

Students Slave For Art Bazaar

The art school has become a beehive of industry during the past few days as art students put finishing touches on articles to be sold at the annual art bazaar in McArthur court December 3. Lights are seen burning in the art building far into the night, and the casual observer begins to realize that artists, inspite of stories surrounding their temperaments, have the ability to "get in and plod" when the situation demands.

Emphasis is now being placed on the final firing and glazing of pottery, and the work already finished shows the fine craftsmanship that goes into each article. Some students have been concentrating on Christmas cards, while others have been cutting and mounting pictures with harrassed eyes cocked toward the December 3 deadline.

Edith Onthank, president of the Allied Art league, has announced that prospective purchasers of paintings should go to McArthur court before 5 p.m. on Friday in order to make their selections in good light.

The bazaar, an annual event with the art school, will be open from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Concert Series

The Roth string quartet is made up of four-stringed instruments. The leader of the quartet, Ferri Roth, is the first violinist; M. Kuttner, second violinist; J. Shaler, viola; and Oliver Edel, cello. According to members of the music faculty this program promises to be one of the finest musical attractions of the year.

"The Roth string quartet is one of the finest string ensembles in the world," Mr. Robinson said, "and we are quite fortunate to secure their services."

This is the third number on the educational activities artist series.

Dr. L. Cressman To Speak Friday

Dr. Cressman, a national authority in his field, will tell of his experiences as an archaeologist.

The Carnegie Institution of Washington recently published his monograph on the results of his archaeological studies in the northern part of the Great Basin region and his work has been highly praised by Dr. John C. Merriam, emeritus president of the Carnegie institution.

"Stop flicking those fans!
I can't light my Sir Walter Raleigh"

NOTHING BUT FANS whenever smokers try this suggestion: clean your pipe regularly, and keep it filled with mild 'n' mellow Sir Walter Raleigh. After your first puff of fragrant Sir Walter, you'll know in a flicker that it's extra mild, extra choice, extra cool. Try "the quality pipe tobacco of America."
