

Tin Can Canvass Gets Going Today

The tin can drive will start at 1 p.m. today, when a University truck will pick up the boxes of cans, Miss Bibbitts Strong, co-chairman of the salvage committee, stated Thursday.

All of the cans are to be placed on the porches of the living organizations in substantial boxes with covers so they will be protected from the rain. The drive will be carried out even if it rains.

Miss Strong declared that the tin cans are urgently needed in making war materials.

The results of the drive will be published in the Emerald, along with the amount that each living organization has contributed. To be accepted the cans must be washed, smashed, and the labels removed.

ish background, from which she has gathered a large quantity of folk-lore. Born in Oklahoma, near the Arkansas border, she lived for a short time in Colorado, "an Okie, you might say."

Football being a major passion, she really went in for it at one time. "Mother finally put a stop to my squad days, but it was fun while it lasted," Helen revealed with a humorous glint in her eye. "I hate birds . . . especially canaries," she announced. "I was scared by a canary when I was a child," which statement left us wondering.

Whee!

A member of Alpha Chi Omega, Mortar Board, Pot and Quill, and treasurer of Gamma Alpha Chi, Helen comes from a newspapering family. "I got sick of them," she said. "My sister was a journalism major, and I sort of grew up daubed with printer's ink, so I'm an English major . . . but I want to work on a newspaper or magazine after all . . . Not fashion magazines, but something like Time or the New Yorker. Nothing like ambition," she laughed.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

A DURATION DO!

Your shirts are valuable items these days and appreciate special handling.

Turn up your shirt collar before sending it to the laundry. A collar washed flat doesn't fray so easily at the crease.

Have your shirts laundered frequently. A too-soiled shirt requires more scrubbing and consequently wears out more quickly.

Go easy on the starch. Starching stiffens fabric, so that it breaks instead of bending.

When you buy, buy Arrow. Arrow shirts are longer-lasting, better-fitting, and carry the Sanforized label (fabric shrinkage less than 1%).
