

From the Pulpit

By FLORA KIBLER

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with thy mind. This is the first and greatest commandment." Ministers in Eugene have planned worship services for Sunday, to help us obey it.

At the Baptist church, Dr. Vance Webster is speaking at the 11 o'clock service on "The Supper of Our Lord." He will speak at 7:30 on "Is There a Future Life?" Alice Pepion is leading the B.Y. service at 6:30, the first of a series of four. The subject is "The Bible and Archeology."

Mass at St. Mary's Catholic church is at 8, 9:30, and 10:30.

Senior Endeavor Meets

At the First Christian church, Rev. Walter J. Fiscus' morning subject is "Christ Formed in You." His 7:30 p.m. subject is "In the Fullness of Time." Senior Endeavor is at 6:15.

The lesson-subject at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, is "Spirit" for the 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. services.

"Round Tires"—Exchange Topic

The speaker at the Congregational church will be Rev. Wilbur Simmons, an exchange pastor from the federated Presbyterian - Congregational church of Corvallis. His subject for the 11 o'clock service is "Round Tires Taken Away."

At St. Mary's Episcopal church Rev. H. R. White of Eugene is speaking at the 11 o'clock service on "Marching Forward." Canterbury club will meet at 6 p.m.

L.S.A. Gathers at YW

The Lutheran churches will have services as usual Sunday. The Lutheran student association meets in the YW bungalow at 6:30. Rev. Kie Nygaard is leading a discussion on miracles, which will be followed with informal games.

At the Methodist church, Rev. Joseph Adams from Everett, Washington, is the visiting speaker. At Wesley foundation, 7 o'clock, Mr. Orville Etter is leading a discussion on "Minorities."

Westminster Features Debate

Dr. Norman K. Tully at the Central Presbyterian church is speaking at 11 on "Living 24 Hours a Day." His 7:30 subject is "Wake Up and Live."

At Westminster house, the 9:45 discussion group will share ideas as usual. In the evening forum at 6:30 Al Larsen and Jack McCliment will give the debate which has been chosen as University's contestants in the national intercollegiate radio prize debates.

pers—and boy was that tough." As to its difficulties Haycox revealed, "In the first place I wasn't much of a salesman and the boys were continually chasing me off the best corners. But I used to make enough for a 10 cent breakfast."

Before coming to Oregon Haycox served in Mexico as part of the National Guard and was in France from December 1917 till February 1919. His patriotism has carried over in full force to this war and he is an integral part of the Portland draft board administration.

Followers of this Oregon writer will know that his main field of interest is in the western story.

Haycox is not a wanderer. With his lovely wife Jill, and two children Mary Ann and Ernest, his wanderings are fictional and his heart is in his home and community.

for tramping by an unknown by the name of Charlie Castaldo.

Peculiar is the fact that Kay Kyser's disks last year outsold those of any of the popularity poll winners. Admittedly, Kay's band is better than ever before but, frankly, we can't see that he merits this tribute. You'll be amazed no doubt to hear that Brother Kyser is throwing credit for the "enormous" sale of his waxings to the lads in the armed forces.

The king of the tenor, Coleman Hawkins, is back in Gotham nowadays, doing a couple of numbers per show with Kenny Clarke's little outfit at Kelly's Stable. After quite a bit of time in the Midwest, he didn't exactly return to the big city as a conquering hero, but as soon as the critic had had time to dig him the customers began to pour in. According to report, he is better than ever, and, son, that's really giving some.

what happens before Beckwith says somebody just planted his pin on someone of the Signa Fy Nothing clan. In other words, for every result there must be a cause.

A few of the problems I've heard lately are, 'How to get a man to ask you for the first date,' 'How to get a man to keep asking you for dates,' 'How to get a man to ask you to his house dance,' 'How to get a man to give you his pin,' and 'How to get a man.'

Not in 4F

"Just to illustrate the seriousness of this problem, only yesterday I saw three girls dashing madly to buy cokes (the kind with a flavor) and doughnuts and all of them rushing for one little guy lying in an inert heap in one of the booths. It was sorta sad, too, when he finally admitted that he really wasn't a 4-F; he'd just been doing the Burpee. Then, of course, there is always the popular girl who has her problems too. Like 'Shall I go and see the Errol Flynn show tonight, or tomorrow night.'

"Gee, I almost forgot, this is supposed to be a fan letter, so I'll tell you what I started out to say. Don't forget the two bits. Bye now, Peaches."

Louise Montag from Susie points out that Tuesday's column was "all wet" in regard to the code message. The system of using the Morse code was correct, but its application was a bit faulty.

First to actually have the message worked out before it appeared in print were Pat Perry and Minnie Steens, flanked by Montag and others, according to Montag. Others didn't have much to say.

I guess it's your turn, Fred.
