

Hoyt Franchere Speaks to Forum Friday On Combating Postwar Dissolutionment

Hoyt Franchere, instructor in English, will speak Friday night in cooperation with Oregon's open forum series. The forum will start at 7:30 in the third floor AWS room in Gerlinger hall, June Hitchcock, chairman of the group, said Wednesday. Mr. Franchere will discuss the primary ways of meeting the period of post war disillusionment, especially as it effects returning soldiers.

There are numerous ways of solving this problem, Mr. Franchere stated. "One will be the decided necessity of people taking a more active part in community, state, and national affairs," he said. "We must get the idea out of younger minds that politics are a rotten business, and that those who enter it do so believing that in order to be successful they must follow the most devious paths possible."

Another way to help solve the problem is to throw out the idea that an individual working alone or in a small group is unable to put into action ideas which may lead to legislation for the betterment of his community, whether that community be city, state, or nation, he continued. History gives us many instances where movements which have effected whole nations were begun by small groups.

Mr. Franchere was working on his doctor's degree at the University of California and held a lectureship there before coming to the University in 1940.

Pi Phis Lead Book Drive For Camp Adair Soldiers

With a total of 40 books contributed so far, the Pi Phis are leading the campus in the war board sponsored book drive, according to Mary Bush, chairman of the drive.

Each house should appoint girls to take the books collected to the war board office in the Igloo by noon Saturday, Miss Bush said. The contributions will be taken to Camp Adair Saturday afternoon in a truck.

Both technical and fiction books are badly needed by the Camp Adair soldiers, Miss Bush said. Anything from encyclopedias to the pocket editions of up-to-date fiction are acceptable.

Other houses that have contributed so far are:

Sigma Kappa, 12; Kappa Kappa Gamma, 11; Hilyard house, 4.

Professor Moll's Volume of Poems Being Published

A new volume of poems written by Ernest G. Moll, associate professor of English, which has been tentatively titled "Brief Waters," is being published by the Australasian Publishing company. Despite the acute paper shortage in Australia the book is being issued as soon as possible.

Moll, who was born in Australia, has been a member of the English faculty at the University since 1928, except for the school year 1939-40 which he spent on leave teaching at Sydney, Australia.

"Cut From Mulga," which was his latest book prior to "Brief Waters," had the coveted distinction of being chosen as the "book of the year" in 1940 by the commonwealth publications committee of Australia. It had been personally recommended by the Australian prime minister who was impressed by the writing.

Other books which Professor Moll has written are: "Sedge Fire," a group of poems largely of Australia; "Native Moments"; a text book, "Appreciation of Poetry," "Campus Sonnets," and "Blue Interval."

Bulletin--- OSC Strikes Back at UO For Theft of Beaver

Striking back in swift retaliation after the capture of the OSC beaver, about seven carloads of state students arrived on the campus about 1 a.m. Thursday to locate their prized victory trophy, but according to latest reports they were unable to discover its hiding place.

A crowd formed near the corner of Thirteenth avenue east and Alder streets, and there was a sharp exchange of words, although little or no fighting occurred.

The Staters then left in their cars presumably for the "O" at the top of Skinner's butte to change the color of the paint.

The beaver was on display in front of the College Side until yesterday afternoon, when unidentified students moved it to a safer place.

YMCA Board Sets Breakfast, Forum For GI's Civilians

Replacing the usual peace-time conference, a streamlined, war-time breakfast assembly will be held by the YMCA advisory board when it plays host to soldier and civilian students at the YMCA hut Sunday morning from 9:30 to 10:45.

Headlining the program will be Lawrence S. Bee, president of the board, and Robert E. Cushman, chairman of the board's advisory committee on YMCA activities. Mr. Bee is to discuss the YMCA's war time program on the campus. Dr. Cushman, who has recently come to the campus from Yale university to serve as head of the religion department, will conduct a forum discussion period in which the soldier and civilian students will air their views on how the "Y" can be of the greatest service during their stay on the campus.

