John Bull's Eye View Of 'Isle' Shown to Ducks

What England and America don't know about each other was brought out in the remarks of Eric Underwood, British publicist and student of world affairs, who talked to several groups on the campus and downtown Wednesday. Mr. Underwood is concerned over the calm way in which some Americans consider the prospect of the liquidation of the British "empire." He made a "hands across the sea" talk in Dean Eric W. Allen's editing class.

There is no British empire, the speaker insisted. It is the British commonwealth of nations. Other bits of information and opinion gleaned from his talks:

Churchill No Tory

Winston Churchill is no Tory; he is really and always has been a great radical; with Lloyd George he led the movement more than 30 years ago to destroy the power of the house of lords.

The "rich" in England are taxed up to 97½ per cent of their income.

Churchill has no tremendous power; he can be and is voted down in his own cabinet, over which he has no particular control. He votes only to break ties.

Best Press American

America has the best press in the world; England the next best.

The American hotels are the best in the world, and the English the worst.

The real leaders in England don't take titles of nobility; examples, Churchill, Lloyd George, Kipling, Galsworthy, Shaw.

London's yellow fogs practically have disappeared since the subway was electrified.

The people of Eugene, as indicated in newspaper accounts of the Rotary forum this week, have a better grasp than most others of the situation in India.

Points Weak

Education and agriculture, said to be weak points in the administration of India, are entirely within the control of India's own people.

Britain tries hard to get the Indians to study agriculture in other lands and to go out of India for educational ideas.

England has protected the "untouchables" of India, who formerly had no assurance of personal safety.

Irrigation Promoted

England has promoted irrigation in India, as a result of which famines have been wiped out and the population has increased 113,000,000 in the last 40 years.

Win Or Lose Russell Rules

Sigma Delta Chi has a queen without a throne.

Jane Russell, Howard Hughes' curviffig gift to censor boards, and star of the much-discussed "Outlaw" was chosen "Kayo Kween" of SDX's projected Golden Gloves tournament by the boys of the journalism honorary.

Miss Russell accepted with enthusiasm.

Now the journalists find that it will not be possible to hold this amateur boxing show.

But the boys of SDX today voted unanimously to retain sultry, eye-provoking Miss Russell as their queen, Golden Gloves or no Golden Gloves.

"You just don't throw away a carload of radium you know," Russ Hudson, SDX president, explained.

Weekend Idea To Gain Award

Before there can be a Junior weekend there has to be a theme, and before there can be a theme there has to be a brain behind it—which is a reminder of the chance open to all students to win the $5 prize for the most acceptable contribution in the contest.

Closing date of the contest is Wednesday, April 7 with all all themes to be turned in either to Dick Williams at the educational activities office or to Jean Frideger, in charge of the Junior weekend theme.

Popularity Plus

"Themes should be of popular appeal and avoid too much stress on war," said Miss Frideger.

University facilities should be considered for adaption of the theme, such as the fact that the affair will be held in McArthur court rather than along the mill race.

Because of this, the traditional campus luncheon and Canoe Fete will not be included in the theme plan, it was announced by the theme chairman.

Theme Considers

This plan or idea of the theme should take into consideration the Junior Prom and All-campus

Sing Deadline Set For Tuesday

The deadline for entering the all-campus sing contest to be held Junior weekend is Tuesday, April 6, according to Oge Young, sing chairman.

Each living organization, men and women, should turn in a notice to the Emerald bearing the following information: the name of the organization, the number in the chorus, song leader and name of the song.

Sample entry slip: Omicron Omicron Omicron; Chorus, 16; Leader, Nelson Eddy; Song, "Little Brown Jug." These slips are to be in the Emerald news room by Tuesday. Ted Goodwin will accept entries any time before Tuesday or they may be left in his mail box at the Emerald, Young announced.

It will be necessary to meet this deadline in order to be sure that the printed programs for the event will include the names of contesting organizations and their numbers.

At a meeting of song leaders March 26, it was decided that men's choruses will be limited to 18, due to the manpower shortage, and will have a minimum of 10. Women's groups will be from 16 to 25. These figures are not including song leaders.

The sing will follow the coronation of the Junior weekend queen and court at 8, Friday, April 30. The songs will be in the form of serenades to the queen. Singers will be in rows set aside on the lower floor of McArthur court.
