Campus Tin Can Drives Exceed 2000 Pounds

Tin cans will be picked up by truck from all the living organizations Friday afternoon, April 23, weather permitting, Marge Curtis, co-chairman of the scrap committee said Monday.

The cans should be smashed with the labels taken off and placed in boxes on the corners before 2:30 Friday afternoon.

Living Units Take Army Inspection

The University underwent further scrutiny Saturday morning by the army as a campus committee conducted a tour of the men's dormitories and Susan Campbell hall for the benefit of Major Eldon M. Stock, P. M. Scales, and C. K. Hamlin.

This second inspection in two days was to check the housing facilities of the University in connection with a possible contract for a pre-engineering course to be given here in connection with the army specialized training program.

Nothing definite has been decided concerning the University in connection with the ASTP but the reports of the officers and men representing the army who visit here will be considered along with other reports.

Black Sheep

Earl Snell has been pledged by the Betas. He's a bona fide student you know. But it's no mystery. He's running to be the next prexy of ASUO.

Mothers' Day Pic Set

Members of the Mother's Day committee will meet this afternoon at 4:30 in the news bureau for a picture of the group.

Test Today For Marine, Navy Men

Every man in the navy reserve who will finish his sophomore year this year must take the special naval classification test today, it was announced Monday by Dr. Carl Kossack, armed services representative.

Originally the test was to be taken only by naval reserve students who will have completed 93 hours of credit by July 1, but the change announced last night will include all present sophomores in the test. All marine reserves will take the test, also.

Tests will be opened at 9 this morning. Dr. H. R. Taylor, head of the department of psychology, who is in charge of administering the examinations said they will probably be of a general nature for determining in which branch of college training each reservist will be placed.

Students will be excused from their classes to take the test, which will last approximately a full academic day.

Men who are not certain as to whether or not they should take the test are asked to report to Villard assembly room at 9, where their status will be clarified.

Beckwith, Nelson Lead Last Auction

Auctioneers Fred Beckwith and Roy Paul Nelson will bring down their gavels today at 4:30 in front of the Side when the last AWS auction of this school year gets under way, according to Kathryn Dunn, chairman of the event.

"The auction won't be held if the weather is bad," Miss Dunn announced Monday night. "Many useful articles, including an overcoat, fountain pens, rings, scarfs, umbrellas, and books are only a sample of the items to be auctioned," she added.

All articles are from the campus. (Please turn to page three)

Skull and Dagger Crew Taps

By BETTY LU SIEGMAN

Highlighting their first year at the University, 20 men from the freshman class were tapped for Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary, during intermission of the Frosh Glee, Saturday night, April 17.

Chosen for outstanding participation in campus activities, the new members are as follows:

Rolland Gabel, John Miller, Roger Hancock, Bob Mueller, Forrest Kjemhus, Malcolm MacEwen, Buzz Beaudoin, Mart Pond, Larry Smith, Doug Fetsch, Bob Gurley.

Hank Doeneka, Bob Buchwach, Bob Smith, Keith Watson, Don Kay, Don Shanahan, Don Dyer, Dan Mindolovich, and Jack Malcolm.

Initiation will be held Thursday, April 22, followed by a dinner and election of officers, according to Bill Huggins, Skull and Dagger president. The initiation will take place in Gerlinger hall and the dinner at the Anchorage.

All pledges are requested to have their initiation fee turned in to Art Damschen at the Sigma Chi house by Thursday, it was announced Monday by Huggins. This should be done as soon as possible, because they will not be given their list of initiation requirements until they have done so.

Coalition Bloc Splits Greeks; Nominee Lineups Released; ASUO Nominates Thursday

With the Greeks proclaiming a "Battle of the Sexes" and the Independents proclaiming a "Battle of TNEsia," campus politicians will "nominate from the floor" tonight at 7:30 for 1943-44 class officers.

Although both Greeks and Independents have already picked nearly all their nominees, each class must go through a formal nominating assembly in three separate halls—freshmen in 207 Chapman; sophomores in Villard auditorium; and juniors in 105 Commerce. All nominations are to be turned in to class presidents with declarations of intention to run and certificates of eligibility from the dean of men or dean of women's office. Class presidents will be in charge of the assemblies.

Freshmen Early

Freshmen must have their declarations of intention to run and certificates of eligibility in before the nominating assembly this evening in Chapman. Sophomores and juniors may turn in these papers either before the assembly or at the time of the assembly.

Dark-horse petitions may not be submitted in the freshman class; therefore all nominations must be made tonight. The sophomore class has until 5 p.m. Wednesday to turn in late petitions to the class president. These petitions must be signed by at least 25 members of the sophomore class and must be accompanied by declarations of intention to run and certificates of eligibility.

Dark Horsing

Late petitions for junior class positions may be turned in to the junior class president as late as 5 p.m. Thursday and must also be accompanied by the usual papers.

Both the freshman and sophomore class must have at least one-fifth of their membership present at the assemblies in order to attain a quorum, while the junior class constitution calls for only 25 members of the class.

Coalition is the password among the independent faction for this election as the "freemen" go about breaking off huge chunks of the Greek bloc, mostly sororities thoroughly "kissed-off" at their better half, the solid Greek fraternities. The sororities are sore because the frats still demand that men be nominated for all the No. 1 positions on the preferential ballot.

Slow Avalanche

The coalition movement has moved along like a snowball on a slight downgrade, picking up a little here and a little there. So far the Pi Phi, Chi Omegas, Sigma Kappas, AOPis, and Alpha Gams, are pretty solidly for the coalition group, which is backed by the independent houses on the campus. However, several fraternity minorities are behind the coalition group also, and a few of these houses may swing all the way over at any time.

Moms Schedule Busy Weekend

Mothers on the campus for their special weekend April 30, May 1, and 2, will not only be entertained while they are here, but will have some business to take care of, too. The business, in part, will consist of considering a plan to award scholarships to students for pre-nursing courses at the University.

At present girls taking nursing can apply for scholarships after they finish their schooling here and thus continue their training, but there is no special fund for them to draw from for the pre-nursing training the University offers. The mothers will also make decisions on the annual Mothers' scholarship awards.

Special events which mothers will be invited to during the combined Mothers' day and Junior Weekend program include the regular business meetings of the mothers, a recital by the Master Dance group, the campus luncheon, Sunlight Serenade, the all-campus sing, Junior Prom, special services in the local churches, and general open house on the campus.

Students are urged by Clarence Horton, general chairman of Mothers' day, to write home at once to invite their parents to the campus for the three-day program which will include entertainment for both mothers and dads. If letters aren't sent out soon parents won't have sufficient time to plan their trips under the existing transportation conditions, Horton said Monday.

ETHAN NEWMAN . . .

... who plays Mr. Sherwood in the University theater production of "My Sister Eileen." Mr. Newman is one of the several off-campus men who was given a part in the play because of the shortage of campus men. He attended the University from 1928-32.