Armistice Day Lacks Gaiety Of Former Years

Little celebration is being held this Armistice, the second since the United States entered the World War II. The wild exuberance which originated Armistice day 25 years ago won't be much in evidence this year, as the nation acknowledges the solemnity of the day.

All war industries, downtown stores and business houses are slated for just another day of work throughout the states. However, there will be some holidays. Banks, barber shops, city and county offices, liquor stores and those private business concerns which chose to will close for the day. There is to be no University holiday. There will be no Emerald Friday.

Eugene is one of the few cities scheduling a parade. This will include the ASTU, and air corps bands, the ASTU and air corps students, the student ROTC, high school students, patriotic organizations, and veterans' groups. The line of march will be from Fifth and Willamette streets to Nineteenth and Willamette. The parade will then disband in order that those interested may attend the Eugene high, Salem high football game to be played at the civic stadium.

Lawyers Elect Star Chess Team

Members of the law school student body held their first meeting of the year early last week. Officers were elected unanimously by secret ballot with no nominations being made beforehand. Students elected to the seven offices are: president, Carlton Reiter; vice-president, Harry A. Skerry; treasurer, John Hathaway; secretary, Betty Faulk; first year representative, Betty Lee Stuart; second year representative, John Linse; sergeant at arms, P. T. Roth.

In view of the fact that the student body is smaller than previous years, President Reiter said, "we intend to have a chess team rather than the usual basketball team." He indicated that other traditions, except the barn dance, would be carried on as usual. Replacing the barn dance was a party held last Saturday at the Stuart Acres.

EXHIBIT "A" . . .

. . . now on display on the campus is OSC's famed beaver, whose fame is equaled only by the Oregon victory bell. Mystery has surrounded the foray to the northern provinces during which the animal was captured, although it is reported that several members of the rally squad were present. After being hidden in various houses around the campus for some time, the infamous animal has been put on display, and even frosh coeds are unafraid of its now lemon yellow and emerald green claws.

Lecture Group Sets Program for Year

Dr. Luis-Alberto Sanchez, of the University of Peru, and W. R. Miles, professor of psychology at Yale university, will head the list of speakers to be presented this year in the annual faculty lecture series. Professor Miles' topic will be "Psychology and Military Aviation." Dr. Sanchez' subject will be announced later.

The lecture series will begin Thursday evening, December 2, according to Rudolf H. Ernst, chairman of the lecture committee. Dr. Bertram E. Jessup, of the University faculty, will discuss "Art and Freedom."

WAA Solves 'Dreary Friday'

By MARTY BEARD

At last the problem of what to do on dateless Friday nights has been happily solved by the WAA council. This Friday evening, between the hours of 7:30 and 9:30, all coeds will have the opportunity to engage in a variety of sports at Gerlinger gym.

The swimming pool will be open, with Alyson Hales and Marianne Blinkensop as life guards. Girls may wear their own bathing suits, according to Miss Hales.

Air Corps Training Explained By Officer On Campus Friday

Civilian men interested in enlisting in the air corps will have an opportunity to obtain information and make arrangements for required tests when Major Shilling of the air corps is on the campus Friday.

Major Shilling will interview those interested in 101 Johnson, from 11 to 12 and 1 to 5 Friday, November 12. At 5 p.m. a movie about aviation cadets will be shown in Chapman hall. The film will last about 45 minutes and explains the activities and training of air cadets.

Fats, Grease, Cans Fall Before Truck

Fats, grease, and tin cans will be picked up in the scrap drive Friday, Bibbitt Strong, co-chairman of the salvage committee stated.

The tin cans must be smashed, labels removed, and washed. The fats and grease must be strained and put in tin cans. They should be placed in a substantial box with some sort of covering to protect them from the rain, Miss Strong said. They are to be placed on the front porches of the living organizations by 1 p.m.

Each living organization is requested to put a box for odd bits of scrap in a centrally located place in the house. These will be collected later in the term.
