

Hilyard Captures 'Hop' Title; Theta Chis Head UO 'Wolves'

By EDITH NEWTON

Hilyard house girls proved the most popular on the campus last night as they rolled into first place in the Nickel Hop to share honors with the Theta Chis, who will henceforth be known as the "King of the Wolves."

Netting $273.60 according to an unofficial count last night, the AWS-sponsored dance was considered a definite success by everyone working on it, the committees decided when they met after the dance to count the income.

Coming in second in the competition for the cup awarded annually to the women's organization earning the most money were the Alpha Phis, while third place was taken by Pi Beta Phi.

Second Among Wolves

Running second in the competition among the men for the title of "King of the Wolves" and $5 worth of records, were the Delta Tau Deltas. Third place went to Kirkwood co-op.

Hilyard women took in $31.45 during the two hours of dancing, an average of 81 cents per member. Alpha Phis netted an average of 55 cents per member and the Pi Beta Phis had 51 cents per member.

Success

"I think it was a tremendous success, and I'm certainly happy because it'll make it possible for quite a few girls to have scholarships," Miss Dolph said Friday night.

Editors Hear AP Reporter

Highlighting this year's annual state editors conference to be held January 22 and 23, will be a speech by Wendell Webb. Associated Press correspondent who covered the battle of Midway.

Because of war time conditions, the customary dinner held the night before the conference begins has been changed to a breakfast meeting on Friday, January 22.

The current war condition in respect to newspaper problems will be the main topic of discussion.

Among men attending will be

Communique number one: The committee chairmen for the Military Ball will meet in the military shack this morning at 10:30.

Music Fans Hear Concert

Recorded music by Haydn, Brahms, and Rachmaninoff will be featured on the concert to be held in the browsing room of the library Sunday, January 17, at 4 p.m. Miss Barbara Crisp, senior in music, will be in charge.

Music to be played includes Brahms' Variations on a Theme by Haydn, Faure's Adagio from his Piano Quartet in C minor, MacDowell's Presto Giocoso from his piano concerto, Dvorak's Rondo from his Quintet in E-flat, and Zador's Hungarian Caprice.

The last number on the regular program is the "Classical" symphony by Prokofieff. Following this will be Rachmaninoff's Concerto for piano, number 2, for those who care to remain and listen. Both of these numbers are presented by request.

The concert is sponsored by the Mu Phi Epsilon patroness group, assisted by the library committee.

Houseboys Honor Pi Phis

The Nickel Hop brought zoot suits and sore Webfoots to every women's house on the campus, but to the Pi Phis it brought something more—the sense of being appreciated by their houseboys.

Reat to the beat, Don Stephen, Bob Ellis, Bill Lous, and Tom Terry honored their chosen cuties by beguiling other beauties into surrendering 47 tickets to the credit of the Pi Beta Phi—houseboys.

They couldn't decide whether to list the houseboys under the women's or men's competition.

War Journalist Speaks in Igloo

Wendell Webb, Associated Press man who recently returned from the battle of Midway, will be the guest speaker at an all-campus assembly in McArthur court Thursday. Webb will be on the campus attending the Oregon State Newspaper Editors' conference being held here next week.

The AP man has been covering the war in the Pacific since shortly after the war started there. Before that he had been the AP night editor in Portland.

While here Webb will be guest speaker for the press conference. Sigma Delta Chi, journalism men's honorary, has charge of entertaining the journalist while here.

Leaving San Francisco Tuesday, Webb is expected to arrive in Eugene Wednesday night, according to present plans.

All-Campus Formal Tonight Features Carey's Melodies, Song Debut, Senior Finale

By MILDRED WILSON

Nine o'clock tonight is the time set for a portion of the campus to sink into "A Midwinter Night's Dream" as they are entertained by the class of '43 at the first all-campus formal of the year.

"We're still emphasizing the no-corsage order—and that includes no flowers in the hair," Bud Vandeneynde, chairman, declared.

"Since this is the last social event sponsored by the senior class we've worked hard to make it the best. Decorations are getting into shape and are really going to be good. I'd advise everyone to look at the bandstand when they step out on the dance floor tonight," Ray Packouz, senior class president, commented.

Late Per

An extra half-hour of dancing, as a result of one o'clock permission, will be available to tonight's Ball-trotters.

Latest returns from ticket chairman Lois Hulser report over 400 tickets sold in the advance sale, a number far above expectations. Door prices will be $1.40.

Song Preview

"Of course one of the highlights of the evening will be the preview of Senior Ray Dickson and Al Kasmeyer's new song, "Nocturne in Blue," Vandeneynde remarked. George Carey's orchestra will play for the dance and his vocalist, Pat Woods, will sing the "Nocturne" as it is presented for the first time.

Dark suits will be in order for all men who attend the ball. How-

Frosh Women Glimpse BMOC

Freshman women will get a closer look at the prominent "big men on the campus" they have admired from afar when Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's service honorary, introduces 20 outstanding men to the frosh coeds at a Gerlinger hall assembly Thursday, January 21, at 4 p.m.

The "big shots" will be presented in a skit by Helen Holden and Helen Johnson, announced Micki Campbell, BMOC assembly chairman, Friday. Each

UO Talent Show Issues Last Call

Last call for student talent in all fields is being put out by the executive committee of "Odeon," the talent show set for Monday, February 22, when students will have an opportunity to display their work in creative lines.

All students in creative fields with anything to offer are urged to see W. A. Dahlberg, chairman of Odeon, in room 107 Friendly hall before the end of this week.

The talent show will take place at 8 p.m. in Gerlinger hall February 22. This is the first time such a show has taken place at the University. The name Odeon was suggested by Mrs. Edna Landros, acting head of the classics department, because the Greek name originally applied to music theaters where art was patronized.
