

Music Leaders Put War Theme In Resolutions

Northwest music educators brought the University music department right behind the combat lines Monday night in McArthur court. They ended their eighth biennial conferences with a community sing and rally under the resolution adopted in a Sunday business meeting, "That music departments bend their efforts in every way possible to aid in the effort."

The northwest music educators' teachers' chorus presented three selections, followed by the conference symphony band in a "Pan-American Concert" of both Latin, and American selections. Kenneth Hjelmervik, supervisor of music at Aberdeen, Washington, and instrumental affairs chairman of the conference, directed.

Beneficial Effect

The United States treasury sponsored community sing and rally were led by Augustus Zanzig of Washington, D.C., music consultant and organizer for the treasury. The treasury is taking interest in the occasion, believing that the development of community singing will have a beneficial effect on the public morale.

Delegates elected officers for 1944-45 at a business session Sunday afternoon, and adopted officially the name of "Northwest Music Educators Wartime Institute." Newly-elected officers follow:

The War Effort

Wayne Hertz, head of music department in Central Washington College of Education at Ellensburg, president; Walter C. Welke, retiring president from University of Washington, first vice-president; and Alvah Beecher, music head at University of Idaho, second vice-president.

"I think a great deal was accomplished in the conference," commented Dean Theodore Kratt, head of University music school and vice chairman of the conference. "The conference was good—helpful and inspiring. The people who attended will go home with a lot of ideas to assist in the war effort."

Treacherous Run Claims One Victim

One of the first casualties from the obstacle race occurred when Paul Bender was bounding over the course and broke his ankle, according to the infirmary. Jackie Smith, Elizabeth Stockwell, Mary Fitzgerald, and Robert Scott were also admitted on Monday.

On the same day Violet Moore, Dick Schultz, and Don Bennett were discharged.

"I'm really looking forward to Junior Weekend!" exclaimed blond Mary Bentley, elected as the 1943 "South American Way" weekend.

"We haven't had any meetings or get-togethers yet," the tall Phi Theta said as she curled up in one corner of the lounge on the Kappa Kappa Gamma sun porch, "but they took pictures of the court the other day. We were all very excited of course."

Also House Vice-Presy

Mary, known on the campus as "Bentle," is campus social chairman and a former Kwama. She is on the student union committee and was on the theme committee for Homecoming, besides being vice-president of her house.

Suddenly Mary remembered her first Junior Weekend when they had held the regular canoe fete.

Just as Much Fun

"It was just gorgeous," said the tanned Portlander. "This one won't be as elaborate and I guess there won't be so much of it because they are cutting out the canoe fete, but it will be just as much fun."

When asked about the costumes of the court, she exclaimed, "They sounded wonderful. I guess they'll be Spanish, even to lace mantillas, and will be very colorful."

Read the Emerald

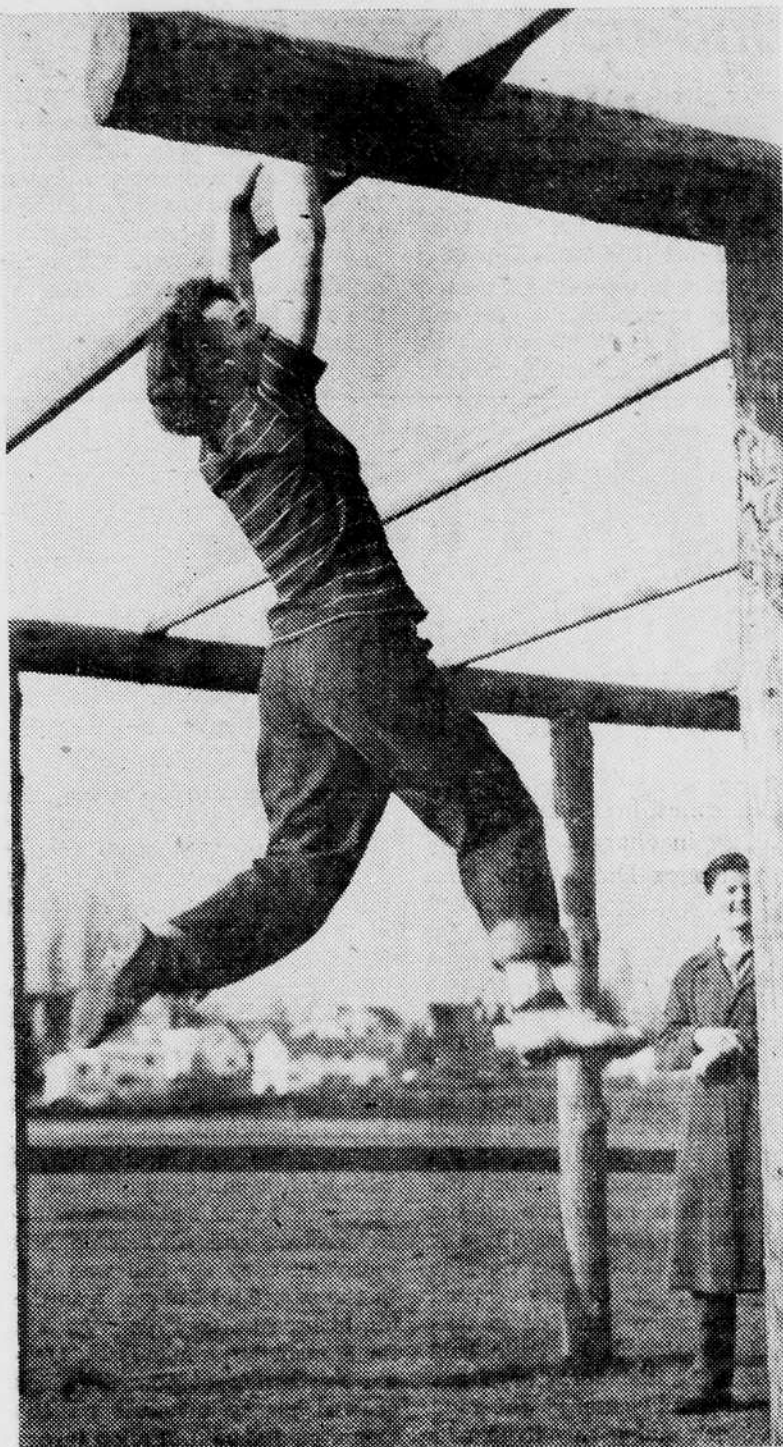

"But all I really know about them is what I read in the Emerald," she laughed with a wide grin. Everything will probably get going very soon and then we'll know more about it."

Then, as she uncurred from her comfortable position and walked to the door, still laughing at her indefiniteness, she exclaimed, "It's going to be so much fun and certainly will be exciting."

Classes to Nominate

(Continued from page one) have to decree either that a phrase in the sophomore class constitution is void or that a conflicting phrase in the junior constitution is void. The sophomore constitution states that votes for officers must be cast by "members of the class of '45" and the junior constitution states that only voters with academic standing as juniors may cast votes for their class officers.

Since there is no longer any foolproof way of defining a "member of the class of '45" the voiding of this phrase will be merely a formality if the council decides to follow the academic system. If, however, it decides to make another arrangement the junior constitution will definitely conflict with such a procedure.
