Last Call Issued For Short Stories

Marshall-Case-Haycox short-story contest entries must be submitted to Professor W. F. G. Thacher in room 3 journalism on or before Monday, February 15, for consideration.

Open to all regularly enrolled undergraduates, except previous prize winners, the contest offers $50 as first prize, and $25 second.

Although there is no restriction on length or subject, each contestant may submit only one original story. Manuscripts must be presented in duplicate, one of which may be a first carbon copy.

The contestant's name must not appear on manuscript, but should be written on a piece of paper enclosed in an accompanying envelope bearing the name of the story.

Girls crowded into sorority dormitories at Northwestern university have been moved into two Evanston hotels.

NYA Payroll Looms

The present NYA payroll period ends February 15, according to an announcement from the dean of personnel's office. All NYA students should turn in their time cards for this period by Monday to the payroll department in Johnson hall.

Dean Reports 'Figaro' Good

(Continued from page one) the company, all of them under the age of 30 and American citizens, are former students of the Juilliard school of music in New York where the idea for the "Marriage of Figaro" production first originated.

A problem which at first faced the company was how they could bring opera to the American public if burdened with the cost of transporting elaborate scenery. But they soon discovered the principle upon which "The Marriage of Figaro" is produced: that if you substitute a good script and an artful narrator for the usual scenery, the audience will use its imagination and help build the set for itself.

Versatile Barber

John Tyers, who was a star athlete at San Diego State college from where he was graduated in 1936, plays the role of Figaro, the gay and wily ex-barber. Figaro is no "mollycoddle" when he can't think himself out of a scrape, which is seldom, he can jump out of a second story window if necessary.

Helen Van Loon, a graduate of the University of Michigan where she was a member of Delta Gamma and Mu Phi Epsilon, plays the part of Figaro's leading lady, Susanna, who is the pretty personal maid of the countess.

Susanna Charms

Her charms have caught the roving eye of her master, Count Almaviva, played by George Britton, talented baritone.

The remaining roles are filled

Concert Slates Operatic Arias

Standard arias from well-known operas will compose the University school of music's all operatic concert to be held in the music auditorium February 25 at 8:15 p.m.

The concert will be similar to an operatic concert given last spring. Ten soloists, together with a special opera chorus composed of members of the music school, will participate.

Numbers to be sung include the "Seguidilla" from "Carmen" by Bizet, "O Patria Mia" from "Aida" by Verdi, "M'appari" from "Martha" by von Flotow, "Voi lo Sapete" from "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni, and "Thy Little Hand" from "Don Juan" by Mozart.

Soloists include Marie Rogn-dahl, coloratura soprano; Margaret Zimmerman and Betty Fields, dramatic sopranos; June Johnson and Marjorie Junor, lyric sopranos; Barbara Bentley, mezzo soprano; Lee Ghormley, lyric tenor; Raymond Leonard, James McMullen, and William Putnam, baritones.

Dean Jewell Donates Cook for MacArthur

Dr. J. R. Jewell, dean of the school of education, has a rather unique, remote-control part in the war, for he has "given" General Douglas MacArthur a cook, Arthur "Nannie" Raynor by name, who according to AP dispatches in last week's papers is the big reason why General MacArthur has been keeping fit.

"Nannie" Raynor was a student and personal friend of Dean Jewell's when Dean Jewell was head of the college of education at the University of Arkansas. When Dr. Jewell came to Oregon in 1927 to teach at Oregon State College, Mr. Raynor came also and operated the lunch concession in the Memorial Union building for two years, then joined the regular army as a cook, where he later became personal cook for General Douglas MacArthur.

by Allen Stewart, as Basilio; Vera Weikel, as Cherubino; Lura Stover, as the Countess Almaviva, and Gean Greenwell as Narrator. Max Walmer is pianist for the troupe.
