

Spencerians Seek Muscles

She is small and delicate, has short brown hair, large, soft, appealing brown eyes, delicate if somewhat large ears, and has been unanimously elected the sweetheart of Spencer hall—or Pi Kappa Alpha, if you prefer it that way. Her name is "Muscles." She has, unfortunately, in her short life, acquired a number of aliases—Jeep, Ears, Daphne, and once, mistakenly, Zeke.

The inmates at the hall miss Muscles terribly—after all, she's the only girl they're allowed to have in their rooms, poor chaps.

She came to Spencer from Chi Omega across the way, where one of the sisters, jealous perhaps of her feminine but unhousebroken charms, cast her off into the willing arms of a passing Spencerian.

If you have seen this young Heinz puppy (height nine inches to the tips of her ears, hair brown, tail short) and can give information leading to her return, the Spencerians will gladly give you one free meal (bring your own ration book), or, if you prefer it, even take up a collection in your honor.

Just call 1665.

Campus YMCA Plans Activities

The University YMCA began its fall work last week with the election of new officers for its advisory board. A two-point program of war emergency services and activities for civilian students on the campus was undertaken.

Officers elected were: president, Dr. Lawrence S. Bee; vice-president, Karl W. Onthank; secretary, Willis C. Warren; and treasurer, Dr. Carl F. Kossack.

Four student representatives on the council will be named soon, A. F. Holmer, YMCA secretary, stated. One of the four will be ASUO President Nancy Ames.

Mr. Holmer enumerated some of the many activities of the University Y which included the maintenance of religious preference files of the army units for local ministers, and receiving daily reports from the student health service on students who are ill and relaying them on to their ministers.

Among the regular civilian services the Y offers, are participation in the University Student Christian council, the usual house services such as lunch facilities, and recreational equipment.

Theater Club Will Hold First Meeting Thursday

A mass meeting of all University men and women interested in the theater will be held Thursday night in the Guild hall on the main floor of Johnson hall at 7:30. The meeting will last only an hour, according to Horace Robinson, director.

Purpose of the meeting is to organize a theater society which will serve as a nucleus for future productions. Members may participate in any phase of stage work they desire. There are no dues and attendance indicates interest. All students are eligible including freshmen.

The University of Illinois extension division offers 86 courses from accountancy to mechanics.
