Equipment Drive Results Surprise Sports Editors

The drive for sports equipment was a success, with an exclamation point after the statement, in the opinion of Len Barde, war board chairman and originator of the brain storm that the campus should participate in the drive to buy athletic equipment for the soldiers in the northwest.

In return for the check Barde mailed to L. H. Gregory, Portland Oregonian sports editor and originator of the plan, Barde received the following letter Monday:

Dear University of Oregon Students:

For goodness' sake, when you contemplate knocking someone dead that way again, will you kindly give us a wee bit of advance notice so we can brace ourselves? Honestly, your totally unexpected, but widely welcome check just received of $305.10 as your board's contribution, has been the big event of the day.

I opened the letter casually, wondering what the student war board had in mind from me. Got a glimpse of that check first. Wowie! With trembling fingers I went on to read the letter. Then with a whoop I threw same (and check) over to Al Stump, who has been handling the service men's equipment campaign.

He was just as much surprised and delighted, and so was Jimmy Richardson when Stump rang him up. You see, aside from the generosity of the $305.10, it was the last push needed to send the fund to the $10,000 mark.

We certainly appreciate immensely, and I, individually, appreciate the check, and your efforts personally, and the generous spirit of all concerned, even more so. Al will give the contribution a top column in his drive story, and I am also going to make a column mention of it.

Many thanks again.

Sincerely,

(Signed) L. H. Gregory.

Men All Hail! You Lose by 148

A total of 443 students have dropped from the University since the beginning of the winter term, Assistant Registrar Clifford L. Constance announced today. That a considerable number of these have been women was shown by the enrollment breakdown, which now shows 148 more women than men enrolled.

The final enrollment total lists 2,016 students at the University. This total, however, includes graduate students and auditors.

Sophomores Lead

Sophomores take the lead when a further breakdown is made. Enrollments by classes are: graduates, 79; senior, 387; junior, 162; sophomore, 743, and freshman, 718. The totals include 64 new students and 2,024 old students.

The liberal arts department, when not divided into its many small groups, has the largest number of students, a total of 1,010. The school of business administration is next with 413, followed by the school of architecture and allied arts, which lists 200 majors.

Other Enrollments

The other enrollments by school are: journalism, 143; physical education, 105; law, 86; music, 83; auditors, 6; general studies, none.

The total enrollment figure for this term is final, as Saturday was the last day to register. Enrollments for previous terms this year have been: fall, 2,925 and winter 2549.

The registrar's office has postponed the house grade reports until all ERC withdrawals are taken care of.

Since men are withdrawing constantly for the armed forces, the most recent registration total given by Mr. Constance, will undoubtedly be the high mark for spring term. All air corps reservists have completed their withdrawals, and ERC men now comprise the bulk of those leaving the University.

(See Program Page 8)

Movies taken in South America in full color will be shown this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Chapman hall and again tomorrow evening at 7 in connection with the Inter-American Relations and post-war planning institute being held on the campus April 1 and 2.

Warren D. Smith, head of the geography and geology departments, will show the seven reels of movies that last more than an hour, and all students and faculty members are invited to attend the program for which no admission will be charged.

The institute is under the direction of A. L. Lomax, professor of business administration, and the affair is being made possible through the office of the coordinator of Inter-American affairs.

Working with Professor Lomax on the committee for the institute are Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of school of business administration; Dr. Waldo Schumacher, professor of political science, Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of geology and geography; Dr. Leavitt O. Wright, professor of Romance languages; and Dr. Anibal Vargas-Baron, instructor in Romance languages.

Dorms Merge in Plan 'For Any Emergency'

Merger of Alpha and Gamma halls with Sigma and Omega, respectively, was effected last weekend to concentrate the remaining occupants in three halls.

Halls now occupied and their new names are Alpha Sigma, Gamma Omega, and Sherry Ross. The ERC call on April 6 is not expected to affect this situation as most of the dormitory ERC men did not register for school this term.

Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories, said, "Because there were only 110 men in the dorm, they were moved to fill the south end and leave the other open for any emergency, as we may house military men at some future date."

Deficit: 148

As masculine registration fails, Coeds turn from males to mails. —K.S.

Interview, Test, Past Record To Determine Future Status Of Navy, Marine Reservists

By BILL LINDLEY

Final plans for determining how long navy and marine reserve members will remain at the University are taking shape, and plans have been formulated for a written test to be given April 20, according to Dr. Carl F. Kossack, armed forces representative on the campus.

The test is one of three factors which will determine just how long the student continues in college. The other two are his present college record and an interview which will take place sometime after the test is given.

Reserves Notified

Men in the reserves are being notified by mail, so all will know of the examination well in advance of the date on which it will be given. Men will be excused from classes for the day, but are warned to attend both morning and afternoon sessions.

Two cards accompany the announcement which is being mailed out, they should be filled out and returned within 24 hours after they are received.

Supervisors Excuse

Supervisors may excuse bona fide pre-medical and pre-dental students from the test, but they are urged to take it. In case they cannot finally qualify for further education in their profession, they will still be eligible for regular deck or engineering officer training.

Marine reservists will also be given the same test, but certain sections which the naval students are required to answer will be optional for the marines.

They will not be graded down for not answering the questions, but answering them may give them a chance at a higher classification. Juniors and seniors in the marine corps reserve are not required to take the test.

Review Math Classes Planned for Reservists

Dr. Carl F. Kossack, armed services representative, has announced that special review classes will be conducted Tuesday and Thursday evenings in 206 Deady from 7:30 to 8:30 to prepare reservists for the examination April 20. The classes will review plane geometry, trigonometry, and algebra. First class will be held tonight.

Negro Singer Falls Prey To Practical Joker

By BETTY LU SIEGMAN

Noted for her musical versatility and vocal range, Dorothy Maynor, young negro soprano, will appear in Eugene to present one of her versatile programs under the University's Greater Artist concert series Friday, April 2 at 8 p.m. in McArthur court.

Ever since her rich and lovely voice delighted the audience at a surprise audition given by Serge Koussevitzky, famous conductor of the Boston symphony orchestra, for members of his orchestra at the Berkshire Festival, it has been realized by persons of the musical world the rare vocal and emotional range of her voice.

Celebrity Victim

Miss Maynor has been learning rapidly that a celebrity is often the victim of practical jokers. Recently she was the victim of a hoax through which she bestowed several hundred dollars worth of free singing to someone at the other end of a long distance wire.

It happened while she was giving a concert in Utica, New York. During an intermission a call
