Oregon Cagers Triumph, 44-40

THETH Paicy EMERALD As Webfoots Finish Series

VOLUME XLIV UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1943

JUST CHECKING . . .

. . . to see if they are officially in one of the reserve programs listed the library are Charles Powers and Fred Beckwith.

Library Lists Name Reserves, Check for Errors Requested

All men in navy reserves V-7, V-5, and V-1, are requested to be sure their names are included on the reserve lists which are placed on the bulletin boards in the circulation department of the library, it was announced Tuesday by Dr. Carl F. Kossack, campus armed forces representative.

Stressing the importance of this measure, Dr. Kossack said that it is necessary for all reserve men check with these lists, because there is a chance that some may not have their names included. This means that they are not officially registered in any particular reserve.

If this is the case, they should see Dr. Kossock immediately. He added that it is possible that all men not listed might not officially be in any reserve.

A total of 266 University men are listed under navy V-1, 18 men included in V-5, and 90 men in

Jewett Prize Contest Set For Today

Preliminaries for the winter term Jewett speech contest will be held today at 3:30 p.m. in 107 Friendly hall, K. E. Montgomery, instructor in speech, announced Tuesday.

Six finalists will be chosen from the group which speaks today. These will appear Thursday eveing in the finals of the contest

Information, Please

Each contestant will be asked to start his seven minute constructive speech. The judges, at any time they desire during the speech, will stop the speaker and ask him a question concerning his subject. The speaker will be required to answer the question immediately with no preparation.

Results of the preliminary contest will be announced in Thursday's Emerald.

Judges Named

Judges will be Mr. Montgomery, W. A. Dahlberg, acting director of speech, R. B. Huber, assistant professor of speech, and enneth S. Wood, instructor in

Students entering the preliminaries who have class at 3 this afternoon are requested to arrive as soon as possible after their ommendations by a board of three

Navy Throws

Seventeen-year-olds now in college were recently given the opportunity to apply for enlistment as apprentice seamen under the navy's V-5 program, according to Dr. Carl F. Kossack, campus armed forces representative.

Qualified men who enlist will be allowed to remain in school until they become 18, when they may be transferred to aviation cadet status under the V-5 program, and ordered to navy flight preparatory school.

New Program

An alternative to this would be continuance as apprentice seamen and appointment to college in the new college active duty program, which will be announced later. This would give them up to one year of college work, at the end of which time they would be transferred to aviation cadet status and ordered to duty in flight prep schools.

Requirements for eligibility under the program are age of 17; enrollment in an accredited college; physical, mental and moral qualifications; being in the upper two-thirds of the class; and rec-

(Please turn to page eight)

Good Will Rally Beaver Bound

Off on a mission of good will today are 16 Oregon students who are going to Corvallis to show the Beavers how the University of Oregon puts on a rally assembly for the coming weekend of basketball battles and Oregon's Dads' day.

A return assembly here Thursday morning will feature 15 or 16 Oregon State students who will present a rally program to Oregon students just as if they were at home in their own men's gym performing for fellow Beavers.

Ray "Spider" Dickson and a group of his cohorts will present a humorous radio broadcast such as they gave last weekend at a campus dance. The swing trio will accompany a quintet of Webfoots, and master of ceremonies will be Oregon Yell King, Earle

Oregon State has not yet revealed the full plans of their assembly here, but plenty of spirit is expected for the pre-game rally set for 11 o'clock Thursday morning in McArthur court.

The group of Webfoots going to Corvallis today will leave here sometime this morning, travel to Oregon State by bus, and have lunch in the Memorial Union building. At 1 p.m. they will present their rally to the Beavers and return to this campus later in the afternoon.

Idaho Series

I guess we showed them basket-

With all the fancy frills, And really sent them running

Beyond the purple hills. -J.W.S.

