

Col. Sampson Names UO Cadet Officers

Winter Term Salvage Drive Slates Cans, Fats, Greases As First Items for Pick-Up

First campus pick-up of vital tin cans, included in a series of winter term defense drives, is scheduled for Friday afternoon, it was announced Monday by Bill Lilly, University salvage committee co-chairman.

Living organizations should not turn in cans until they have been flattened and their ends have been removed and included, according to Lilly.

Student Talents Due for Exhibit

Talented students will be given a chance to show what they can do in a campus talent show to be given at the end of winter term, according to W. A. Dahlberg, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts. Students interested in the show are urged to meet in Friendly 107 at 4 p.m. on Tuesday.

The show will include work in art, creative writing of poems, short stories, plays, essays, music, editorial, news, and feature writing, dress designing, stage designing and science.

Committee Members

A committee headed by Mr. Dahlberg and consisting of Dr. Robert D. Horn, Mrs. Edna Landros, Mr. Horace Robinson, Miss Victoria Avakian, Mr. George Hopkins, Mrs. Otilie Seybolt, and Dean Eric W. Allen, is organizing and directing the new movement on the campus.

Students with an active interest in one or more of the creative forms mentioned should contact a member of the faculty committee for further details as to submitting material. Mr. Dahlberg said that visiting critics will be invited to the show from all over Oregon to see the demonstrations and to read material and offer criticisms and encouragement to the embryo artists.

"As yet this project is in the first stages of development," Mr. Dahlberg declared. "We urge every student with creative ability to contact a member of the faculty committee at once."

The Rains Came

Pardon me, please, if I pause for a smile,

At the way the dear faculty worried and grieved

As they thought of the students out venting their guile

In boisterous merriment o'er New Year's Eve.

But all their precautions and worries naive

Of a Duck emigration were way out of style,

For old Mother Nature had a trick up her sleeve,

So pardon me, please, if I pause for a smile.

Board Approves Emerald Position

Appointment of Marjorie Young, sophomore in journalism, as news editor of the Emerald for winter term was approved by the educational activities board Monday night at a meeting in Friendly hall.

The board also granted permission to Wes Sullivan, Oregon editor; Betty Biggs Schrick, Emerald business manager, and Ray Schrick, Emerald editor, to work on Old Oregon, alumni magazine, as assistant editors winter term.

Members discussed plans for sale of season artist series tickets in downtown Eugene by Phi Beta, music honorary.

Lost Money Waits Claim

An undisclosed amount of money which was lost on the campus over the weekend will be returned to its owner if the latter will call at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house, according to Marge Sawyer, senior in history.

She added that the owner should be prepared to tell how much money he lost and where he lost it.

Picture Change Deadline Given

All housing changes that will affect the placement of pictures in the Oregonian must be reported to Wes Sullivan, Oregonian editor, in the Oregonian office before 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Students who have become members of honoraries since they had their pictures taken may have last year's Oregonian pictures used if they want to appear in the honorary group. A charge of 35 cents will be made for this.

No Proofs To Leave

New members of honoraries who have never had an Oregonian picture taken may have their picture taken Thursday at the Kennell-Ellis studio.

Proofs from pictures may not be taken from the studio.

Any seniors who have not had their pictures taken in cap and gown must see Wes Sullivan today.

Vandeneynde Chosen To Head Senior Formal

By JUNE TAYLOR

Bud Vandeneynde, senior in business administration, was appointed Monday to handle the second senior ball of World War II by Ray Packouz, class president. January 16 has been tentatively set as the date for the dance, subject to approval of the student affairs committee.

Except for freshmen, who are traditionally forbidden to wear tuxes, the dance will be formal. As a concession to war economy, no corsages will be allowed. The senior ball committee will meet tomorrow to decide on the theme and decorations.

Gave Dance Away

BUD VANDENEYNDE . . . senior in business administration, who was yesterday named to the Senior Ball chairmanship by Ray Packouz, senior class president.

The Senior Ball has been tentatively set for January 16, the date being subject to approval of the student affairs committee.

Before accepting his present post, Vandeneynde had been sophomore class president, chairman of the co-op board, a member of Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary, a charter member of Druids, junior honorary, and belongs to Friars, senior honorary.

Fresh from December 7 and Pearl Harbor, seniors last year literally "gave their dance away," according to Vandeneynde. Instead of keeping the admission fee, they returned it to each couple in a trick program, containing a stamp book and $1 worth of defense stamps.

"Last year's dance was successful, regardless of the simple decorations, because of the original theme," he remarked. "I hope we can do as well this year. The students have been starved for a good formal dance, and we intend to give them just that now."
