

Gifts to delight the heart of any co-ed are the cosmetics that TIFFANY DAVIS offers the Christmas shopper. Jackie Klein admires a few of the perfumes that she and scores of other girls would love on the Christmas tree.

Most Ducks Plan

 service men going home on furlough—roughly 600,000 it is estimated. During the December 15-January 5 period when chair cars are reserved for soldiers, sailors, and marines, and permanent passes are cancelled, Pullman accommodations will still be available probably on a "standing room only" basis.

The cancellation of coach fares will affect few students, as most of the rush out of Eugene will be over before that goes into effect, but the return to school comes right in the middle of the cancellation time. A loss of five per cent of a term's work is due for anyone who might think it profitable to miss the rush and return after January 5.

So, if you can find some way to beat the transportation problems during the holiday season, don't hesitate to let Joe Eastman, national ODT director know—you'll be acclaimed a hero! ....

The Southern Pacific company announced Wednesday that the coach fare cancellation applies only to certain through trains. All fares, both coach and Pullman, however, must be reserved after December 15, on other trains. This may be done only at the time a ticket is purchased.

New Manager

 The question of giving the Emerald credit for circulation from the $2 fee was discussed. The problem would involve distribution of board income from this source to the Emerald and possibly to other educational activities.

No action was taken though two possible substitute plans were presented for placing some form of circulation credit in the Emerald budget.

The all-campus sing was approved as substitute for the Canoe Fete Junior Weekend following recommendation of a junior class committee of four.

Committee presenting the recommendation included Bill Macy, chairman; Mary Robinson, Jack Robinson, and Bill Farrell.

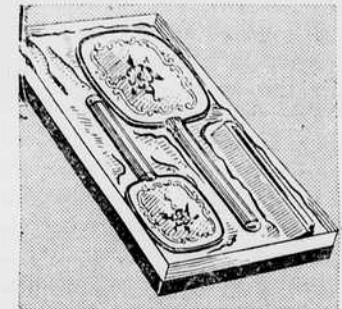

A Eugene Gleeman concert was scheduled for Thursday night, January 28.
