UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1943

NUMBER 75

Oregon Mangles Idaho, 66-41

What's a Beaver Rally? Come, See--Thursday

University students will have an opportunity to see what happens at an Oregon State assembly when Dave Baum, OSC student body president, and 15 or 16 other Beavers appear here Thursday at 11 a.m. to present a typical OSC rally assembly in McArthur court.

Just as if they were in Corvallis, the Beavers will conduct a rally assembly here to build spirit for the coming civil war basketball battle set for Saturday night in McArthur court when dads will be on the campus.

Exchange Assembly

The rally by Oregon State will be in return for the University's mission of goodwill that will go to Corvallis Wednesday morning to present an assembly, Clint Paine, rally squad leader, said Monday night.

Going to Corvallis will be 14 Webfoots who will conduct a rally with Earle Russell acting as master of ceremonies. Les Anderson will give the OSC student body a short talk and Paine will tell the Beavers about plans for the game here Saturday and the Dads' Day program for the weekend.

Spider Dickson Acts

Ray "Spider" Dickson will give a humorous radio skit with Jim Prior, Tom Kay, Frank Watkins and Jack Daily assisting him. A swing rhythm trio with Marv Brown, G. Duncan Wimpres and Bob Sell is scheduled for appearance with the Pi Beta Phi trio.

Earle Russell will lead the Oregon Staters in two University yells and two Oregon State yells.

Full plans for the OSC assembly on this campus have not yet been revealed, according to Les Anderson.

Pick of Dads Sports Ring

By BETTY LU SIEGMAN

First an engagement ring and then an orchid and the title of "Smile's a Million Girl" figuratively fell into the lap of June-Marie Wilson, junior in music, last Saturday. If the three former honors sound rather familiar, it is because Miss Wilson is treading almost the same path as Little Colonel Helen Holden, who, less than two weeks ago, also received an orchid and an engagement ring besides her "Colonel" title.

First Orchid

"I had just received my first orchid last Saturday night when Neida Rohrback, who is chairman of the 'Smile's' contest, called and told me that I was the winner," said Alpha Omicron Pi's sparkling candidate, who was still excited at the "big surprise."

"I'll be hanged," was all that Dwight Wycoff, who is responsible for June-Marie's engagement ring and the navy pin she is wearing, could say when the Smile's girl told him the news.

Boy Friend Didn't Know

Miss Wilson added, "He didn't even know I was a candidate in the contest, so no wonder he was so surprised. He is a student on the campus but will leave for the

Instructors Act On Air Corps Bid

Miami Beach, Florida, will be the six-week stopping point for two members of the University faculty before they take over duties as instructors in pre-flight work in the U.S. army air corps.

Dr. F. D. Walker, of the University English department, recently commissioned at first lieutenant in the air corps, will leave Sunday for Florida where he will begin basic training. Also leaving shortly is Dr. C. W. Clancy, instructor in zoology, now second lieutenant in the air corps.

Both men expect to teach either mathematics or some allied branch of pre-flight training, Dr. Walker revealed.

will be six weeks of general train-

Preceding actual teaching duty near Miami Beach, to be followed by specialized training at a base near Santa Ana, California.

The two faculty members will serve with experienced instructors from colleges and universities all over the country, Dr. Walker explained. These men will be called during the next few months to help with pilot training, and will probably remain in the service 'until the duration.'

Both Dr. Walker and Dr. Clancy received leaves of absence, according to Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of the University.

Smile Girl June Marie Wilson Charms Dads to Win Title

Dads will be greeted Saturday by brunette June Marie Wilson, junior in music, Smiles a Million Girl. Nelda Rohrback, contest chairman, announced the winner yesterday after a committee of five Eugene dads had narrowed the field to three of 18 candidates.

Mary Wright and Marian Harris, the other two finalists, will accompany Miss Wilson on the dad glad-handling rounds and will appear as guests at all planned functions, Miss Rohrback announced. The three were chosen from seven finalists: Pat Ward, Barbara Bentley, Virginia Howard, Dorothy Hayden, and Roberta Madden.

Write Home

Students who have not already done so are urged by Promoter Charles Politz to write home and enclose one of the yellow handbills that have been provided to facilitate describing the activities planned for visiting parents. Mothers are welcome, too.

War Services For Women Parade For AWS

To give college women a preview of life-to-come, a nurse, an army nurse, a WAAC, and a WAVE will speak before an AWS assembly, 207 Chapman, Thursday at 4 p.m.

