

Senior V-7's May Remain Extra Term

Additional plans for the formation of the new navy V-12 classifications have been received from Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel by Dr. Carl F. Kos-sack, armed services representative for the University.

Present V-7 students who, as of July 1, 1943, have one term or less to complete to meet requirements for a bachelor's degree may, if they desire, remain on inactive duty at the college at which they are now enrolled. Engineering students may continue in college as long as they keep high grades, regardless of the number of semesters they have completed.

Extra courses may be carried while in V-12 if they do not interfere with curriculum prescribed by the navy. Students may participate in extracurricular activities, including athletics, if they don't interfere with regular studies.

Reserve officers may join previously organized college organizations, including fraternities, if they so desire, but the discipline standards of the navy will be maintained, the report emphasized.

The navy will contract for training, housing, feeding, and medical care at selected colleges and universities. The list of colleges is now being compiled, and will be soon made available for publication.

Stars Don't Twink . . . They Blink!

Stars don't twink—they blink. Yawning away their span of life, the vast system of stars are undergoing a slow process of "relaxation," according to a theory presented by Professor Subrahmanyan Chandrasekhar of the University of Chicago, and released by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The stars' manner of relaxing is different, to say the least. No masseur's rhythmic pat—but the traffic on the heavenly highways slows down these stellar "bundles of nerves."

"Any given star," Dr. Chandrasekhar said, "because of occasional near misses while passing other stars, gradually will lose energy by deflecting slower moving stars from their paths."

The systems, he said, spend a "lifetime" becoming relaxed.

Negro Singer Falls Prey

came from New York, supposed-ly from NBC. Olin Downes and Kirstin Flagstad, musical critic and singer respectively, were assembled at the studio for a Red Cross broadcast, the voice scolded.

Miss Maynor Flustered

They wanted to know why she wasn't there, too. Miss Maynor was flustered, for she knew of no engagement. Well, the voice continued, everything could be put right if Miss Maynor sang over the telephone so that a record might be made of her voice which might then be rebroadcast.

The great singer sighed, took a deep breath, and obliged with Strauss' "Zueignung," while her Utica audience filed back to its seats and impatiently waited for their soloist to return to the stage.

The next day, of course, the hoax was discovered, though the proprietor was not. Miss Maynor only shook her head and beamed jovially to the effect that, "It's the price of a career."

Haakon Lie Speaks Today to Class

Haakon Lie, secretary of the federation of labor of Norway, will be the guest speaker this morning at the 8 o'clock class in personnel management in room 107, commerce.

Lie, who escaped from the Nazi held country 13 months ago, is in Eugene today to speak to various organizations. His talks here are expected to be about the experiences of trade union members in Norway.

Lie is traveling in the United States under the auspices of the CIO war relief committee and the Norwegian embassy.

Fee Scholarship Deadline Nears

Deadline for fee scholarship application is April 1, and all students wishing to be considered candidates for the awards are urged to have the scholarship application forum completed and turned in at the office of Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of the University, ahead of the deadline.

These scholarships are given annually through the authorization of the state board of higher education, and are not to exceed in number two per cent of the enrollment in the school in which they are awarded.

Students who rank high in scholarship, and who need financial assistance, are eligible to apply. The scholarships carry a value of $66, applying toward annual charges totaling $103.50 at the University.

Business Workers Lunch Tomorrow

Emerald business office workers will meet at luncheon Wednesday afternoon at the Anchorage. Those workers who wish to attend should get in touch with Dwayne Heathman at the Emerald business office or at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house by 4 p.m. today.

Student Frolic Aired KORE

One half-hour program of song and dance will be presented each week by Oregon students over station KORE as a result of a campus-organized scheme to "dress up the Eugene hotel," which attracted the largest crowd Saturday night since dances began in February, according to Earle Russell, co-originator of the idea.

Organized by Russell and fellow-student Frank Bosch, the new attraction is a campus troupe which presented two intermission programs at the hotel during the course of last Saturday's dance.

Featuring the quintet, "Four Knights and a Dream," composed of Gene Cecchini, Frank Sardam, Paul Beard, Don Bridenstine, and Charlotte Gething, the troupe was "an overwhelming hit" at its first performance, Russell declared, and will continue to appear "as long as the army and navy will let us."

In event of as big a success in the 10:15-10:45 program over station KORE, the group looks forward to a possible Mutual Network hook-up. All entertainment will be added to or alternated during the year, with the exception of the quintet, which will appear as a regular feature. "They're really terrific," Russell commented. "We estimate last Saturday's crowd at close to 300."

Under the direction of Fred Beckwith, master of ceremonies, student entertainers will continue to present two programs at the hotel every Saturday evening. The first, lasting one-half hour, will be included in the broadcast, with the second period of only 10 or 15 minutes coming later in the evening. Main attractions will be a conga line, led by Helen Holden, University junior, who will also present a dance routine.

Pomona college will train 200 high school graduates in pre-meteorology.

Every branch of the Armed Services uses the telephone. One of a series, Anti-Aircraft.

To his mother and dad it seems only yesterday that he was using the family telephone to call his high school sweetheart. But today the orders he sends and receives over his wartime telephone help speed the day when love and laughter, peace and progress shall again rule the world.
