Girls Vote Thursday For King of 'Pin-ups'

The potential "pin-up" boys of the Heart Hop are now mounted on a big red chart on the bulletin board in the Co-op. They will remain there all week so that coeds may inspect them and decide which boy shall be King of Hearts for 1944.

Competition looks stiff for all nine boys are a bunch of handsome lads. They are Gerald Douglas, air corps; Pat Hagemeyer, air corps; Everett Riley, Co. A; Robert Hanson, Co. A; Paul Sutcliff, Co. B; Carl Marini, Co. C; Roger Dick, Co. D; Nathan Beers, Campbell club; and John Weisel, Steiwer hall. Both the air corps and Co. A have two candidates because of the size of their units in comparison with other men's living organizations.

The elections will take place Thursday between 10 and 5 in front of the Side. A girl will be there at all times to assist in voting.

Voters, which consist of all those girls who purchased tickets for the Heart Hop, may write their choice on one half of the ticket, tear it off and place it in the box. No one will know the results of the contest until the coronation of the King of Hearts at the Delta Gamma house, Friday night at 10 o'clock.

All Co-op Mixer Set; G. I.'s Invited Too

Sponsored jointly by the ASTU and the co-operative living organizations on the campus, and centralized around the theme "Abraham's Brawl", an all-co-op mixer is scheduled for Saturday, February 12, in Gerlinger hall, with all independent and military students invited guests.

Dorothy Jean Carter, all co-op social chairman, is in charge of general arrangements for the no-date affair, and is assisted by a committee composed of both civilian and military personnel. Tye Simpson, versatile Texan of Company A, will be master of ceremonies for the evening, and tentative plans for the event include dances to mix the crowd.

Student Aid Need Seen

Contribution toward international understanding and friendship through personal contacts between different nationalities is the purpose of the institute of international education in aiding United States students to study abroad and in enabling foreign students to come to the United States, A. Randle Elliott, administrator for the institute, stated during his visit on the campus yesterday afternoon.

"It is very difficult to place students at any institution of higher learning in Oregon because of a legislative requirement which makes it impossible for a college or university to waive tuition fees. Few foreign students are able to pay their own tuition. Also, all government grants for fellowships are limited to those who have already received tuition." Mr. Elliott added that such was also the case in Washington and had been in all the states up to a few years ago when legislation was passed to make allowances in this type of case. "Doubtless the Oregon legislature will do something about this situation as soon as it is brought to their attention," Mr. Elliott continued.

"There is expected to be a sizeable increase in the number of foreign students brought to this country after the war. The number has been placed as high as 500 from each of a number of countries. The University of Oregon would profit greatly from this exchange of students if it were made possible," Mr. Elliott said.

Elections Slated for Thursday

News Girls To be Matrix Honor Guests

Elizabeth Haugen and Dorothy Godknecht, freshman and sophomore in journalism, respectively, have been chosen as outstanding in their classes for the annual formal Matrix Table banquet. Miss Godknecht is active in the campus news bureau and writes a weekly column for the Portland Journal. Miss Haugen is assistant managing editor of The Emerald.

Betty Bushman, University high school, and Jean Wiltshire, Eugene high, will be introduced as outstanding seniors of the Eugene high schools.

The yearly affair is sponsored by Theta chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism honorary, to honor women in the liberal arts and journalism schools. Last year's outstanding sophomore was Marjorie Young, now managing editor of The Emerald, and the outstanding freshman was June Taylor, Portland.

"The Present Challenge to American Writers" is the topic of the address which Mrs. E. H. Hedrick of Medford will give at the banquet. It will be held at the Osborn hotel Friday evening, February 11.

Co-eds to Choose AWS, WAA, YWCA Heads

Ever since women's suffrage the women have been the power behind the ballot. In the course of depletion of civilian males on the campus the women have become all important in politics.

This Thursday at 11 a. m. in the main gym of Gerlinger, three all-coed annual elections of campus importance will be held—the Associated Women Students, Women's Athletic association, and the Young Women's Christian association.

One-Act Plays In by March 13

All entries in the one-act play contest sponsored by Odeon must be in by March 13, according to Norris Yates, chairman of the committee.

The winning play will be presented at the second annual Odeon in the music auditorium on April 8 at 8 p. m. All entries should be turned in to Mrs. A. H. Ernst, associate professor of English.

Besides the presentation of one play, the two or three next best plays will be bound and placed on exhibit.

According to Horace W. Robinson, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts, who will have charge of the play's production, any work which will be considered should contain as few parts for men as possible, owing to the preponderance of women.

"Moreover, it should contain only one scene, and that one should

AWS elections concern every woman student on the campus and all are eligible to vote. Members only may vote for WAA and YWCA and membership cards should be presented at the time of voting which will be simultaneous with AWS elections.

Voting routine is planned as follows: Voter goes to table headed by the initial of her last name and is registered, given a ballot. She marks it and puts it in the ballot box. There will be separate ballots for each organization.

Nominees will be presented at the time of voting and not before as these elections are absolutely non political. Miki Campbell, president of AWS has stated.

Soldier-Judges Pick Cover-Girl Finalists

After much pondering, the soldier-judges for the Emerald cover-girl contest picked six finalists who were presented at the Military Ball Saturday night.

Annual Mid-Winter Gleemen Concert Will Feature Broadway Guest Soloist

Highlight of the annual mid-winter Eugene Gleemen concert to be held tonight will be Hal Young, well-known Eugene tenor who is to be guest soloist with the group. Young played the lead in "Student Prince" on Broadway and has traveled in companies presenting "Naughty Marietta", "Desert Song", and "New Moon".

The concert will begin at 8:15 in McArthur court with University students admitted on their activity cards and servicemen will be admitted free. John Stark Evans, professor of organ and theory of music, is conductor of the group.

The concert will feature selections from light opera for tenor and male chorus. Old favorites, some American folk tunes, and others fitting in with the war time are also included.

Proceeds from the concert will be given to the county infantile paralysis fund. This is the first home concert of the year for the chorus although they sang last week at Monmouth. "Our reception at Monmouth was wonderful," Gleemen officers stated.

The program is as follows:
