

Speech Project Work Progresses

Work is progressing on various University speech projects, according to Robert D. Clark, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts.

Interest in the symposium topic, "Juvenile Delinquency in the State of Oregon," has increased with the growing national and community concern over the problem, Mr. Clark said.

Jane Hooker, Fay Pettis, and Hugh King have been selected by Clark and Professor W. A. Dahlberg, of the speech department, for the speakers' bureau.

Miss Hooker's topic is "Some Points on Rationing or How to Starve to Death Barefooted"; Miss Pettis will speak of "My Life Among the Apache Indians"; and King will speak on "The Art of Cartooning."

These students will speak before audiences in the state that have requested their topics.

Libe Continues Hours

Students interested in studying during exam week will find the library hours as usual from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. The reserve book room is open from 8:30 a.m. until 10 p.m.

This year the Tufts college medical school is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary.
