

Huskies Top Ducks, 52-48

Brrrrr!

UO Frosh Dance Tonight At First No-Date Affair

Freshmen will get a chance to display their new organization tonight after the game with the presentation of their first social event, a radio dance to be held in Gerlinger hall.

According to Hank Doeneka, freshman class president, the dance will be a no-date affair for members of the class of '46 only and there will be an admission price of 15 cents. Campus clothes will be in order.

Concert Airs Debussy, BG

Request numbers on the Mu Phi Epsilon browsing room concert for Sunday, January 24, are Debussy's "Afternoon of a Fawn" and Brahms' symphony number 1 in C minor. John Stehn, University of Oregon band director, will be in charge.

Benny Goodman and the New York Philharmonic will be heard in a recorded production of Debussy's Clarinet Rhapsody.

Two numbers by Bach, the Gigue from his Fifth French suite and the Prelude and Fugue in G minor, recorded by the University of Oregon band, will be included in the program.

Hostesses Listed

Other works include Debussy's tone poem, "Festivals," Griffes' "Pleasure Dome of Kubla Khan," Schubert's "Am Meer," sung by Heinrich Schlusmuss, Walton's "Portsmouth Point" overture, Schubert's "Im Abendrot," sung by Kirsten Flagstad, and a medley from Sullivan's comic operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance."

Hostesses for the concert will be Mrs. C. A. Horton from the Mu Phi Epsilon patroness group, Mrs. O. P. Nordling from the alumnae, Miss Jane Partipilo from the active group and Mrs. Frances Newsom from the library committee.

Classes Will Meet

All regular Saturday classes will be held as usual today, according to Dr. Donald M. Erb, University president.

Classes will also meet on Monday as usual.

Ted Loud, master of ceremonies, will be in charge of the entertainment. Tricks up his sleeve include mimeographed songs to be handed out during intermission for a community sing and a miniature stage show being prepared by members of his committee. Several living organizations are donating new records for the dance and those left from the pledge dance will also be used, according to Rolland Gabel, head of the music committee.

Coke Concession

Buzz Beaudoin, in charge of refreshments, announced last night that there will be a "coke" concession on the floor. According to Kurt Olsen, ticket chairman, tickets will be sold only at the door after the game tonight.

Since, according to Doeneka, the success of the dance will depend on the number of freshman girls present, representatives have been

(Please turn to page eight)

UW Loses Second Half Drive To Take Last Night's Thriller

By FRED TREADGOLD

Co-Sports Editor, The Emerald

Tall, dark-thatched Chuck Gilmur, Washington's cool and collected center, went on a scoring rampage in the second half to pace the Huskies in a sensational drive which shot them ahead of Oregon at the Igloo last night, 52 to 48. Up to that time our Ducks had things pretty well in hand and it appeared that Oregon could repulse the Washington advances and retain its grasp on the northern division league lead.

25th OPC Rates Noted Speakers

The 25th annual Oregon Press conference opened Friday in Eugene with 50 representatives of Oregon newspapers registered. Because of snow several inches deep, meetings scheduled to be held in the journalism building on the campus were held in the Eugene hotel.

Wendell Webb, Associated Press correspondent, addressed the afternoon session as the featured speaker. Mr. Webb, who covered the battle of Midway, described the battle and pointed out conditions in the Pacific.

(Please turn to page eight)

It was a sad tale indeed insofar as Oregon was concerned. Hobby's great gang of hoopsters got the opening jump when Bob Newland flipped in a two-hander from the right. Nip-and-tuck from then on till the Ducks forged into the foreground, 18 to 16, when Rolph Fuhrman bagged two charity tosses with nine minutes left in the half.

Boost Margin

The Webfoots pumped that slim advantage up to six points at halftime, 31 to 25. Oregon fans seemed confident that, although the second half wouldn't be any "easy pickings," Hob's boys would be able to keep one step ahead of the driving, relentless Huskies.

Then Mr. Gilmur went to work in a basket-making sort of way, with his teammates rallying behind him in brilliant fashion. He pumped in no less than six field goals, which plus his first half work, netted him 20 counters—high for the evening.

With the second half 13 minutes old, the Huskies finally nudged out the Ducks to grab the lead firmly between their fangs. Gilmur tossed in his third one of the period and the score stood 41 to 41, Washington.

From then on the students of Hec Edmundson heaped on additional markers and toyed with the ball as Oregon desperately tried to gain control of the sphere and whittle the gay to within

(Please turn to page four)

Pledges Begin Work for SDX

Sigma Delta Chi, men's national professional journalism fraternity, pledged 11 students Thursday at a meeting in the journalism building. Russ Hudson, chapter president, was in charge of the formalities.

Pledges will be initiated within the next month, according to Stan Weber, secretary.

The neophytes will get their first chance to assume SDX duties during the Oregon Newspaper Publishers convention being held on the campus this weekend. Pledges and members will serve at the Anchorage luncheon this noon and at the dinner Saturday at John Straub Memorial hall.

For the next seven school days the new pledges will wear lino-type slugs around their necks to denote their affiliation. Other distinctive pieces of unorthodox apparel will be worn, the new pledge group announced last night.

(Please turn to page six)

HONEST JAWN . . .

. . . Warren, shows coaches can be rugged, too, as he frolics, clad only in shorts, in Eugene's unusual snow.

Campus Kids Spend Day in Snow Frolic

With no classes Friday, University students made merry in the snow, broke windows, built snowmen, skied up and down the rolling hills of a local golf course, and snow-balled everyone they met, professors no exception.

"Snow White," the reclining figure in front of the Phi Kappa Psi house was one of the outstanding bits of work done in snow. This seven-foot long figure was engineered by David Stone, sophomore in architecture and allied arts, with the aid of various other house members.

Pi Kappa Alpha pledges grew

(Please turn to Page Seven)

(Courtesy of the Register-Guard)

Crrrrraack! . . .
"—many a tree . . ."

Military Honorary to Tap 34 Neophytes at Ball

Once again at the Military Ball, Scabbard and Blade will pledge new members to carry on the tradition of the military honorary.

Thirty-four new pledges will receive written notices before the ball that they are going to be tapped the night of the dance, Saturday, January 30.

Present Ribbons

At approximately 10:30, Captain Pat Cloud will decorate the Little Colonel and her staff of two majors and two captains, finalists in the Little Colonel contest.

New members of Scabbard and Blade will be tapped immediately thereafter and presented their pledge ribbons by the Little Colonel.

Following the ceremony will be the grand march led by the Little Colonel and Cadet Colonel Malcolm Almack, Captain Pat Cloud, First Lieutenant Len Surlis, Second Lieutenant Bob McKinney and First Sergeant Ed Moshofsky, will escort the two majors and two captains of the Little Colonel's staff.

As students enter the dance they will be presented with a ballot containing the names of the five finalists. Each student is to vote for one person and the Little Colonel and her staff will be chosen according to the number of votes each receives.

The five finalists were chosen by members of Scabbard and Blade and Company L Thursday, but only Bob Jones, chairman of the Little Colonel selection and Colonel Knickerbocker know their identity.

CLINTON CHILDS . . .

"... it'll be a success . . ."

Artistic Note

I'm afraid the traditional snowman would soon be antiquated. If we could all sculpture out figures like the Phi Psis have created.

—J.W.S.