

New Military Reserve Advisers Listed

—See page 4

SANTA GOES MILITARY . . . Photo by Bill Goldstein
 . . . as he travels his route this year garbed in non-common soldier's khaki . . . Jack Riback portrays Mr. C. for the benefit of the Emerald photographer.

Daily OREGON EMERALD

VOLUME XLIV UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1942 NUMBER 46

Burning Midnight Oil Common Prior to Next Week's Exams

Politics Gird For New Term Under Worth

Politics will take the spotlight early in winter term as the freshman class organization gets underway with the senior class acting as sponsor of the new students and Steve Worth, vice-president of the ASUO, acting as adviser.

This is the first year freshmen have not organized their class during fall term. Under the plan being initiated this year the class has done nothing political during fall term.

Seven freshmen have been chosen to act as the organization committee for the class. John Malcolm, Martha Hoch, and Frank Sardom will work on the committee to draw up a constitution for the class.

Freshmen who will arrange for a meeting of their class to be held on either January 5, 6, or 7 are Buster Beaudoin, John Reynolds, and Ed Allen.

Winter Term Registration Predicted to Drop Sharply

With only one weekend before finals, and only one date allowed for girls this weekend, books will begin to get a real workout as students burn the proverbial midnight oil and prepare for finals that are scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of next week.

Emerald Gets New Ad Head

Appointment of Elizabeth Edmunds, junior in business administration, as advertising manager of the Emerald for winter term, was approved by the educational activities board Tuesday night following recommendation of Betty Biggs Schrick, business manager.

Printing schedule for the Emerald was extended through May 7, with one special issue after that date. Original budget for 1942-43 would have cut 18 issues this year, but the additions bring this year's schedule within two editions of last year's total.

(Please turn to page three)

Tuesday, December 8, has been set as the last possible day to withdraw from a course. A passing grade is necessary in any subject that is to be dropped.

Closing hours this weekend are 10:30 Friday night, 12:15 Saturday night, and 10:30 Sunday night. Each girl may have one date during the weekend.

Registration for winter term will be held Monday, December 28, in McArthur court. Late registration fees will be charged beginning Tuesday, December 29, the day classes start for winter term. The late registration fee is $1 for each day of delayed registration.

This will be the first time students have been on the campus at New Year's. Classes will be held on New Year's day, but 1 o'clock permission has been set for New Year's eve.

(Please turn to page twelve)

War Refugee to Address Term's Last Assembly

By EDITH NEWTON

Students and faculty members will have an opportunity to learn what problems other students are facing in the war situation when Mr. Homer Loh (pronounced Law), himself a war refugee student, speaks this morning at an all-campus assembly scheduled for 11 o'clock in McArthur court.

Mr. Loh's talk will be given in connection with the World Student Service Fund drive which will reach its climax Friday. Subject of the assembly will be "Students and the War," and will deal with the problems students face in connection with the war in all countries.

Mr. Loh has had experience as a war refugee student and should be well fitted to serve as a representative of the student war relief fund. He holds an LL.B. degree from Soochow university and since coming to this country

(Please turn to page twelve)

Pamphlets Tell Women of Jobs

By BETTY ANN STEVENS

To help college women equipped with professional training find a field in war work at their level of responsibility, Heads of Houses are distributing a pamphlet of vital interest at their meeting today at Mrs. Macduff's apartment, according to Nelda Christenson, president. The pamphlets will also be on hand at the Co-op.

Written by Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration, solely to aid women in their wartime job problems, the pamphlet deals with fields of work and the demand, typical jobs, University

(Please turn to page ten)

Libe Hours Unchanged

No change in library hours has been scheduled for the final examination period, according to an announcement made this week, by Willis Warren, librarian.

Most Ducks Plan Trip Home, Wish They Could Fly Back

By COURTNEY SWANDER

Students going home for the Christmas vacation beginning the afternoon of December 12 will be faced with transportation problems different than have ever been seen before. An announcement by the railroads said that after December 15 and until January 5 coach fares will be cancelled.

Here is the situation in brief:

1. There will be little automobile travel at that time, even less on trips. Those who saved enough gas to go home will be left stranded there. Those planning to go home "on the thumb" will find slim pickings.
2. The bus. There will be no special buses or trains because of the ODT curtailment. The buses are already running to capacity and it seems that it will be first come first served.
3. The train. Reports from the railroads state that there are around 1,600,000 men in the armed forces riding the trains every month. This will be increased by

(Please turn to page three)

Tri-Delts Pledge

Margaret Garth, freshman in liberal arts, has been pledged by Delta Delta Delta, according to releases from the office of the dean of women.

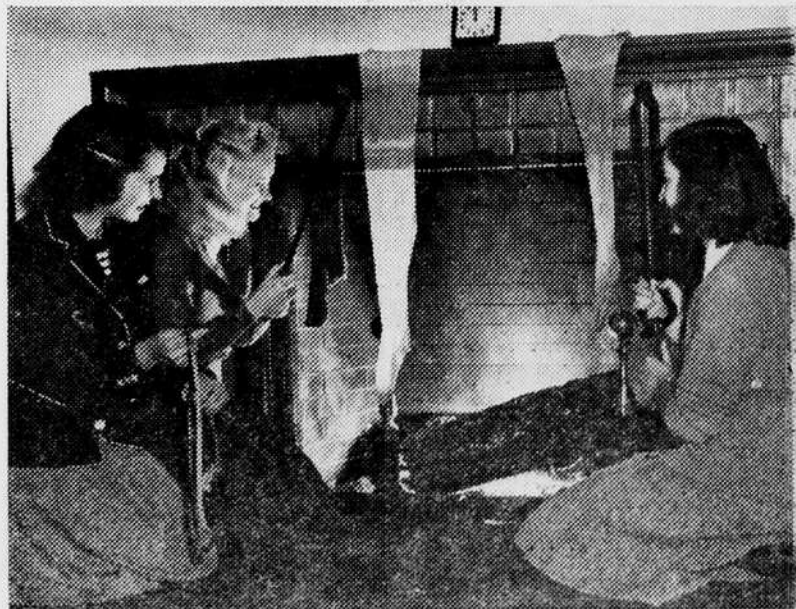

ADPis Nab Laurels

The Alpha Delta Pi house won the weekly Red Cross work contest with a record-breaking total of 34½ hours. Total of all hours for this week was 100½.

A TYPICAL SCENE . . . Photo by Bill Goldstein

. . . at almost any campus living organization this week are students decorating the traditional Christmas tree . . . Here Barbara McClung, left, Peggy Skerry, Pat McClintock, and Joan Hemingway start in on the Pi Phi tree.

TWO MINUTES TO TWELVE . . . Photo by Bill Goldstein

. . . and three hopeful Kappas await an anticipated visit from a stout gentleman with a long white beard . . . Mary Bush, Janet Roberts, and Ann Winkler wait, prepared, for the ideal 1942 Christmas gift—a Man!

Christmas Carols

(Reprinted by request)

We read the papers
 Sigh, and then,
 Sing "Peace on earth,
 Good will to men."
 I. Badger
 mitywig.ro