

ATO's Scrap Victors

Pick-ups proved successful in the University's first salvage collection of fats and greases last Friday, November 27, when living organizations, led by Alpha Tau Omega, with 27 pounds, turned in a total of 202 pounds, according to Marge Curtis and Bill Lilly, co-chairmen of salvage on the student defense council.

Waste was sold to the Eugene Chemical Works for four cents per pound. All money will go into the service scholarship fund in the form of defense bonds, which will be turned in when the war is over for scholarships for returning service men.

High Hopes

"We hope that every house on the campus will be able to contribute to the next pick-up and that it will be as successful as this last one," said Miss Curtis and Lilly.

The co-chairmen stated that tin cans will be the next item to be emphasized in the salvage drive. Houses are encouraged to start collecting the cans now in preparation for the next pick-up.

The pick-up will be either next week or the first of winter term and will include such articles as tin cans, scrap metal, fats, greases, or any other material essential to the war effort, according to the co-chairmen.

Other houses besides the winning ATOs who contributed were as follows:

WHICH would you vote "most likely to succeed?"

"The Aircraft Warning System gives a single plane on ground alert the equivalent striking power of 16 planes on air patrol." This startling statement comes from England.

Our country's Aircraft Warning Service—quite similar to England's—keeps a constant check on the flight of all aircraft. Should the need arise, it is prepared to send fighter planes aloft, to mobilize and direct ground defense forces, to warn endangered areas. Every step in its operation requires the fast, accurate communication of the telephone.

This is just one of the many wartime jobs that are keeping telephone lines busier than ever before. To help us keep lines clear for vital military and industrial calls, please avoid using Long Distance to war activity centers unless the call is urgent. And please keep all your telephone calls as brief as you can. Thank you.
