

This problem of where we can mail out our clothes is one that affects you and me. There's an evident need for a post office here As any one of us can see.

We should have had action on this before now, And not just a series of talks. The students are all up in arms, and besides I'm doggone near out of clean sox.

UO Reserves To Play Part In Assembly

With spirits pitched high campus Webfoots will head for McArthur court tonight in their annual snowball rally.

A campus-wide search was made and the hour and a half of gay and symbolic festivities is the result of weeks of planning according to Fred Beckwith, rally chairman.

One hundred per cent of the student body is expected to turn out for the glory of the Oregon team, and everyone is asked to be seated at the rally by 7:20 sharp.

Trevorrow Sings

Variety, and lots of it, will typify this radio rally program, announced Earle Russell, master of ceremonies.

A popular song ballad of the day will be rendered by Norma Trevorrow. Ted Loud, yell king, will drill the students in the now-famous swing yell, and will also lead several other yells.

The Alpha Phis and ATOs have combined into one chorus and will sing "As I Sit and Dream at Evening." Their song will supplement a special dedication to Oregon men who have been killed in service

Turkey Holiday Dance Planned

Thanksgiving day schedule:

1. Worship services at 11 a.m. in McArthur court.
2. Dinner at 1 o'clock in all living organizations.
3. A football game between the Sigma Nus and all-stars on Hayward field at 2 p.m.
4. A dance from 7 to 10 p.m.

These were the plans adopted by the student affairs committee at their meeting Thursday. The committee decided that something should be planned for the holiday since most students will be unable to go home for the one-day holiday caused by the action of the board of higher education declaring classes would be held November 27.

The worship service will be held in McArthur court with the YMCA sponsoring the program. The University orchestra will furnish music and a student choir will sing.

The Sigma Nu-all-star game will be the afternoon feature on Hayward field at 2 o'clock. The University band will play, and special stunts have been planned.

The dance, beginning at 7 p.m., will end at 10 because of the 10:30 closing hours in effect during the week.

Committees for the program will be announced later in the Emerald.

The student affairs committee also discussed the matter of holding an inde dance New Year's eve in McArthur court. This plan will be adopted only if classes are not held New Year's day.
