

Dorm Men Must Submit Ration Cards

As food rationing draws nearer, Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories, has more and more problems, and more and more forms to fill out for the government.

At present Mrs. Turnipseed isn't certain what food will be rationed on what the dormitory will get, but she does know that all students eating in the dorms must turn in their sugar and coffee rationing books before the end of this month if the dorm is to continue having these supplies.

UO Supply

There is a supply of sugar for the dorms stored at the University, Mrs. Turnipseed said Friday, but even though the sugar has already been purchased she must report to the ration board every two months and they tell her what amount she may use from the supply.

Students have shown fine cooperation concerning the matter, the dorm director said, and sugar bowls have been left on the tables with no definite rules having to be enforced concerning its use.

Full Report

Mrs. Turnipseed has been asked to make a full report to the office of price administration concerning the food used in the dormitories. Dormitories are classed as institutions and will receive rations as such.

Questions

Questions the OPA have asked include:

1. Number of persons served during December, 1942.
2. Gross dollars revenue from service of food and beverages during December, 1942.
3. The quantity of a list of commodities used during December, 1942.

Quantity

4. The quantity of each of the commodities reported on, on hand at the close of business, December 31, 1942.

The ration of food to be given to the dorm will be based on the consumption of food during a 16-day period in December.

EUGENE HOTEL

Talented Eugene Lad Presents Piano Recital

Everett Fulton, senior in the Eugene high school, will present a piano recital sometime during the last of January or first of February in the University music auditorium. Fulton is a pupil of Jane Thacher, professor of piano at the University school of music.

Fulton played last year with the Portland symphony orchestra in Portland has given a recital each year for the past three years.

Included on his program will be works by Bach, Beethoven, Debussy, Delius, and a piano concerto by Rubenstein. Mrs. Thacher will play the orchestral accompaniment to the Rubenstein concerto on a second piano.

Battle of Sexes Rages

Patriotic

Another men's organization agreed with abolishing corsages because they think its the only patriotic thing to do.

Individual opinions ranged from "Flowers are a tradition just the same as the senior ball and other large dances," to "For these critical times it's only fair and square that we do away with frivolities."

Don't Want 'Em

One male student said, "Whenever many people don't want something, they do away with it by saying it is a hindrance to the war effort."

"Since we can't have many decorations at the dance, it would be most suitable to have flowers, if only one small one for the hair, because the loose change used to buy them could be deducted from cokes, movies, etc.," said one coed.

"Friendlier"

Another boy said, "Flowers seem to give a friendlier atmosphere and attitude to a dance."

One coed felt that they shouldn't be allowed because of the gas and tires it takes for them to be delivered while another member of the same sex thought that it was a shame to let the florists lose all that business.

Red Cross Biggies

Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories, has arranged for men delegates to live on the third and fourth floors of Zeta hall, while the women will occupy the first and second. The living room will be used as a club room.

The eastern institute at La-Grande, Oregon, held its convention this week for chapters in the section.

Clint Childs Picked to Plan Military Ball

Military Motif

The dance, which is scheduled for Saturday, January 30, in McArthur court, will feature the military motif. The dress will be traditionally formal with ROTC men wearing their uniforms.

Details for the selection of the Little Colonel and her staff will be first in the order of business to be considered by the committee heads at their weekend meeting. The selection is made from candidates of women's living organizations. Dance ticket holders cast their ballots and the popular choice is presented along with her runners-up at the ball.

Second Record Session

Hostesses

Hostesses for the concert will be Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher, professor of piano at the music school, Miss Marjorie Scobert from Mu Phi Epsilon alumnae, Miss Elizabeth Walker from the Mu Phi Epsilon active group, and Miss Doris Hack from the library committee.

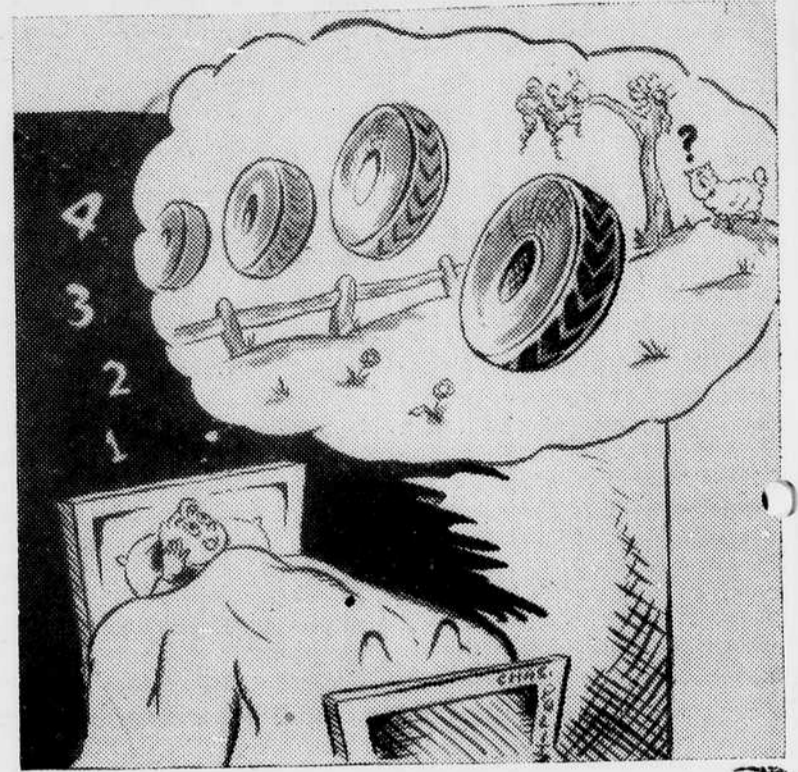

The concerts are informal. Last Sunday approximately 120 people attended the initial concert.

Request Box

A request box will be placed in the browsing room where listeners may place requests for future concerts.

Students who wish to loan records for the concerts may do so and are urged to leave their names and the titles of their records with any member of the library staff.

Aptitude Test Set for Pre-Meds

A two-hour medical aptitude test will be given in Villard assembly January 22 at 2 p.m. for all pre-med students who have not completed the exam. Due to wartime conditions it is important that all medical students take the test at this time, according to Dr. H. B. Yocom, chairman of the pre-medical advisory committee.

The aptitude test is required for admission to most American medical colleges, Dr. Yocom advised, and draft boards often insist that pre-med students give some evidence such as passing this test, in order to receive deferment. Since it is doubtful if special exams will be given during winter or spring terms, this may be the last chance to pass the test during this year.

Applications to take the exam should be made at once to Dr. Yocom in room 207 Deady hall.

Theta Chi Freshmen Pick Pi Phi as Queen

Pi Phi's Jean Barringer was chosen as the first "Sweetheart of the Theta Chi" pledge class at a freshman sponsored dinner-dance held last night at the 19th street house.

The tall, stately "Sweetheart," a last year's Portland Rose Festival princess, was presented with a large corsage by the five upper class judges.

UO Early Birds

Promotion work, under Earle Russell, is "going nicely" with posters slated to appear in houses immediately.
