University Library Holds Seventh Public Birthday

Celebrating the anniversary of the public opening of the University library in 1937, the seventh annual Library Day will be held on the campus Saturday, May 1, from 1 to 5:30 p.m., and Sunday, May 2, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Library Day is sponsored by the Association of Patrons and Friends of the University of Oregon library, a society organized in 1940 to promote the welfare of the University library.

Army Teaches Reserves Code

Reserve students who desire to learn something of code work have the opportunity to do so in a special course, it was announced Tuesday by Carl F. Kossack, armed services representative on the campus.

A special room has been set aside in Deady hall for instruction of students interested in the work, which is offered as a pre-induction course by the war department.

Dr. Kossack emphasized the fact that all cadets at officers' school will have to learn code, and that they will be just that much further ahead of their competitors by mastering code now.

Two record albums and a code oscillator are provided for students. The first album contains material for teaching and practice, the second enables the student to develop speed up to ten words per minute.

The equipment is located in 213 Deady hall; the room is open week day afternoons from 2 to 5 and Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

High Time Scheduled For Mother's Weekend

Despite the difficulties of rationing and priorities, mothers who come to the campus for the sixteenth annual Oregon Mother's Weekend, April 30, May 1, and 2 will be entertained in every way possible, Clarence Horton, general chairman of Mother's Weekend, said Tuesday.

Mothers will register at the headquarters in the first floor of Johnson hall on Friday, April 30, from 1 to 5 p.m., and on Saturday, May 1, from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. All mothers are urged to register while they are here.

Opening feature of the combined Junior Weekend and Mother's Weekend will be the annual campus luncheon at noon, Friday, April 30. Each living group will provide lunches for its own members and their guests at the luncheon, due to difficulties caused by rationing. During the luncheon and the program following mothers will have an opportunity to see Queen Mary Bentley crowned, as well as the tapping of new pledges of Friars, Mar Board, and Asklepiads.

Friday night mothers will have dinner with their sons and daughters in student organizations, and Friday night they will be special guests at the All-Campus Sing scheduled for 8:15.

Kaye Lamb, librarian of the University of British Columbia, will speak at the 1943 dinner to be held at the Osburn hotel Saturday, May 1, at 6:15 p.m. Dr. Lamb, editor of the British Columbia Historical Quarterly, is writing the historical introductions for two volumes of the letters of Dr. McLoughlin now being published by the Hudson's Bay Record society.

Featured among the displays in the library in connection with Library day, is an exhibit from the Ethel Sawyer collection.

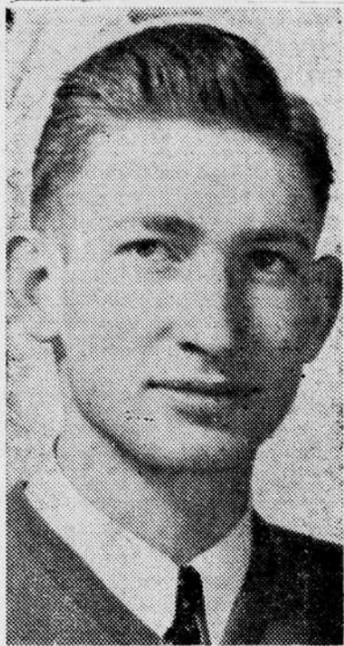

Student private libraries entered in the prize contest will be on display in the main corridor.

The Braille collection of books for the blind, the John Henry Nash loan collection of fine printing, and the rare book collection will also be on exhibition.

The Murray Warner museum and the Museum library will be open Saturday, May 1, from 2 to 5, and Sunday, May 2, from 3 to 5.

Weekend Has 'Daren' Rags

Even the army can't stop "Daren" and the preparations for the Junior Weekend court's costumes.

Daren Pierce, freshman in architecture and allied arts, who uses the name "Daren" for all his sketches, offered to donate the designs for the dresses of the Junior Weekend court to the junior class.

Then the army air corps called. Pierce left the University, went home to Lebanon, and entered active duty in the army air corps Tuesday.

"Daren" mailed the costume sketches before he left.

Staff Announced For Frosh Edition

June Taylor, freshman in journalism, was appointed editor of the freshman edition of The Emerald, to be issued Saturday, April 24, Jack Billings, editor, announced Tuesday.

