

Julia Coburn, Noted Stylist, To Speak at AWS Meeting

One of America's first stylists, Julia Coburn, will speak to all interested University women today at 4 in Guild hall. Her experience includes work in department stores, newspapers and magazines. For 15 years she has conducted a fashion service, reporting fashion and merchandise trends to more than 100 department and specialty stores throughout the world.

After graduating from Vassar, she worked for Harpers, Hearst newspapers, and the Ladies Home Journal. As co-director of the Tobe-Coburn school, which employs a large staff of fashion scouts and reporters, she is in close contact with leading designers, manufacturers, and merchants.

The school, located in the fashion center of New York, near Tiffany's, Bonwit-Tellers, and Made-moiselle, combine learning and practical experience. Students are selected from girls who have had at least two years of college training. Scholarships are offered on a competitive basis. Among the courses offered are advertising, personnel, buying and sales work, and public speaking.

Miki Campbell, AWS president, urges all girls to come to the meeting whether or not they are planning fashion careers.

Army Ducks Meet Marshfield Cavalry in Tilt Here Sunday

Sunday afternoon at 1:30 on Hayward field the University of Oregon ASTU football team will vie with the Marshfield cavalry eleven. This will be the second game for the Army Webfooters and the team is anxious to avenge its defeat of last week by the navy.

Although the men showed lots of pep in scrimmage last night, there is a feeling of uncertainty about the whole, for nothing can be learned about the quality of the cavalry pigskinners.

The ASTU footballers do not know if they will be up against a fast or heavy team or whether they will encounter a running or passing attack. All that Coach John Warren has told the fellows is, "The coach is called Lt. S."

But one thing is certain, no matter what type of a team the khaki Ducks meet, they are going to fight hard and pour it on heavy.

Nepote Water Colors Displayed at Art School

On display in the art school gallery are 30 water colors done by Alexander Nepote. Mr. Nepote did this work in connection with his master thesis at Mills college. The collection consists entirely of outdoor scenes with special emphasis on buildings.

Mr. Nepote's work will be displayed here for two weeks. The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each week day for anyone interested in the exhibit. Students especially are invited.

Mothers' Club Sets Tea For Today at 3

The Eugene unit of the University Mothers' club will hold their first tea for fall term, Wednesday afternoon in Gerlinger hall at 3 o'clock. Preceding the general meeting is the executive committee meeting at 2:30.

Mothers of freshman students are being honored especially at this tea and mothers of men in the service have been invited to serve.

Mrs. George Hopkins will sing and short talks will be given by Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, Mrs. E. E. DeCou, YWCA secretary, and Miss Janet Smith, employment secretary.

Dr. Morris Slates Lecture Journey

Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, plans a two-day lecture tour in Portland, leaving Eugene October 21. His first speech, entitled "Some Problems of Post-War Planning," will be given before the Life Underwriters' association Thursday afternoon.

On Thursday evening, Dr. Morris will conduct the first of a series of monthly forums on post-war planning that are being arranged by the extension division. The subject of his final address, to be delivered Friday evening to the City Club of Portland, will be "Post-War Prosperity at Home and Abroad."

'Harvest Moon' Theme Of Whiskerless Dance

Although whiskers are out and there can be no Sophomore Whiskerino this year, the sophomores will still have their annual dance, Marilyn Holden, chairman of the dance committee, said Tuesday. "Harvest Moon" has been selected as the theme of the dance to be held October 30 in McArthur court.

Not only will this be the first major dance of the year, but it will also be the first formal.

"Corsages are taboo," Miss Holden said. "No one wearing flowers will be admitted."

Writers to Meet

All those interested in writing Emerald features will meet in the editor's office at 4:30 today. Harriet Hawkins, Eva Hedrick, Margaret Wittwer, Margie Shearn, Dagmar Shanks, Elizabeth Haugen and Joanna Mapes are requested to attend.

Libe Series To Resume On Sunday

Sunday afternoon concerts of the world's great music will be resumed October 24. Sponsored by Mu Phi Epsilon, the concerts proved highly popular since their beginning last winter term.

The concerts will become a regular Sunday afternoon feature, meeting in the browsing room of the library from 4 to 5 p.m. Programs will include a wide range of classical and modern records furnished by Mu Phi Epsilon, students, faculty members, and townspeople. Kappa Kappa Gamma will again furnish a record player for the new concert series.

