* This Sonata was composed by the Italian, Azzolino Bernarino della Ciaia near the end of the 17th Century. Written originally for two instruments, the organ and clavicembalo, it has been transcribed by Bella Bartok for performance on the modern piano. The name "Sonata" as used by Ciaia, and the titles he gave to each of the four movements, have little meaning for us now. Therefore, a clue to the mood of each movement is given in parenthesis as an assistance to the listener.

Meeting Clears Coed PE Setup

Helen M. Petrosky, director of service courses in physical education for women, has announced that all women in the University who have not completed the five terms of their physical education requirement, are required to attend an orientation session either Tuesday or Wednesday at 4 p.m., in the main gym, Gerlinger hall. Purpose of the session will be to acquaint the women students with the departmental requirements, the reason for the requirements, and the offerings of the department for next term. Upperclass women who are interested in taking physical education the winter or spring terms should also attend one of these sessions. Student attendance at these orientation sessions will be checked, and will take the place of one hour of each student's regular activity appointment of this week. Students are requested to take notebooks and pencils.

Down Front

knows how to use so well. Janet Blair is good as sister Eileen, but her performance is enjoyable chiefly because of her appearance rather than her acting abilities. Oh, Mr. Hays, what about those tight dresses?

Hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers who saw the play can't be wrong. "My Sister Eileen" is just the kind of light comedy we need once in awhile to take our minds off the war.

It's Our War

chemical warfare service for enlistments.

As promised we stealthily stalked into Red Cross sewing division to spy on such never-say-dies as Alpha Phi Jean Taylor, Tri-Delt Flora Kibler, and Alpha Chi's Jenelyn "Ghastly" Gaston, and, of course, Arliss Boone in charge of Carolyn Holmes.

Now that this innocent, overlooked sewing circle has been looked over—we find it badly misjudged. Here is truly the master crosscut of our thriving, throbbing, cosmopolitan campus; pure material for Look, Life, or Love. During our stay one girl told of her soldier who she thought was dead because she hadn't heard from him in a year and a half. Now he'll be back Christmas for their marriage.

Now that the harder work of making pajamas is done, the deep war discussions have been lost in favor of lighter subjects—so if you want to hear good dirt...

Most interesting ritual of all is at the end when each member is permitted to take her own needle and carefully place it in the Secret Sacred Sanctum. It is then locked by the goddess of the day. Please, if anyone has any needles or pins, bringing them up to sewing. You will be treated royally.

And so the little bags grow and grow—soon to be sent to Camp Ddair. I'm referring, of course, to the bed-side bags of striped

Town and Gown Holds Final Meeting Today

The town and gown group of the YWCA will meet this afternoon at 4:30 at Westminster house with Mrs. Jim Bryant acting as hostess to the group of girls who will have informal conversation during the afternoon.

This is the last meeting of the term for the group under the leadership of Leslie Brockelbank, sophomore in liberal arts, and the first meeting to be held on Tuesday instead of Wednesday.

Any girl interested in meeting other girls and attending an informal discussion of topics interesting to campus girls is invited to the meeting.

cotton for hospitalized soldiers.

Thanks and a special "hello" to Dick Williams who receives the Emerald and sends very nice letters. . . . and Good Luck!

WSSF Fund To Swell Chest

Money collected in the early December drive will be used either for American prisoners of war aid, for aid to American students who are without funds, or for American students in foreign countries.

Two service honoraries, Phi Theta and Druids, will assist in making this year's drive a success. Last year Kwama and Skull and Dagger members worked in the campaign.

After the drive, students will be given an opportunity to vote on what they wish the money raised at the University to be used for when it is combined with the contributions of all other contributing organizations.

Now's the time to think of Xmas
