

Cutie Coeds Don Regalia Of Defense, Nurses' Aid

From shipyards to dusting bulls in a china shop . . . from prosaic occupations to the highly unusual, Oregon's coeds will be slaying this summer in the main, toward the war effort, from all indications.

Time was when Miss Coed-About-Town vacationed a la summer resort, catching up on knitting, light reading, and sun-tan. 'Tis a new era . . . replete with persons like an unnamed Pi Phi and Delta Gammas Helen Johns and Gene Lockman, who will drive trucks on a pea farm.

Illumination

With "We're the Women Behind the Man Behind the Gun" as their guiding light, mayhap, feminine riveters and females are taking over everything in sight. Civilian defense and nurses' aiding will find Alpha Phi Pat Stanard and Toni Sutton practicing first aid in crisp uniforms.

Uniforms attract, as the old saying goes, and Nancy Dunkelburger, Alpha Gam, among other people, is attracted, too. It's dark-blue WAVES uniform.

Among those enjoying a "facsimile thereof" of old, pre-war summers are Phyllis Evans and Martha Hoch, who will counsel girl scouts amid scenery and sunshine, while Phyllis Foster and Betty Lu Siegman, head for the borderland "Como le va, senoritas?" Phyllis and Betty Lu are a couple of exchange students to Mexico.

More patriotic-minded coeds with an eye to profits too, may be found preparing for more drastic point rationing in the canneries, and then there's the studious type and summer school is attracting many of the more serious-minded this year, and more uniforms, hmmm.

Inside WAA

All the stars were out on the baseball field Thursday afternoon, disguised by dark glasses and gym suits, to play off the All-Star game.

Whatta game, whatta game!! Tough fight for both teams. And gals wasting energy striking at rain-drops, mistaking them for the ball . . . only kidding, of course!

Star pitchers—alias captains—Mildred Thomas and Mary Alderson really had their balls under perfect control, aiming for that certain space right above the home plate, between the batter's knees and shoulders . . . but, nevertheless, Dotty Gulette, catcher, and Miss Petroskey, umpire seemed to have a tough time, receiving the ball right in the stomach and in the face.

Not Spitwads, Either

And it's not funny what a little wad of rope covered by some white stuff and stitched all around can do to a face without the protection of a mask—with no reference whatsoever to Halloween!

Mildred Thomas and her Batting Nine won the Bat Battle by a broken bat. Jeepers, what a tongue twister! Well, if we can write it you can read it.—Maybe.

Members of the WAA cabinet are getting in condition for their stand tonight with Stay Up Stan, The All Night Record Man. All I want to say is that tonight big things are cooking on the WAA home front, for they are planning their entire program for next year.

The servicemen on the campus are going to be included in this program, in such affairs as Recreation Night and mixed intramurals with the girls. Sounds good to us!

We're promising a very detailed program and a very good program to evolve from this meeting. . .

Thank gosh,
No-Doz
Ain't froze.

Really, we get very tired of continuously dragging the weather into this column, but we feel very smug, for the tennis matches and baseball games have all been played off in spite of it all.

And that (by "that" we mean the conclusion of the season's baseball and tennis) facilitates the turning in of the check for WAA initiation which is going to be held next Tuesday, May 18.

'Bye for this term, but next fall we'll be back with more INSIDE NEWS!!! . . .