By FRED TREADGOLD Co-Sports Editor, the Emerald

Oregon's battling Ducks had to strain to the utmost to squelch a tired but fiery Idaho Vandal quint in one of the roughest embroglios of the current campaign last night at the Igloo, 44 to 40. The Webfoots did it after a tough pull and thereby strengthened their grip on third place and further added to the misery of the Cellarite Moscovites who dropped number four on their Willamette valley jaunt.

King, Knaves Will Rule Hop

University women will make known their favorite pigger when Abbie Jane White, president of YWCA, crowns the King of Hearts tomorrow at 4:30 at the Gamma Phi Beta house.

Voting will be in progress today from 10 to 5 at the College Side, Each ticket bought will be good for one vote for the King of Hearts.

Heart Trail

The hop will be held this year at the Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Phi, and Gamma Phi Beta houses. Dancing will be from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., and dancers may transfer from one house to another, following the chain of hearts connecting the four

After the King and his Knaves) have been crowned they will be escorted to each house where they will be introduced and hon-

Contestants

Candidates for the King of Hearts title are:

Keith Claycomb, Campbell club; Sam Crowell, Beta Theta Pi; Bob Fugit, Alpha Tau Omega; Elliot Wright, Phi Delta Theta; Uke Paris, Alpha hall; James O'Connor, Phi Sigma Kappa; Dick Reingold, Sigma Alpha Mu; Carlton Woodward, Delta Upsilon; Hank Voderburg, Phi Gamma

Art Murphy, Canard club; Don (Please turn to page eight)

In contrast with Monday night's tussle where the Ducks sprang ahead and then coasted up to the victory door, last night the Vandals were always within striking distance and gave Oregon an anxious time in the dying minutes of the game.

Quinn Connects

Fred Quinn, Vandal point crazy center, was tailed doggedly by the Duck defense but managed to connect on four seemingly impossible hook shots and converted four out of eight from the free throw lanes to ring the bell for an even dozen markers. This boosted his season aggregate to 118 in nine encounters for a 13.1 average, which if he can maintain will crack Ray Turner's record of 192.

Sparking the driving Ducks to their fourth straight triumph was little Donnie Kirsch and Roy Seeborg with 11 and 10, respectively. Diminutive Stan Williamson garnered but one field bas-

(Please turn to page four)

Films Illustrate Nursing Roles

Today is assembly day. "Yes," sigh the freshman girls expressively, "Another assembly." Mary Jane Dunn, chairman of the AWSsponsored event, announces that "This is not just another assembly, but is of special concern to every college woman interested in taking part in the war effort, not only to freshmen, but to upperclassmen interested in branches of nursing as well."

To be held in 207, Chapman, at 4 p.m. today, sound motion pictures will be shown by Miss Elenora Thomson, director of the department of nursing education at the University of Oregon medical school, illustrating the part that nursing plays in our lives today. She will be accompanied by an army nurse.

Miss Thomson was president of the American Nurse's association.

(Please turn to page three)

AirwaysOpen Funlover Abbe Pauses; To Young'uns Scribe Asks Questions

By CHARLES POLITZ

James Abbe is a character, and he loves it!

The small, outspoken, always active, KGW news commentator who will be the principal speaker at Saturday's Dads' Day Point Ration luncheon, is an enigma's enigma—a wiry gob of flesh on a toothpick with a "shaven dry" fish bowl-like head.

Clad in a wrinkled green shirt with rolled up sleeves that showed his tanned, sinewy arms, a loud Hawaiian print tie, and shapeless trousers, he swiveled in his typewriter chair in the KGW business office and said:

"Always raise my children-I've got eight-by biting them in the flank, setting them loose. Be prepared to ask questions though. I'm going to make the interview very informal. Ask lots of ques-

Portrait 'First'

The globe-trotting photographer journalist, who took the first formal posed portrait of Josef Stalin, darted out of the room, was back in a flash.

"This is one of my four scrapbooks," he said, holding a bound book the size of a granite slab. "That's the Stalin picture there. Took me a month to get in the Kremlin. Stalin's eyes were very

(Please turn to page three)

JAMES ABBE . . . "Hitler's hard to photograph-"