board will remain a monument to his insight and tolerance. In his death I have lost a benefactor; his colleagues have lost a friend; the state, a real reformer."

Came Here in 1920
Dr. Phillip A. Parsons came to the University of Oregon in 1920 from Syracuse university, where he had served as professor of sociology and head of the department. He was ordained a Presbyterian minister but devoted vir-

Held Many Offices
One of the important phases of Dr. Parsons' work was his direction of the annual commonwealth conferences which have studied Oregon's social and economic problems for many years. He served for several years as editor of the Commonwealth Review, organ of the conference.

Dr. Parsons was chairman of the Oregon child welfare commission from 1928 to 1931, chairman of the Oregon planning board, and through the years has held a large number of official posts in a wide range of social welfare organizations.

Also An Author
The sociology head was the author of several books — "Responsibility for Crime," 1909; "An Introduction to Modern Social Problems," 1924; "Crime and the Criminal," 1926; "Nature and Prospects of Civilization," 1936.

Dr. Parsons was a member of all the leading sociology and social-work organizations, including the American Sociological society, the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology, the National Council of the American Association of Social Workers, National Probation association, National Liberal League, American Association of

Navy Commission Given Religion Professor

The navy obtained another University of Oregon professor this week when Dr. Paul B. Means, professor of religion, went to Annapolis, Maryland, where he will be commissioned a lieutenant, senior grade.

According to Dr. Earl M. Pallett, registrar, no successor has been appointed to fill Dr. Means' place because there have been no applications from qualified persons for the position.

Dr. Means came to Oregon in 1911, after teaching at the College of Puget Sound since 1939.

He obtained his A.B. at Yale in 1915, B.Litt. in 1923 from Oxford, and his Ph.D. in 1934 from Columbia university.

Dr. Means spent 12 years in Borneo, Sumatra, and Singapore, supervising religious publications for the Methodist church.

During World War I he was a YMCA worker for two years in Calcutta, India, and spent one year with the British army in Mesopotamia.

His family will remain in Eugene for the duration.

WAR BOND QUIZ

- Q. Does an album filled with Stamps automatically become a Bond that will mature in 10 years?
A. No. It must be exchanged for a Bond, and it will bear no interest until it is so exchanged.
- Q. Can payment of a War Savings Bond be made to the receiver or trustee in bankruptcy of the estate of a registered owner?
A. Yes, when bankruptcy or insolvency has been adjudicated and request for payment has been duly executed.
- Q. Can I authorize my employer to set aside portions of my salary each pay day until enough is accumulated to buy a War Savings Bond?

- By Gib Crockett.
- A. Yes, if your employer has installed a Pay-Roll Savings Plan. More than 24 million wage and salary earners are saving their money this way.
- Q. Can I invest a certain sum in War Bonds and receive from the investment a return in the nature of an annuity?
A. No. The purchase of each War Savings Bond is a separate transaction. Each Bond is dated as of the first of the month in which payment for it is received by an authorized issuing agent, and matures exactly 10 years from that date.

Remember—the longer you keep War Bonds, up to 10 years, the more valuable they become.
