Coronation

The King and two Knaves of Hearts will be announced Thursday and the coronation will be held at the Gamma Phi Beta house following a regal procession across the campus.

Tickets go off sale in all women's living organizations today, but may be purchased at a booth at the Side Wednesday. Alyce Pepion, ticket chairman, announced that Hilyard house, Chi Omega, and University house have gone 100 per cent in the purchase of tickets, in addition to Gamma Phi Beta, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, and Alpha Phi which she had formerly announced. Gamma Phi Beta won the order for three records for going 100 per cent first.

service at the end of the term," she explained.

"I didn't even think of being in the semi-finals when the candidates from each women's living organization met last Saturday afternoon to be judged by a committee of five dads," she said. "We met in Gerlinger and three of us at a time went into a separate room where the judges, along with Jim Thayer and Nelda Rohrback 'looked us over,'" June-Marie added.

Simple Procedure

"All that each of us did was to tell them our name, major, and class year. Then a short time later they announced the eight semi-finalists, and we went in together and talked to the judges for 10 minutes.

"They said they would tell us the winner on Monday, so I was doubly surprised when they called me that night," she said.

When asked what she plans to do when she graduates, June-Marie, who majors in public school music, replied, "Well, I want to get married, but I'll probably teach."

CAMPUS CALENDAR

Roy C. Andrews, instructor in chemistry, will speak on "The Electron Microscope" at the regular meeting of the chemistry seminar this afternoon of 4:15 in 103 McClure hall. Everyone interested is invited to attend.
