

UO Library Collects Books For Army, Navy, Marines; Readability Prerequisite

By DOROTHY ROGERS

"More and better books for our armed forces" is the slogan of the 1943 Victory Book campaign now under way throughout the United States, with the University library as the official collection center for Lane county.

Our fighting men need and want more books! As a weapon in the war of ideas, a book has a place to fill in this war. Whether as a source of morale or information, it is recognized by our military leaders as part of our fighting equipment.

Slogan

"Good books are ammunition; good ideas are bullets," say campaign officials.

In the 1943 campaign, no attempt will be made to use the attic-cleaning psychology in stimulating people to contribute, according to campaign leaders. The first function of a book is that it be read. Only books in first class physical condition can be used.

Pulps

Adventure and westerns, detective and mystery fiction, are described by camp librarians as the two types of books most sought after and read by the men.

Also on the preferred list are current best sellers as chosen by the Book of the Month, Literary Guild, and other book club selections.

Books should be placed in the library to the left of the circulation desk in the box labeled "Victory Book Campaign."

Emerald Pictures Slated

Group pictures of Emerald city editors will be taken for the Oregana at 7 p.m., Thursday, February 4, in the journalism building. Group pictures of day managers will be taken at 7:15 p.m. the same night at the same place.

Individual pictures of upper staff members of the Emerald will be taken as scheduled.

'Five o'Clock Shadow' Predicted in Eclipse

By ROSS YATES

Just before the sun sets tonight, a shadow of the moon will steal across its face and, weather permitting, students of the University and residents of Eugene will witness an eclipse of the sun. Thus says J. Hugh Pruett, astronomer, general extension center, University of Oregon.

"The eclipse will be total in a strip running across the ocean from Japan up to Alaska," Mr. Pruett stated. Here in Eugene it will start at about 5:03 p.m. and reach its height at 5:57 p.m. At this time approximately 47 per cent of the sun's diameter will be covered. "The sun will set shortly after that," Mr. Pruett explained.

Japs See First

Because of the movement of the sun, orientals will see the eclipse before we do. And although totality will be in progress for two hours at no place will it last quite three minutes.

The eclipse will be visible to the inhabitants of western North

Music Student To Give Recital

Everett Fulton, senior in Eugene high school and piano pupil of Jane Thacher, professor of piano at the University, will present a piano recital at the music auditorium tonight at 8:15 p.m.

As his feature work on the recital program, Fulton will play Anton Rubenstein's Concerto No. 4 in D Minor. This rarely performed concerto is a standard example of Polish music. Orchestral accompaniment will be played on a second piano by Mrs. Thacher.

Other numbers on the program include Beethoven's Sonata, op. 10, No. 3, Delius' Three Preludes, "The Maiden with the Flaxen Hair" by Debussy, and "Reflections in the Water" by Debussy. Fulton will also play two compositions by Bach, the Prelude and Fugue in C minor and the Prelude and Fugue in D.

Fulton has been accompanist for the Eugene high orchestra for the past two years. He started playing the piano when six years old, then quit for several years and later resumed his studies. He has given a recital each year for the past two years.

Dads' Day Message

Hiya, Pop; and best regards, Come down, and bring Your ration cards.

Pacific War Area Pix To Show Native Life

As part of his class instruction for the "Peoples of the Pacific" study, Dr. H. G. Barnett, instructor of anthropology, is presenting several films depicting native life and scenery in the Fiji, Solomon, and New Guinea areas this evening at 7 in 207 Chapman hall.

Because of the war-aroused interest in the Southern Pacific areas, Dr. Barnett has invited the public to attend, admittance free. University students and Eugene residents will have an opportunity to see first hand where American marines are fighting.

Meteorology Program Set for 5 p.m., KORE

The special meteorology broadcast over the Mutual network, announced in Wednesday's Emerald, will be heard tonight at 5:30 over KORE instead of as previously reported, according to Dr. Will V. Norris.

A wire received by Dr. Norris from the army meteorology board urges all men interested in the program in particular and all men in the enlisted reserves in general to listen to the program. Plans for the future of the meteorology program will be discussed.

Where's My Wandering List Tonight?

Are you a member of Pi Delta Phi? If you are a member of this French honorary, the officers of the organization would like to know about it.

