

'King Arthur' Set For Choral Union

"King Arthur," opera in five acts, will be presented by the choral union as its concert on the Greater Artist series March 1, according to Dr. Theodore Kratt, dean of the school of music. The music for the opera was composed by Henry Purcell. The text is by John Dryden.

The work will be presented in concert form. Engraved plates were shipped especially from England and printed in this country.

John Dryden published the opera first in 1691. Of this performance he wrote, "There is nothing better than what I intended but the music . . . especially passing through the artful hands of Mr. Purcell, who composed it with so great a genius that he has nothing to fear but an ignorant, ill-judging audience."

The music was never published in Purcell's lifetime, and consequently much of it was lost. The present version is probably the most complete yet published.

dic. Shoved into an All-American slot last year by an ambitious press agent, the gangly Mandic will be a tough nut to crack come Saturday.

Two more Beaver-bred basketeers hold forth in the Rambler opening unit, Sam Dement and Jack Mulder, both of whom press the beam at around 6 feet 4.

Highest hooper is Bill Oesterhaus of South Dakota State Teachers who is 2 and 1/2 inches "up" on Dement and Mulder.

Just who Skipper Hobson will fling into the breach against the onrushing tide of Bruno-Rambler baskets is a matter of conjecture. Many observers choose the following to be included in the starting quintet: Bob Wren, Warren Taylor and Rolph Fuhrman, forwards; and Don Kirsch and Bob Newland, guards.

Others certain to be called into duty include Walt Reynolds, Sammy Crowell, Arvid Sutherland, Al Popick, Roy Seeborg and Bill Bloomquist.

Still at Large

Professor Wright tells about a group of students who are so conscientious about taking class notes that when he comes in and says "Good morning" to the class a few pencils take down the message. Still at large is the gent who, after we had told him yesterday in libe at 3 to wake us up at 4, woke us up at 3:45 and told us we still had 15 minutes to sleep.

"Unofficial" John Ward has outlined a plan whereby male students may remain in reserves and not flunk out of school. He calls upon the patriotic cooperation of the female portion of the University.

Ward's Plan

If women get below a 2-point they may still remain in school, he reasons, but if men get below a 2-point they will be jerked into active service. It seems only fair then, he argues, that the girls purposely keep down their GPA in order to keep the average down and thus insure the men of getting an above-average grade count. Get the point—the 2-point?

Thanksgiving Banquet Honors Tri Delta Birth

Delta Delta Delta is holding its annual Founder's day banquet tonight, honoring the Thanksgiving eve founding of Tri-Delt 54 years ago in 1888 by Sarah Ida Shaw Martin and Eleanor Dorcas Pond, in Boston, Massachusetts. This year's banquet will be a formal dinner at the Eugene hotel tonight.

The program will be opened by a proclamation by Theresa Kelly at 6:30. The president of this chapter, Mary Jane Dunn, will give an ode. A pledge, Joan Woodward; a sophomore, Flora Kibler; a junior, Kay Davis; and a senior, Eleanor Beck will each talk on what Tri-Delt means to them. A faculty wife, Mrs. Pierre Van Ryssleberg, and an army wife, Mrs. Zinc, will tell of its importance in their lives. Signe Eklund will tell how "Boston Beckons." Margaret Zimmerman and Stephanie Peterson will each sing a solo.

scheduled for Friday after Thanksgiving. And so students go home for Thanksgiving, come back for Friday's classes, and go back home again for the weekend. It doesn't make sense. Maybe we should have featured it more heavily in the column, then.