Music Shelf

A bookshelf devoted to music and musicians has been established in the browsing room by the three Mu Phi Epsilon groups, which plan to contribute regularly to it. The books will be introduced at the first concert this Sunday.

Requests for future concerts will be taken in a special box placed in the browsing room. Last spring the request plan was so much used that two or three request numbers will be incorporated into each Sunday concert.

A Mu Phi Epsilon committee will hear record collections which individuals desire to furnish for programs. Anyone may loan records for use in the concert series.

Sunday's Program

1. Swan Lake Ballet (last movement), Tschai-kowsky.
 2. Kamennol Ostrow, Rubenstein.
 3. The Fortune Teller, Herbert.
 4. Rhapsody in Blue, Gershwin.
 5. The Song of the Musketeers and Ranger's Song, Friml.
 6. The Donkey Serenade, Friml.
- Last year, the first for the browsing room concerts, showed that a great many students are interested in listening to better music. Soldiers and civilians are invited to attend.

G.I.'s, Civilians Dance Tonight

Tonight the all-campus social mixer will undergo its final trial. At 9:30 p.m. army students and civilians will go to designated girls' houses for 45 minutes of dancing and social life to bring the various groups making up Oregon closer together.

The coordinating committee, which planned the get-togethers, pointed out that the continuation of similar affairs will depend upon the turn-out tonight. Men are asked to go to the houses assigned their units to avoid mix-ups such as followed last week's mixer.

WAA to Elect Heads Friday

Due to the resignation of Janet Ross, the president of the Women's Athletic association, and Margaret Cordon, treasurer, the WAA executive council decided last night to hold an election this Friday to fill the two offices.

Recommended by the council, those whose names to be on the ballot are: Beverly Goetz, senior in physical education, for president, and Marian Schaefer, junior in business administration, for secretary.

Miss Ross' resignation was read and accepted at the council meeting Tuesday evening. She stated that she was forced to resign because of too heavy a scholastic and activity load. Scholastic ineligibility was the reason for Miss Cordon's resignation.

The election of new officers will be held between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at a place that will be designated at a later date, Martha Jane Switzer, vice-president and acting president of WAA, said Tuesday. All members of WAA are eligible to vote.

UO Grads Enter Service Units

Into the ranks of women graduates entering women's service units of the war have gone Mary E. Hughes and Marion C. Watson. They entered the WACS and WAVES respectively.

Mary Hughes has gone to Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, where she will report for training with the WAC. Miss Hughes joins two brothers in the service, Capt. Sam E. Hughes, now home following service in Australia, and Priv. Fred E. Hughes Jr., stationed at Camp Roberts.

Miss Hughes is a member of two language honoraries on the campus, Pi Delta Phi and Delta Phi Alpha. She took one year of graduate work and for two years has been librarian at the new North Bend high school.

Marion Watson will report soon to the WAVES indoctrination school at Hunter college, New York City.

She attended the University from 1938 to 1941 and Oregon State college in 1941-42, majoring in home economics.

Webfoot Wanderers To Sponser Short Hike

The Webfoot Wanderers are sponsoring a short hike Saturday afternoon for any girls on the campus wishing to attend. The group will leave Gerlinger hall at 1 p.m. with the old homestead of the outing club as their destination.

Although the group will return in time for supper, it has been suggested that those making the hike bring a light lunch, such as a sandwich and an orange.

In order for army men to return to their barracks by taps, the mixer will begin at 9:30 and continue until 10:15. New assignments made by the coordinating committee are:

Speech Clinic Course Opens For Stutterers

The University speech clinic will hold a class for those who suffer from stuttering and are interested in correcting the speech impediment, it was announced by Kenneth S. Wood, speech pathologist and director of the clinic. The class will meet on Wednesday evening, October 27, from 7 to 9:30 in room 107, Friendly hall.

The class is open to anyone 15 years of age or older who wants to overcome stuttering. Both group work and individual work will be carried on.

Persons having other speech defects, such as lisping, cluttering, or sound substitutions are urged to contact Mr. Wood individually to arrange a remedial program. He has handled a wide variety of speech cases in his two years of work at the psychology and speech clinic at the University of Southern California.

Julia Coburn To Interview

Julia Coburn, head of the Tobe-Coburn school for fashion careers, will hold personal interviews with girls interested in fashion careers, in the office of the dean of women Wednesday afternoon between 3:30 and 4.