She named her sub-editors as follows: Betty Lu Siegman, news editor; Louise Montag and Wilma Foster, co-city editors; and Barbara Jones, night editor.

Stating plans for the edition, Miss Taylor explained that she hopes to use more small news features, and a public opinion poll to show a picture of the campus through freshman eyes, as well as an experiment with makeup.

"We can use every freshman who wants to work," she declared. "I want them to feel sure of their welcome to come down to the shack on Friday to help put out the frosh edition."

The frosh edition will be the first of a series of special editions which the Emerald will publish this term.

Greek, Coalition Lineups Goosestep Into Position; ASUONominates Thursday

By JACK L. BILLINGS

Outside of the fact that Sue Sawyer was not nominated for a position in the junior class and that Bud Putnam was, via a freak breakoff in the Theta Chi house, and also that Ted Klehmet, a Phi Psi, was unexpectedly nominated for a sophomore class position, and that the Coalition will run a dark horse candidate for a sophomore position, the class nominations went according to Hoyle last night.

Fiscus Leads Easter Rites

Annual Easter services on the campus next Sunday will feature Rev. Walter Fiscus of the Eugene Christian church as the main speaker at the program which will start at 6:45 a.m. in McArthur court.

The Eugene a capella choir under the direction of Glenn Griffith will furnish music for the program to which both students and townspeople are invited. Members of Eugene and University high school Hi-Y and Girl Reserves organizations will usher for the service.

Hal Dallke is in charge of the program committee, and Miss Caroline Hines of the Episcopal church is in charge of decorations. Frances Oram, president of the student religious council, is assisting with arrangements for the program.

Sponsors of the annual program are the University student religious council, and the Ministerial association of Eugene.

All-Campus Sing Fracas Imminent

Gathered around living organization pianos some 30 men's and women's choruses are grooming for the all-campus sing contest Friday, April 30, in McArthur court.

Oge Young, sing chairman, named the judges Tuesday as follows: Dean (of music) Melvin N. Geist, Willamette; Dean Emory Hobson, Pacific; and Miss Evelyn Gibson, head of the voice department at Linfield.

Young emphasized that the judges are themselves musicians and thus would be able to make their decisions entirely on the skill and perfection of the choruses.

Tickets at 40 cents may be purchased in the Educational activities office in McArthur court until the night of the sing. A cup will go to the winning organization in each group. Last year's winners were Alpha Omicron Pi, led by June Marie Wilson, and Alpha Tau Omega, led by Jim "Ox" Wilson.

Illusion . . .

Display your books and win a prize (See story, column one)
Thus does the old libe advertise, So take it on the run.
Turn off Bob Hope, hide Superman,
Turn on the study light,
And maybe you can make them think
You cracked a book last night.
—B. L.

ASUO Next

ASUO nominating assembly will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday morning in McArthur court. All declarations of intention to run and certificates of eligibility from the dean of men or dean of women's office must be turned in to Les Anderson or to the educational activities office by 5 p.m. today. No one may be nominated from the floor who has not turned in these papers.

Late nominations may be made by submitting a petition signed by at least 50 members of the ASUO. This may be turned in not later than midnight of the second day following the nominating assembly.

Lineups Ready

The Greek and Coalition lineups for the nominating assembly tomorrow night are even more certain than they were for the class nominating assemblies.

The Greeks: No. 1 position, Oge Young; No. 2, Martha Jane Switzer; No. 3, Jean Frideger; Senior representative No. 1, Bill Farrell; No. 2, Kay Jenkins; junior representative No. 1, Jim Mann; No. 2, Phyllis Horstman; sophomore representative No. 1 Stan Williamson; No. 2, Virginia Wright.

Toot, Toot

As is obvious from this lineup the gravy train was given a clear track by the Greeks and a whole row of green signals by the Coalition.

Greek politicians are fully aware that, with the preferential voting system now being used, none of their No. 2 positions for senior, junior, and sophomore representatives will ever show after the ballots are counted. Nor will the No. 3 position on the executive council mean anything when it's all over.

Slick Politics

This system of loading the ballot, however, does make the sororities (who get these mythical positions) feel a little bit more like playing ball.

As for the Coalition group—there the political bigwigs have had to make concession after concession to the sororities, making it necessary for Independents on the campus to vote for a Greek girl on their ticket, in fact several Greek girls.

The bloc candidates will be chosen soon. Their names will appear in Thursday morning's Emerald.
