

Showy Rooms Sho' Nuff

Heads up for the likeliest habitat in the dorm, co-op, or sorority. Naturally, you want your room to "show," to be the chipperest, brightest, most original, economical example of interior decoration the campus affords. (See pg. 200 of latest Mamselle).

A likely prospect for any room is a bulletin board, the place to stick souvenirs, pictures, etc., especially since the scotch tape shortage, and you know what housemothers say about nails in the wall.

Another clever idea of note was the roomie who stuck a child's blackboard on the door for "wake-me-at-seven" notices and such.

No Excess

For the first term excess furniture acquiring won't be necessary. Necessities will be wastebaskets, lamp, bookends, and perhaps a bookshelf if you can wangle it. Roomie or big sis usually supplies the desk, couch cover, cushions and drapes, although you'll probably own them later on.

Bookends may be anything from flat-irons to wooden shoes, although the first campus scrap drive will undoubtedly find you donating precious metal, and wooden shoes . . . well. Lampshades have some garish decorations . . . witness one enthusiastic frosh who joyously decorated a white lamp-shade with kisses, each in a different shade. Then there are coffee pots, for exam week, remembering that coffee, bless it, is now unrationed. Use that noggin, nuggin.

An organization of civilian defence activities was completed at Yeshiva college, New York.

And in Addition—

batical leave over the weekend from summer session which he said was swell and that Dr. Gordon Wright's reading and conference class was terrific.

Shirley Gillett, she of the complexion that peaches and cream envy, has a job with an insurance company in Portland which is not unusual except that her home is in Chicago.

Betti Edward and Shirley Gravelly both recently announced their engagements to men, both of whose names we can't remember. Apologies will be acceptable immediately after date of publication.

In conclusion a few words about the shipyards. Frannie Colton and Billie Lawrence are working there—in the bond department. Elizabeth Edmunds has been polishing up on her business managerial duties but acting as a layerout helper. And Lee Montgomery of the honor roll (always) Montgomerys and president of Hilyard house is a welder's helper.

Ida Mae Ruckdeschel is in the administration building which will mean very little to most of you because she goes to Oregon State, but the administration building is a nice building.
