Highest positions in senior, junior, and sophomore classes will also be filled by women students, election returns show. Heading the class of '44 will be Barbara

Lamb, with other senior positions filled by Sue Sawyer, vice-president; Dorothy Routt, secretary; and Bud Putnam, treasurer.

Officers for the junior class are Marian Gage, president; Ruth Van Buskirk, vice-president; Art Damschen, secretary; and Ted Klehmet, treasurer. Elected as sophomore class officers are Barbara Blair, president; Nancy Brownell, vice-president; Stan Williamson, secretary; and Esther Quier, treasurer.

Women Enter Top Positions In Class, ASUO Offices

Class and ASUO activities for 1942-43 promise to run almost entirely on an all-women basis, with only five men students placing in last week's election. First woman president since World War I, Nancy Ames, coalition party candidate, will serve as top ASUO official during the three terms next year.

Other executive council officers are Oge Young, first vice-president; Jean Page, second vice-president; and Martha Jane Switzer, secretary-treasurer. Class representatives for next year's council as chosen in the election are: senior representatives, Helen Holden and Kay Jenkins; junior representatives, Audrey Holliday and Phyllis Horstman; sopho-
