

Songs, Shrieks, Greet Weekend Princesses

By BETTY ANN STEVENS

Sipping two plain cokes in the Side Tuesday afternoon, two of Junior Weekend's fairest, brown-haired, Californians, Mary Wright and Frances Johnston, exchanged a gay banter.

The duo, reigning as princesses over the campus on April 30, May 1, and 2 along with Mary Bentley, queen, and Sue Sawyer and Kathryn Jenkins, smilingly exclaimed, "Did you notice that there was just one Oregon girl in the whole court?"

About their reaction. . . .
"I guess we all felt very happy. . . ."

More Reaction

"I don't know what they did for you, but about 12 of the girls serenaded me in the middle of the night when they found out," said Mary.

Frances remarked, "They called me out of bed about 12:00 and shrieked. . . ."

"For once, I got to bed early," Mary interrupted.

She paused and added, "We're going to have to be about everywhere, I've decided. Frances is working on the campus luncheon, too."

South American Formals

An earnest discussion about their formals followed. Mary propped her elbows on the table, while Frances crunched the ice in the bottom of her coke glass.

"I called Dorothy Routt, and they're going to be done by a designer, to tie in with the South American theme. . . . not costumes, but to suggest the idea, you know. . . . so we'll be able to wear them afterwards."

Frances nodded her head, agreeing.

I wonder if they'll have rhumba music," Mary went on, enthusiastically, "I just love it, and hardly anyone does it up here."

Besides both being Californians, and both being tanned, with their brown hair and brown eyes, both of them have SAE pins, their men being still on the campus.

"I had big hopes of Homer's being here, but he had to be up at Seattle at a track meet, and won't be here for the prom. . . ." May sighed. "You're the lucky one," she nodded at a smiling Francis.

About the ever-recurring California-Oregon debate, Mary remarked, "I think as far as Oregon-Cal schools go, there's no comparison. The Oregon campus here is so much more friendly." Said Frances, "Cal's too large." "I certainly think that Oregon's a wonderful place for freshmen to go to," Mary concluded.
