

Students' Blood Added to Bank

University cooperation toward establishment of Eugene's blood bank is well underway, according to Don Brinton, chairman of the Asklepiad committee delegated by the campus war council to manage University blood donations.

"Response has been very good so far," Brinton said. Then he added, "Some students who registered had tests, and made appointments for the operation, have been very late, or entirely absent at the appointed time. This means a complete waste of time for the doctor, and disruption of the day's schedule, and is not good."

300 Plasma Units

He explained that Dr. E. D. Furrer, offices in the Miner building, donates his time and equipment for this work which is designed to accumulate 300 units of plasma for the Eugene store.

These units will be ready on call for the Red Cross, army, and navy, and local needs as well. It will be sold to emergency patients, non-war casualties, for whom donors are not available. This revenue will be used to defray operating expenses.

Women to Be Called

The men's houses are being contacted now. Their work will be completed within two and one-half months. Then, Brinton said, the women will be called upon.

Plasmas is kept in cold storage. One part will be stored in the

It is stored in 12-unit bottles, each unit from a different individual. This is to neutralize any allergy reactions present.

Twenty thousand hours of flying instruction have been given at Northwestern University without an injury.

Registration at Texas A. & M. college set an all-time enrollment record.

Dr. Stetson to Speak At Lewis and Clark

Dr. F. L. Stetson, professor of education, will leave for Portland Sunday where he will visit Monday and Tuesday at Lewis and Clark college in the interests of the Northwest Accrediting association. Lewis and Clark college is the former Albany college now located on the million-dollar Frank estate.

WILLIAMS JOINS IN TRIBUTE TO OREGON'S SERVICE MEN

AND ALL LUCK to Duck football men in your homecoming game with UCLA.

Williams' Bread, in the gingham wrapper, is well known to Oregon students. They eat it because bread is the foundation of a complete meal and Williams' has always been a good tasting bread. War turns thoughts to health—and Oregon still prefers Williams' Bread because they know it is of high, health-giving quality.