"Motion pictures with sound will be shown," announced Mary Jane Dunn, chairman of the assembly.

Main speaker of the event will be Miss Elenora Thomson, director of the department of nursing education at the University of Oregon medical school.

Miss Thomson was a member of a special committee sent to Italy to set up schools for public health in 1918, and was president of the American Nurse's association for five years.

She first came to Oregon in a model experimental public health unit sponsored and financed by the Commonwealth fund. A trained social worker, she was the first executive secretary of the Illinois State Mental Hygiene society.

Quinn Confined to 9 Points; UO Gets Hot Second Half

By FRED BECKWITH
Co-Sports Editor, the Emerald

Shaking their first half lethargy, Oregon's varsity Ducks cracked the Idaho Vandal defense last night in McArthur court and walked away with a 66-41 basketball game.

For a half it was close. The Hobsonmen were leading only 25-22 at the intermission gun. But a fast-breaking green-and-gold quintet completely split the visiting five's floating zone set-up, and two complete strings of Oregon melon-tossers rang the basketball often.

Scoring honors were divided among Warren Taylor, the high-point gent who collected 13 digits, Roy Seeborg, sub forward who bagged 12, and Roger Wiley who raggied home 11 points.

The Idaho offensive attack was headed by the Vaunted Fred Quinn and Bob Ryan, both of whom tanked nine points. Quinn, the northern division's leading scorer, was obviously off his game, although he was held in check fairly well by an Oregon first half man-to-man defense, and a second half shifting-zone defense.

Williamson Sparks

Little Stan Williamson, who incidentally turned in a magnificent floor game, sparking the fast break attack down the pinewoods, put the Ducks on the scoreboard by turning in a free throw, off Fred Quinn's foul. On the exchange, aforementioned Quinn planted himself in his favorite spot on the boards, in the right hand corner of the Duck court. He took a pass from Jack Ryan, and then cooled one through the cords of the net to shove the Vandals in front, 2-1.

But Warren Taylor sank a follow-shot following Rog Wiley's free-throw failure, and Ed Dick connected on a lay-in. Captain Kirsch popped one from short center, smack in front of the basket and it was 7-2.

The Vandals pulled up on Bob Ryan's close-in basket, Fred Quinn's tip-follow of a Quinn attempted charity toss, and Benson's push shot. During this three-basket spree, Kirsch canned a foul toss, and it was 8-8. Shortly after that, Oregon pulled out in front. Rolph Fulmer entered the contest, and with the Ducks leading 11-10, he made connections on a one-handed set-shot.

Two more free throws by the varsity lads, and Borrevik's set-shot from dead in front of the hoop, hoisted the figures to 17-10. And all throughout this portion of the game, the play was ragged, both clubs handling the ball poorly and missing a flurry of shots.

Game Opens Up

But with three minutes remaining in the first half, the casaba affair opened up like a bookie's window at a horse race. Quinn and Benson had moved the Vandals within scoring distance, and after the 198-lb. Quinn had potted a thirty-foot set-shot, the count was 18-18.

Taylor canned a close-in effort, and the evening's surprise performer, Mr. Roy Seeborg checked

Huestis Thrashes Way To New PCCS Swim Mark As Ex-Champ Watches

By G. DUNCAN WIMPRESS

Irony struck home last Saturday afternoon at the University pool when Jack Dallas, '41, former all-American swim star, fired a gun.

Dallas, who held the Pacific coast 100 yard breast-stroke record, was official starter Saturday as Oregon's water-struck Webfoots blasted the OSC Beavers, 55-19. It was he who fired the gun to start the breast-stroke event. It was he who urged

Ralph Huestis, Webfoot junior, on as Huestis, soon far ahead of the pack, roared through the blue-green water. It was he who clicked the watch as hard-breathing Huestis slapped the end of the pool to win the event in the record shattering time of 1:04.5 minutes. It was he who stood by, quietly

Girls Go Piggin'; King Coming Up

With only two days remaining for girls to get their dates with their secret heart throbs for the Heart Hop, a buzzing of telephone wires points to a scarcity of dates for those who delay.

Candidates for the position of King of Hearts were announced Monday by Connie Fulmer, election chairman. Girls holding tickets will vote in front of the Side for the following:

Keith Claycomb, Campbell club; Sam Crowell, Beta Theta Pi; Bob Fugit, Alpha Tau Omega; Elliot Wright, Phi Delta Theta; Uke
