Social Activities End With Dance, Desserts

By LOIS HULSER, Society Editor

It's "thirty" for the term as this weekend sees the last of winter term social events. Friday claims three formals, seven informals. Sigma Kappa is having its formal at the chapter house. George Carey will play for the Phi Gamma Delta formal at the Eugene hotel. Kappa Sigma girls will wear victory corsages to the formal at the Osburn. Art Holman will play.

Alpha Tau Omega will entertain at the fireside. Pi Kappa Alpha's dinner dance is scheduled for the chapter house. Remembering is the theme for Sigma Alpha Mu's informal. "Hellsapoppin" is slated by Sigma Phi Epsilon, and "Nightmare" by Theta Chi. Sigma Nu and Phi Delta Theta radio dances complete the list.

Under the Line

Although Saturday evening is closed, special permission has been granted Sigma Alpha Epsilon and the interdorm council to have their dances which were scheduled before the student affairs committee hung the "closed" sign on the winter term social calendar.

Slated also is the SAE formal at the house. Independents will dance in John Straub hall at an informal radio dance after the game.

Desserts

Exchanges for the week include Phi Gamma Delta-Delta Gamma; Phi Kappa Psi-Alpha Chi Omega; Hendricks hall-Phi Sigma Kappa; Pi Kappa Alpha-Gamma Phi Beta; Hilyard house-

Sherry Ross hall; Chi Omega-Kappa Alpha Mu; Sigma Chi-Kappa Kappa Gamma; Alpha Delta Pi-Sigma Nu; Pi Beta Phi-Sigma Phi Epsilon; Delta Delta Delta-Theta Chi; Chi Psi-Kappa Alpha Theta; Alpha Gamma Delta-Omega hall, and Alpha Omicron Pi-Phi Delta Theta; Alpha Phi's midweek date was preference.

Delta Tau Delta entertained 18 coeds last night at their Sister-Daughter banquet.

Ah Spring! Sighs Marty B

With the coming of a real, certified, approved by Good House-keeping, Spring day, we see the campus coeds blossoming out in pastels and bare feet, and throwing their bandanas and raincoats on the nest branch of the McKenzie river.

Now is that time of year when zoot-suiters replace daisy chains for their heavy gold chains, when books are only a not very misleading camouflage, when girls were daffodils and forsythia in their hair, and when we begin day-dreaming of a spring vacation filled with sleep and sunshine, sunshine and sleep, sleep and sunshine.

Symptoms

Although the feeling that spring is here may be a little premature, we cannot disregard the noticeable symptoms—eager, friendly windows opened wide, to sunshine and warm, scented air; convertibles with their tops down (what convertibles?); empty classrooms, the professors lecturing to rows of scarred desks; and four, blank-faced walls (instead of to the customary blank-faced students).

Then there is music drifting around your head, coming through open doors from blaring phonographs; and the sunny enthusiasm of bright clothes against the green lawns of the campus. Tu-lips in the dark are spring, too, and even though you can't see them, it's the feeling that counts.

Have a Weed

We very deliberately ignore our books and hike out towards the country, and pick a scraggly weed to che wick and wander through an ivied graveyard, reading the old tombstones, feeling very philosophical about life and death.

Oh, marshmallow (profanity!), we should have known better than to write about spring in this temperamental Oregon weather, for it's starting to rain. Well, recover your slickers and your bandanas and your galoshes. Maybe the sunshine was only a mirage, so we'll just keep spring on ice for another month or so.