It seems that at present the organization is without a membership list. Not that there aren't any members of the club, it's just that the officers aren't very sure of who the members are.

The cause of all this, Abbie Jane White, president of Pi Delta Phi, revealed Wednesday, is that the membership list has been lost. The only way to be sure of who the members are is to have a meeting and take roll of who are present, Miss White has decided.

To clear up the mystery, all members are asked to meet at 4 this afternoon in the French seminar room in Friendly hall so a list of their names may be compiled for future use.

Judges Named For Story Contest

Mrs. Donald M. Erb, Mr. F. G. Black, assistant professor of English, and Mr. W. B. Gard, president of the U. S. National bank of Eugene, will judge entries in the Marshall-Case-Haycox-short-story contest, W. F. G. Thacher, professor of journalism, announced Thursday.

Authors may submit stories of any length to compete for the $50 first prize or the $25 second prize, but stories must be filed with Professor Thacher by February 15.

Each entry must consist of a manuscript and a duplicate, which may be a first carbon copy. The author's name must not appear on the manuscript itself, but be placed in an envelope with the name of the work on the outside.

Only one story may be submitted by each contestant, while all University students may enter, except those who have previously won the contest.

Gas War Talk Tonight

Dr. D. S. Dedrick, professor of chemistry, will talk to the Tri-Delts and ATO's tonight about protection against chemical warfare. This is the second in a series of talks which will be given at different living organizations in connection with civilian defense.

Dough for Doughboys To Ring Co-op 'V' Bell

By BARBARA YOUNGER

Ding! Ding! No that's not the sound of a fraternity rush meeting, it's the service scholarship box in the Co-op. Every time a nickle is dropped in the box, a bell rings for an Oregon man in the service.

"Beginning Monday we're going to have a sign on the box telling how much should be put in," Oge Young, chairman of the service scholarship fund, said Wednesday.

According to Young, the amount will be determined by Axis losses. If, for instance, seven Axis planes were shot down, the sign would read, "Seven axis planes shot down this week. Deposit seven cents." John Lauc, freshman in business administration, will have charge of the sign.

Students who do not live in organizations are given an opportunity to contribute to the scholarship fund in this way. The money will be turned into defense bonds and kept in trust for service men and women who return to the campus after the war.

Cup-Hunters Get Handbills To Provide Comeon for Dads

Three cups are being offered to houses registering the most dads as guests for Saturday, February 13. Facilities have been provided for the use of cup-questing organizations by the Dads' Day committee in the form of insert sheets to be sent home, according to Jim Thayer, general chairman.

These handbills have been placed in every living organization for members to include with their letters home. Chuck Politz, promotion chairman, suggests sending these sheets home even in cases where the dad probably will be unable to attend the festivities. This will serve as an invitation and will let him know what has been planned for the dads that do come. Mothers, too, are invited.

For non-affiliated students, a box, designed by Clell Crane, has been set up in the Co-op store with signs inviting each person to take one.

These bills are very handy, Politz revealed, saying "If you only have a short letter to write, write it on the back of the insert and the parent in his eager search for news of his son or daughter will turn it over and find his eyes feasting on the outline of an attractive program."

Jerry McCroskey, one of the brains on the Dads' idea trust, devised a system for downtown window display. He secured the few available laundry cardboards in town and Crane had posters pasted on them to be placed in store windows.

Annual Heart Hop Heads Begin Work

Getting plans under way for the annual Heart Hop to be held February 11 from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. the sophomore commission of the YWCA selected chairmen of the Hop committees Wednesday.

Chairmen are: general chairman, Ardis Jensen; finance chairman, Peggy Gardner; publicity, Ruth Van Buskirk; election of the King of Hearts, Connie Fuller and Fran Anderson; coronation, Sally Spiess, Betty McFadden, and Mary Riley; tickets, Alice Pepion, Nancy McLynn, and Carol Wicke; posters, Betty Casteel, Marian Schaefer, and Hildegarde Roseland.

The hop will be held at Gamma Phi Beta, Alpha Phi, Pi Beta Phi, and Alpha Chi Omega sororities. Dancers will rotate between the houses. The coronation will take place at the Gamma Phi Beta house. Each man's house will be asked to submit the name of their candidate for king early next week.
