

Sophomore Dance Postponed

Lack of Orchestra Stymies Soph 'Harvest Moon' Hop

Amid rumors and counter-rumors, "Harvest Moon," the sophomore annual dance scheduled for Saturday night, has been indefinitely postponed, according to Marilyn Holden, chairman of the dance. The fact that the all-soldier swing band, would not be allowed to play for the dance and that it is impossible to get another band, were given as reasons for the postponement. It is against army regulations for an army band to play at any profit-making function at which soldiers are charged for admission.

Dream Girl Candidates Disclosed

Several girls' houses have announced their candidate for Oregon's Dream Girl to be selected at the annual Coed Capers on November 19, Gerd Hansen, chairman of the frolic, said Tuesday.

Mary Bush and June Johnson, co-chairman of the Dream Girl selection, listed the following as candidates:

The decision was made at a meeting of Horace Robinson, educational activities director, Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, Virgil D. Earl, dean of men, Barbara Blair, sophomore class president, Marilyn Holden and the dance committees after military officials had informed them of the regulation.

No definite plans have been made as to a future date for the dance but Thanksgiving eve has been suggested. It may be possible to get Art Holman's orchestra on that date, Nancy Ames, ASUO president, said.

Bud Pence, army social chairman, announced last night that the soldier students are tentatively planning a formal dance for Saturday night. No definite plans have been made but it is likely that Owen Bailey's orchestra will play. Pence stated that he was "quite sure" the plans would go through.

They've called off the mixer again, men. And to us-all it hardly seems right: We'll have to resort to a whistle. To get dates for Saturday night. —W.R.L.

Dean Schedules Social Calendar

Social events of fall term were scheduled Tuesday at the dean of women's office. Any additions to the calendar must be made by petitioning the dean of women's office, it was announced.

Influence of soldiers stationed on the campus was seen in the fact that few social affairs are scheduled for Friday nights, formerly popular for house dances. Since the soldiers must make 10:15 or 10:30 bed checks on Friday nights, most dances and other functions are now being held Saturday nights.

WSSF Drive Lists Speech On Prisoners

Feature of the second all-campus assembly of the year will be Miss Sarah Webb, national representative of the World Student Service fund, who will speak on "University students and teachers in prison camps." The assembly is scheduled for the music auditorium this afternoon at 4, with Nancy Ames presiding.

The World Student Service fund sponsors an annual drive to enlist the help of university students in providing aid for fellow-students who are prisoners of war, internees, evacuees, and refugees. Oregon's goal, according to leaders of the campaign, is $1000. It will be up to students here and on other campuses to furnish relief for these distressed students who wish to continue an education, Dorothy Rogers, chairman of the drive, stated.

Representatives in each house will collect contributions, which will be according to what each person feels he can give.

A representative of each organization backing the drive will be on the platform. They are: Beverly Padgham, president of

Ex Student Fights Fire; Gets Burns

Called upon to fight fire, Ed Burlingame, a law student on the campus last year and now private first class in the U. S. marine corps, had a preview of what war is like. He was one of 87 U. S. marines seriously burned in a brush fire near San Diego, which resulted in the deaths of four.

Burlingame received burns on his left leg, left side of his face, and "backside." He reported, however, that he was first in and would probably be the first out of the hospital. "I was lucky and will have no scars," he added.

OUT IN THE CLEAR . . .

. . . is ASTU's Kulesh, as he leaves the 101st Cavalrymen behind while he sprints down the field for a sizeable gain. Kulesh was among the top ground gainers for the local team in Sunday's game. In the lower picture practically all of both teams are visible in this informal study except the man who shoved the ball ahead one foot for an ASTU tally. This was the second time the G.I. Ducks crossed the line in a rain-soaked tilt which they finally won, 33-12.
