"O come all ye faithful—"

In spite of the Senior Ball and one o'clock permission, churches in Eugene are having services as usual Sunday.

At the Baptist church, Dr. Vance Webster is speaking at both services about Peter. His 11 a.m. subject is "Peter, a Man Who Made Good." At 7:30 his topic will be "Peter and Cornelius." University Bible class meets at 9:45; the three B.Y.s are meeting together at 6:30.

Mass at St. Mary's Catholic church is at 8, 9:30, and 10:30. At 7 p.m. the Newman club will have a round table discussion led by Father V. F. Christoph on how psychology and sociology affect University students.

"Parade of the Cross"

At the First Christian church, Bible school is at 9:45 as usual. At 11 Mr. C. W. Longman, a religious education specialist, will speak. Christian Endeavor is at 6:15. Then at 7:15 Rev. Fiscus will be back in the pulpit to speak on "The Paradox of the Cross."

At the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and the subject for both morning and evening services will be "Life." Evening service has been changed to 7 p.m.

The Lutheran churches in town have morning worship services as usual. The Lutheran Student association is having a regular meeting, a devotional period followed by an informal meeting.

"Guiding Light"

The Methodist pastor, Dr. Parker, speaks there at 11 on "The Guiding Light." Wesley Foundation has a special meeting planned, a devotional service at 7, then a musical program. Dean Kratt will speak on "Music in the Service of Worship." The junior choir will sing.

Dr. Tully at the Presbyterian is speaking on "Being a Christian" at 11. Rev. Ray Watson is bringing an evangelistic message at 3 in the afternoon, and at 7:30 there will be a drama, "The Missing Christians."

"Wartime Praying"

At St. Mary's Episcopal church, Father Bartlam is going to talk about "Wartime Praying" at 11 o'clock. Canterbury club will have a regular meeting at 6.

Westminster house is having forums as usual. The 9:45 morning group will discuss "Right and Wrong"; Hal Rhea and Doris Jones will lead it. At the evening forum, Dr. Paul S. Wright of Portland will speak on "Daring to have Faith."

UW Faculty Member
Prepares for Confab

Walter Welke, president of the northwest section of the Music Educators' national conference and member of the University of Washington faculty, was entertained Friday at a luncheon held in the Eugene hotel.

Mr. Welke was here for the purpose of preparing for the eighth biennial Northwest Music Educators' conference, which will be held on the campus from April 9 to 12. Mr. Welke addressed those present at the luncheon and outlined plans for the coming conference.

Also present at the luncheon was John Stehn, assistant professor of music at the University of Oregon and chairman of the committee for arranging the conference.

Professor Granted
Leave of Absence

Mr. H. M. Shafer, assistant professor of education, has been granted a two months leave of absence during winter term, in order to get his doctors degree at the University of Minnesota. Mr. Shafer left January 11.

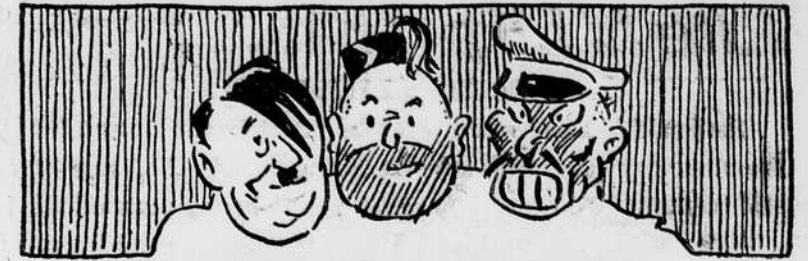

Dr. Jewell, dean of the school of education, is taking Mr. Shafer's place as supervisor of student teachers during his absence.

C. M. Hulten Returns
For Conference

C. M. Hulten, former associate professor of journalism at the University, will be here next week to attend the press conference being held at the journalism school.

Hulten is now working in Washington, D. C., as a consultant in the bureau of the budget. He will be in Portland Wednesday to call at the office of war information there and will come to Eugene later.
